The true story of the childhood and therapy of an incest survivor Jacqueline Spring was born into a Glaswegian family that appeared conventionally at ease both emotionally and materially But the picture that emerges here in letters to her mother in poems and narration is one of pain and immense bewilderment caused by her father s sexual advances The frightened compliant child was pressured by family silence never to refer to what was going on inside or outside the family It was only years later in therapy an experience that was to be profoundly transforming that she began to confront her own psychological mutilation Her therapist Eve through her warmth and acceptance helped Jacqueline to rid herself of her guilt and self hatred
