Lucky Strike For God And Other Stories:

A Lucky Strike for God Karen Pietkiewicz, 1995-01-01 The Bus Driver Who Wanted To Be God & Other Stories Etgar Keret, 2015-10-13 Originally published in 2004 by Toby Press The Day My Mother Changed Her Name and Other Stories William D. Kaufman, 2008-08-18 William Kaufman grew up on his mother's kugel and his father's boyhood stories. The son of Jewish immigrants from Lithuania and the Ukraine and one of five children, he learned how to translate his colorful childhood into tales of his own regaling audiences of family friends and eventually his retirement community with periodic public readings. Now at the age of 93, Kaufman makes his stories filled with a sharp wit and telling detail available to a wider audience for the first time. In the title story, a young Jewish boy is shamed by his narrow-minded teacher when she forces him to admit before the whole class that his mother cannot read English. His mother's eventual encounter with the teacher offers a lesson in self-respect with just the right balance of grace and moxie. In The Search for God, in the A, the expedition meets with comic results when the young boy refuses to be bullied in this David and Goliath style parable. These semi-autobiographical stories populated with outsized and magnetic characters subtly layer the specifics of the Jewish experience with universal dilemmas of childhood, growing up, and old age. Afterlife and Other Stories Ed Krizek, 2004-02-05 Afterlife and Other Stories is a collection of moving, poignant, and exciting short stories set mainly in the Philadelphia, PA area. The stories were written and edited with great care over a period of fifteen years. Anyone who has experienced the magic and the heartbreak of living with hope in desperate times will find these stories appealing. Readers who appreciate all aspects of reality, including angst and hope, will relate to this book. The Lamp of Umm Hashim and other stories, 2006 The first of several works in Arabic to deal with the way in which an individual tries to come to terms with two divergent cultures. Together with such figures as the scholar Taha Hussein, the playwright Tawfik al-Hakim, the short story writer Mahmoud Teymour, and of course Naguib Mahfouz, Yahya Hakki belongs to that distinguished band of early writers who, midway through the last century, under the influence of Western literature, began to practice genres of creative writing that were new to the traditions of classical Arabic. In the first story in this volume, the very short Story in the Form of a Petition, Yahya Hakki demonstrates his ease with gentle humor, a form rare in Arabic writing. In the following two stories, Mother of the Destitute and A Story from Prison, he describes, with typical sympathy, individuals who, less privileged than others, somehow manage to scrape through life's hardships. The latter story deals with the people of Upper Egypt, for whom the writer had a special understanding and affection. It is, however, for the title story, in fact more of a novella of this collection, that the writer is best known. Recounting the difficulties faced by a young man who is sent to England to study medicine and who then returns to Egypt to pit his new ideals against tradition, The Lamp of Umm Hashim was the first of several works in Arabic to deal with the way in which an individual tries to come to terms with two divergent cultures. Canadian Books in Print.
