A Living Landscape Stijn Arnoldussen, 2008 Today half the Netherlands is below sea level Because of this water management is of key importance when it comes to maintaining present day habitation of the Dutch low lands In prehistory however large parts of the Dutch landscape were highly dynamic due to ongoing fluvial sedimentation Vast deltaic areas with ceaseless river activity formed the backdrop against which prehistoric occupation took place Although such landscapes may seem inhospitable the often excellently preserved archaeological evidence indicates that people lived in these lowlands throughout prehistory This book describes why Bronze Age farmers were keen to settle here and how these prehistoric communities structured the landscape around their house sites at various scales Using a vast body of evidence from several large scale excavations in the Dutch river area the author reconstructs the changes in the cultural landscape over time Starting from the Middle Neolithic changing preferences for settlement site locations and changes in domestic architecture are traced in detail to the Iron Age However for proper understanding of the cultural landscape not only settlements but also graves and patterns of object deposition and their landscape characteristics are discussed By using evidence from over 50 major excavations yielding over 300 house plans this book contains by far the richest data set on

Dutch Bronze Age settlements Most of these results have not previously been published in English making this book of over 500 pages a true academic treasure for an international audience The in depth presentation of Bronze Age settlement sites as well as the critical discussion of models and premises current in later prehistoric settlement archaeology have an important relevance stretching beyond the Dutch lowland areas on which it is based The wealth of high quality Dutch data is presented as a synthesized yet well annotated narrative that rises above mere site interpretation even more so due to its landscape scale focus Therefore this book is a must have for those interested in later prehistoric cultural landscapes and settlement archaeology Billboard ,1996-08-10 In its 114th year Billboard remains the world s premier weekly music publication and

Fontijn,2010 The hills overlooking the north flank of the Rhine valley in the Netherlands are dotted with hundreds of prehistoric burial mounds Only a few of them were ever investigated by archaeologists and even nowadays the many barrows preserved in the extensive forests of the Utrechtse Heuvelrug are the oldest visible witnesses of a remote but largely unknown prehistoric past In 2006 a team of archaeologists of the Ancestral Mounds project of Leiden University set out to investigate these age old monuments Parts of two mounds at Elst in the municipality of Rhenen were excavated and numerous finds collected by amateur archaeologists were retrieved and studied As a result the research team was able to reconstruct the formation and histories of this barrow landscape from 2000 BC onwards Contrary to what was initially thought the Elst barrows appeared not to have been situated within a separate ceremonial landscape but were rather closely linked with the world of daily living Throughout the Bronze Age and Iron Age people had been living near the dead The finds discussed in this book include a rare example of an Early Bronze Age burial mound examples of pottery deposition remains of a Middle Bronze Age Hilversum Period settlement and many indications for mundane and ritual uses of the barrows in the later Iron Age Dr David Fontijn is associate professor in European prehistory at Leiden University and senior research fellow at the TOPOI excellence cluster in Berlin His research focuses on the Bronze and Iron Age and was awarded several prizes including the Praemium Erasmianum study Prize for his book Sacrificial landscapes

Tropical Africa was one of the last regions of the world to experience formal European colonialism a process that coincided with the advent of a range of new scientific specialties and research methods Africa as a Living Laboratory is a far reaching study of the thorny relationship between imperialism and the role of scientific expertise environmental medical racial and anthropological in the colonization of British Africa A key source for Helen Tilley s analysis is the African Research Survey a project undertaken in the 1930s to explore how modern science was being applied to African problems This project both embraced and recommended an interdisciplinary approach to research on Africa that Tilley argues underscored the heterogeneity of African environments and the interrelations among the problems being studied While the aim of British
