Smart Chicks on Screen Laura Mattoon D'Amore, 2014-09-08 While women have long been featured in leading roles in film and television the intellectual depictions of female characters in these mediums are out of line with reality Women continue to be marginalized for their choices overshadowed by men and judged by their bodies In fact the intelligence of women is rarely the focus of television or film narratives and on the rare occasion when smart women are showcased their portrayals are undermined by socially awkward behavior or their intimate relationships are doomed to perpetual failure While Hollywood claims to offer a different more evolved look at women these movies and shows often just repackage old character types that still downplay the intelligence and savvy of women In Smart Chicks on Screen Representing Women's Intellect in Film and Television Laura Mattoon D'Amore brings together an impressive array of scholarship that interrogates the portrayal of females on television and in movies Among the questions that the volume seeks to answer are In what ways are women in film and television limited or ostracized by their intelligence How do female roles reinforce standards of beauty submissiveness and silence over intellect problem solving and leadership Are there women in film and television who are intelligent without also being objectified The thirteen essays by international interdisciplinary scholars offer a wide range of perspectives examining the connections and disconnections between beauty and brains in film and television Smart Chicks on Screen will be of interest to scholars not only of film and television but of women's studies

crafting these largely unconscious practices She shows that hearing is far more complex than is often assumed and that it depends on competencies that extend beyond the ear In so doing Maslen explodes myths of genius and natural talent and the idea that certain skills are the province of particular kinds of people Overcoming the distance between insiders and outsiders requires access to the collective support that cultivates seemingly natural sense abilities Learning to Hear examines vivid and varied cases such as how doctors listen for a heart murmur how musicians build the skills to play along with others how adventurers sense dangers like melting ice or falling rocks while climbing and how telegraph operators develop a feel for Morse code A deeply original exploration of the cultivation of hearing this book offers a new approach to embodied experience

Television and the Genetic Imaginary Sofia Bull,2019-05-30 This book examines the complex ways in which television articulates ideas about DNA in the early 21st century Considering television's distinct aesthetic and narrative forms as well as its specific cultural roles it identifies TV as a key site for the genetic imaginary The book addresses the key themes of complexity and kinship which function as nodes around which older essentialist notions about the human genome clash with newly emergent post genomic sensibilities Analysing a wide range of US and UK programmes from science documentaries science fiction serials and crime procedurals to family history programmes sitcoms and reality shows Television and the Genetic Imaginary illustrates the extent to which molecular frameworks of understanding now permeate popular culture

The Cinema and Its Shadow Alice Maurice,2013-03-15 The Cinema and Its Shadow argues that race has defined the cinematic apparatus since the earliest motion pictures especially at times of technological transition In particular this work explores how racial difference became central to the resolving of cinematic problems the stationary camera narrative form realism the synchronization of image and sound and perhaps most fundamentally the immaterial image the cinema's shadow which figures both the material reality of the screen image and its racist past Discussing early race subjects Alice Maurice demonstrates that these films influenced cinematic narrative in lasting ways by helping to determine the relation between stillness and motion spectacle and narrative drive The book examines how motion picture technology related to race embodiment and authenticity at specific junctures in cinema's development including the advent of narratives feature films and sound In close readings of such films as The Cheat Shadows and Hallelujah Maurice reveals how the rhetoric of race repeatedly embodies film technology endowing it with a powerful mix of authenticity and magic In this way the racialized subject became the perfect medium for showing off shoring up and reintroducing the cinematic apparatus at various points in the history of American film Moving beyond analyzing race in purely thematic or ideological terms Maurice traces how it shaped the formal and technological means of the cinema

Medical Visions Kirsten Osther,2013-04-11 How do visual images shape the practice of medicine What role does visual representation play in the cultivation of medical ways of seeing And how has medicine's visual culture changed in the digital age Kirsten Osther's ambitious study explores 120 years of medical image making to explain how visual representations shape medical education and practice Marshaling powerful vivid examples she demonstrates how medical images created by the healthcare industry documentary filmmakers experimental artists and the mass media acquire cultural meaning and influence doctors and patients understandings of health and disease Her analysis proceeds chronologically turning from the earliest experiments with medical filmmaking by the American College of Surgeons to the place of health films in the golden age of instructional film in the 1960s Ostherr considers the shift to television as the dominant medium of health education highlighting the evolving status of realism the techniques employed to bridge the entertainment education divide the role of expert consultants and sponsors and the tradeoffs made by professionals to reach a broad audience The rise of physician advice segments on newsmagazines forms a transition between medical dramas like Marcus Welby MD and more recent reality shows like Boston Med and Doctor 90210 Concluding with a section on advertising and social media in the health care setting the book ends with ten key lessons for the future of medical media

Teratologies Jackie Stacey, 2013-07-23 Stories of cancer are full of monster and marvels the monstrosity of the disease and the treatments the marvels of the cures and the saved lives Still one of the most dreaded diseases to haunt our imaginations cancer is more than an illness it is a cultural phenomenon People who have cancer are bombarded with competing explanations of their conditions it is genetically inherited it is environmentally produced it is the result of their personality Teratologies A Cultural Study of Cancer investigates how this disease is perceived experienced and theorised in contemporary society It explores changing beliefs about the causes of and the cures for cancer in both biomedicine and its increasingly popular alternative counterparts Analysing conventional and alternative medical accounts self help manuals and patients personal stories Jackie Stacey takes a critical look at the place of heroes metaphors the self and the body in these competing bids to produce the authoritative definition of the meaning of cancer today Interspersed with these detailed textual investigations are discussions of broader issues such as the feminist debates about the history of science the place of consumer culture in health practices and the status of patients and of health professionals in postmodern society Combining autobiographical narratives with contemporary theoretical debates the author carves out a specifically feminist analysis of the cultural dimensions of cancer She brings accounts of her own illness under the critical lens of academic scrutiny and situates these personal stories within a discussion of contemporary cultural change

Edinburgh Companion to the Critical Medical Humanities Anne Whitehead, 2016-06-14 In this landmark Companion expert contributors from around the world map out the field of the critical medical humanities This is the first volume to introduce comprehensively the ways in which interdisciplinary thinking across the humanities and social sciences might contribute to critique and develop medical understanding of the human individually and collectively The thirty six newly commissioned chapters range widely within and across disciplinary fields always alert to the intersections between medicine as broadly defined and critical thinking Each chapter offers suggestions for further reading on the issues raised and each section concludes with an Afterword written by a leading critic outlining future possibilities for cutting edge work in this area Topics covered in this volume include the affective body biomedicine blindness breath disability early modern medical practice fatness the genome language madness narrative race systems biology performance the postcolonial public health touch twins voice and wonder Together the chapters generate a body of new knowledge and make a decisive intervention into how health medicine and clinical care might address questions of individual subjective and embodied experience      The Gaze of the X-Ray Shahram Khosravi,2024-01-05 Since its invention in the late nineteenth century the penetrating gaze of the X ray has changed our vision of the inside of the human body After we started to see inside ourselves the relationship between ourselves and our bodies changed forever As a progression in medical science X ray technology was fashioned to maintain and save life However as the contributors to this volume show it has been a device of ruination as well They visualise the traces and the pattern of violence practised by the states racial capitalism colonial racism and sexism By juxtaposing different cases across time and space this collection demonstrates a set of relations between civilization and ruination      The Visible Human Project Catherine Waldby,2003-09-02 The Visible Human Project examines how the VHP provides visual access to every organ of the body viewable from every angle and capable of being manipulated to simulate living processes like respiration      Visions of illness Maud Radstake,2007
