Satellite Orbits In An Atmosphere Theory And Application:

Satellite Orbits in an Atmosphere D.G. King-Hele, 1987-08-31 Theory of Satellite Orbits in an Atmosphere Desmond King-Hele, 1964 Theory of Orbital Motion Arjun Tan, 2008 Abstract Satellite Orbits Oliver Montenbruck, Eberhard Gill, 2012-12-06

Satellite Orbits Models Methods and Applications has been written as a comprehensive textbook that guides the reader through the theory and practice of satellite orbit prediction and determination. Starting from the basic principles of orbital mechanics it covers elaborate force models as well as precise methods of satellite tracking and their mathematical treatment. A multitude of numerical algorithms used in present day satellite trajectory computation is described in detail with proper focus on numerical integration and parameter estimation. The wide range of levels provided renders the book suitable for an advanced undergraduate or graduate course on spaceflight mechanics up to a professional reference in navigation, geodesy and space science. Furthermore, we hope that it is considered useful by the increasing number of satellite engineers and operators trying to obtain a deeper understanding of flight dynamics. The idea for this book emerged when we realized that documentation on the methods, models and tools of orbit determination was either spread over numerous technical and scientific publications or hidden in software descriptions that are not in general accessible to a wider community. Having worked for many years in the field of spaceflight dynamics and satellite operations, we tried to keep in close touch with questions and problems that arise during daily work and to stress the practical aspects of orbit determination. Nevertheless, our interest in the underlying physics motivated us to present topics from first principles and make the book much more than just a cookbook on spacecraft trajectory computation.

Thermospheric Density and Wind Determination from Satellite Dynamics Eelco Doornbos, 2012-01-19

The Earth's atmosphere is often portrayed as a thin and finite blanket covering our planet, separate from the emptiness of outer space. In reality, the transition is gradual and a tiny fraction of the atmosphere gases is still present at the altitude of low orbiting satellites. The very high velocities of these satellites ensure that their orbital motion can still be considerably affected by air density and wind. This influence can be measured using accelerometers and satellite tracking techniques. The opening chapters of this thesis provide an excellent introduction to the various disciplines that are involved in the interpretation of these observations: orbital mechanics, satellite aerodynamics and upper atmospheric physics. A subsequent chapter at the heart of this work covers advances in the algorithms used for processing satellite accelerometry and Two Line Element (TLE) orbit data. The closing chapters provide an elaborate analysis of the resulting density and wind products, which are generating many opportunities for further research to improve the modelling and understanding of the thermosphere system and its interactions with the lower atmosphere, the ionosphere, magnetosphere system and the Sun.
