Scenes From Russian Life:

Foreign Plays in English New York Public Library,1920 Recording Russia Gabriella Safran,2022-11-15 Recording Russia examines scenes of listening to the people across a variety of texts by Russian writers and European travelers to Russia Gabriella Safran challenges readings of these works that essentialize Russia as a singular place where communication between the classes is consistently fraught arguing instead that as in the West the sense of separation or connection between intellectuals and those they interviewed or observed is as much about technology and performance as politics and emotions Nineteenth century writers belonged to a distinctive media generation using new communication technologies not bells but mechanically produced paper cataloguing systems telegraphy and stenography Russian writers and European observers of Russia in this era described themselves and their characters as trying hard to listen to and record the laboring and emerging middle classes They depicted scenes of listening as contests where one listener bests another at times the contest is between two sides of the same person They sometimes described Russia as an ideal testing ground for listening because of its extreme cold and silence As the mid century generation witnessed the social changes of the 1860s and 1870s their listening scenes revealed increasing skepticism about the idea that anyone could accurately identify or record the unadulterated voice of the people Bringing together intellectual history and literary analysis and drawing on ideas from linguistic anthropology and sound and media studies Recording Russia looks at how writers folklorists and linguists such as Turgenev Dostoevsky and Vladimir Dahl as well as foreign visitors thought about the possibilities and meanings of listening to and repeating other people s words Classified Catalogue Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh,1914 Classified Catalogue of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh Pittsburgh, Pa.
