Savanna Ecology And Management Australian Perspectives And Intercontinental Comparisons:

Savanna Ecology and Management Patricia A. Werner, 1990 Savanna Ecology and Management P. A.

Werner, 2009-07-15 This volume is the fifth in a series of publications produced over the last five years on the ecology of tropical savannas. The volumes arise from work undertaken by the Responses of Savannas to Stress and Disturbance RSSD Program under the auspices of the International Union of Biological Sciences IUBS Decade of the Tropics Programme co-sponsored by the UNESCO Man and the Biosphere MAB Program. Savannas cover just under one third of the world's land surface and contain a large and rapidly growing proportion of the world's population as well as the majority of its rangelands and livestock. Most savannas are experiencing increasing pressures from demographic and economic changes that have increased dramatically over the past few decades. In addition to the changing patterns in demography and economics and the forecasts of global warming further alert us to the most important challenge to conserve and manage wisely the savanna ecosystems of the world. It is this conservation that forms the basis of the work of the RSSD Program. This fifth publication is comprised of research papers presented at the RSSD's international symposium held in Darwin Australia in 1988. The papers address the Australian perspective and intercontinental comparisons and come from an international expert authorship.

Tropical Forage Plants W.D. Pitman, Antonio Sotomayor-Rios, 2000-11-28 Tropical Forage Plants Development and Use covers the research and resulting pasture development in the tropics and subtropics which has undergone dramatic changes in the past few decades. Providing a broad global perspective it serves as a comprehensive resource covering a wide range of subjects pertaining to forage and animal production in the tropics and subtropics.

The ^AOxford Companion to Global Change Andrew

Goudie, David Cuff, 2008-11-21 The Oxford Companion to Global Change is a fresh look at the world and the compelling environmental issues of the early 21st century including global warming and its technical and regional implications as well as the prospects for current energy supplies and the promise of new technologies. In one convenient volume it brings together current knowledge about the relations between technological, social, demographic, economic and political factors as well as biological, chemical and physical systems. It is an essential reference work for law and policy practitioners, researchers and other professionals seeking to understand any aspect of global change.

World Savannas Jayalaxshmi Mistry, Andrea

Beradi, 2014-09-15 An interdisciplinary text on the world's savannas covering the geography, ecology, economics and politics of savanna regions. Savannas are a distinct vegetation type covering a third of the world's land surface area and supporting a fifth of the world's population. There has been a wide range of literature on the subject but the majority of work has focused on the ecology or development of savanna areas ignoring the wider interdisciplinary issues affecting contemporary savannas. World Savannas aims to buck this trend providing students with an up to date and comprehensive introduction to the global importance of savannas.

Environmental Management in Practice: Vol 3 Paul Compton, Dimitri Devuyt, Luc Hens, Bhaskar

Nath, 2013-01-11 Volume 3 Managing the Ecosystem focuses on those ecosystems in which human intervention has been or continues to be predominant specifically within cities and rural areas The Nature of Northern Australia John Woinarski, Brendan Mackey, Henry Nix, Barry Traill, 2007-07-01 Northern Australia stands out as one of the largest natural areas remaining on Earth alongside such global treasures as the Amazon rainforests the boreal conifer forests of Alaska and Canada and the polar wilderness of Antarctica Nature remains in abundance in the North Its intact tropical savannas rainforests and free flowing rivers provide a basis for much of the economic activity and the quality of life for residents of the area THE NATURE OF NORTHERN AUSTRALIA details the latest science on the Northern environment With increasing debate over the future of Australias often forgotten North this is a timely examination of its environmental significance the ecological processes that make it function and the economies that are compatible with maintaining healthy communities and people and healthy country into the future Invasion Biology and Ecological Theory Herbert H. T. Prins, Iain J. Gordon, 2014-01-23 Many conservationists argue that invasive species form one of the most important threats to ecosystems the world over often spreading quickly through their new environments and jeopardising the conservation of native species As such it is important that reliable predictions can be made regarding the effects of new species on particular habitats This book provides a critical appraisal of ecosystem theory using case studies of biological invasions in Australasia Each chapter is built around a set of eleven central hypotheses from community ecology which were mainly developed in North American or European contexts The authors examine the hypotheses in the light of evidence from their particular species testing their power in explaining the success or failure of invasion and accepting or rejecting each hypothesis as appropriate The conclusions have far reaching consequences for the utility of community ecology suggesting a rejection of its predictive powers and a positive reappraisal of natural history Savannas and Dry Forests Andrea Berardi, 2017-05-15 Parched landscapes biodiversity loss encroaching deserts and deforestation are some of the environmental crises taking place in tropical savannas and dry forests throughout the world To date much research into these regions has treated humans as outside or as an impact only However over and over again examples show that in fact humans are not external factors but integral components of these systems Humans are key determinants of savannas and dry forests affecting patterns and processes as well as impacts on natural resources Unless we understand the human environment relationship in these regions we will never truly identify the causes or be able to provide solutions This book therefore focuses on the roles of the past present and future human perceptions and actions on savannas and dry forests It examines how the views of local farmers NGO workers government officials and international scientists differ on the links between the social and ecological components of savannas It deals with these multiple perspectives by using systems diagramming and conceptual modelling to provide a clearer and more explicit understanding and to promote better communication between the various actors concerned Human Adaptability Emilio F. Moran, 2022-05-09 Designed to help students understand the multiple levels at which human populations respond to their surroundings this essential text offers the most complete discussion of environmental physiological behavioral and cultural adaptive strategies available Among the unique features that make Human Adaptability outstanding as both a textbook for students and a reference book for professionals are a complete discussion of the development of ecological anthropology and relevant research methods the use of an ecosystem approach with emphasis on arctic high altitude arid land grassland tropical rain forest and urban environments an extensive and updated bibliography on ecological anthropology and a comprehensive glossary of technical terms There is enhanced emphasis throughout on the role of gender in human adaptability research and on global environmental change as it affects particular ecosystems Students are guided to websites that provide access to relevant material complement the text s coverage of biomes and suggest ways to become active in environmental issues The fourth edition includes updated material on climate change and environmental policy This book is essential reading for students undertaking courses in environmental anthropology and human ecology
