Revolution Plus Love Literary History Womens Bodies And Thematic Repetition In Twentieth Century Chinese Fiction:

Revolution Plus Love Liu Jianmei, 2003-09-30 In the aftermath of the May Fourth movement a growing expectation of revolution raised important intellectual issues about the position of the individual within a society in turmoil and the shifting boundaries of political and sexual identities The theme of revolution plus love a literary response to the widespread insurrections and upheaval was first popularized in the late 1920s In her examination of this popular but understudied literary formula Liu Jianmei argues that revolution and love are culturally variable entities their interplay a complex and constantly changing literary practice that is socially and historically determined Liu looks at the formulary writing of revolution plus love from the 1930s to the 1970s as a case study of literary politics Favored by leftist writers during the early period of revolutionary literature it continued to influence mainstream Chinese literature up to the 1970s By drawing a historical picture of the articulation and rearticulation of this theme Liu shows how changes in revolutionary discourse force unpredictable representations of gender rules and power relations and how women s bodies reveal the complex interactions between political representation and gender roles Revolution Plus Love is a nuanced and carefully considered work on gender and modernity in China unmatched in its broad use of literary resources It will be of considerable interest to scholars and students of modern Chinese literature women s studies cultural studies and comparative literature Gendering

Chinese Religion Jinhua Jia, Xiaofei Kang, Ping Yao, 2014-07-30 Gendering Chinese Religion marks the emergence of a subfield on women gender and religion in China studies Ranging from the medieval period to the present day this volume departs from the conventional and often male centered categorization of Chinese religions into Confucianism Buddhism Daoism and popular religion It makes two compelling arguments First Chinese women have deployed specific religious ideas and rituals to empower themselves in various social contexts Second gendered perceptions and representations of Chinese religions have been indispensable to the historical and contemporary construction of social and political power The contributors use innovative ways of discovering and applying a rich variety of sources many previously ignored by scholars While each of the chapters in this interdisciplinary work represents a distinct perspective together they form a coherent dialogue about the historical importance intellectual possibilities and methodological protocols of this new subfield

Religion, Secularism, and Love as a Political Discourse in Modern China Ting Guo, 2025-10-01 What is the meaning of love in modern Chinese politics Why has ai love been a crucial political discourse for secular nationalism for generations of political leaders as a powerful instrument to the present day This book offers the first systematic examination of the ways in which the notion of love has been introduced adapted and engineered as a political discourse for the building and rebuilding of a secular modern nation all the while appropriating Confucianism Christianity popular religion ghost stories political religion and their religious affects The insights of this exploration expand not only the discussion of the role of emotions in the project of Chinese modernity but also the study of affective governance and religious nationalisms around the world today

Gender and Food in Transnational East Asias Eric Ping Hung Li, Chikako Nagayama, Jooyeon Rhee, 2021-10-12 Gender and Food in Transnational East Asias illustrates how the production and consumption of food impacts the changing social positions of individuals and their relationships with their families the state and their work as well as shapes their gender sexual ethnic and national identities The transnational movement of food and people between East Asia and the rest of the world is increasingly visible forming various forces behind the cultural and political constructions of gender politics among and beyond Asian diasporas It argues that a critical engagement with practices and representations of food from gender perspectives can enhance our understanding of the society and culture of transnational East Asia

Contested Environmentalisms Cheng Li, 2025-01-21 For decades tree planting and forestry have been pivotal to Chinese environmentalism During the Mao era while forests were razed to fuel rapid increases in industrial production the Greening the Motherland campaign promoted conservationist tree planting nationwide Contested Environmentalisms explores the seemingly contradictory rhetoric and desires of Chinese conservation from the early twentieth century through to the present Drawing on literary cinematic scientific archival and digital media sources Cheng Li investigates the emergence evolution and devolution of Chinese conservationist ideas Combining literary historical and environmental studies approaches he shows that these ideas acquired their value and assumed their power precisely because of their malleability and adaptability Li historicizes authoritarian environmentalism and probes the global local dynamics underlying conservationist ideas that energize environmental impulses in China Examining ethnic borderlands the Beijing political center and China's growth on the world stage this book demonstrates the strength of Chinese environmentalism to adapt and survive through tumultuous change lies in what seems to be a weakness its inconsistency and contestation
