Fantasy Literature for Children and Young Adults Pamela S. Gates, Susan B. Steffel, Francis J. Molson, 2003. Fantasy conjures up images of witches, fairies, dark woods, magic wands, and spells, time travel, ghosts, and dragons. Each of us defines fantasy in a personal way based on our life stories, experiences, hopes, dreams, and fears. Fantasy Literature for Children and Young Adults helps teachers and students of literature to develop their own understandings of this broad genre in order to evaluate and promote the joy of fantasy in their classrooms. An excellent teaching tool, the discussions are organized around three categories of fantasy literature including fairy folktale, mixed fantasy, which includes journey, transformation, talking animal, and magic, and heroic, ethical, and they are supported by well-chosen examples of representative authors, critics, and theorists. With the assumption that the reader has no special knowledge of fantasy literature but has some previous exposure to the study of literature for children and young adults, this book focuses on reviewing texts that illustrate particular types of fantasy literature. The authors have an extensive knowledge of both classic and contemporary children's and YA titles and they offer many insightful observations and details that make a book a particularly good classroom choice. Literature allows us to discuss controversial issues without making judgments; it allows us the opportunity to experience another time and space by providing a new lens through which to view and it offers us a multitude of ways to come to appreciate and embrace the world of fantasy. Fantasy Literature for Children and Young Adults will help teachers and other readers to deepen their knowledge, appreciation, and pedagogical understandings of fantasy literature.

Salvation in Celluloid Robert Pope, 2007-10. Much work in the field of theology and film lacks a really theological focus. This book suggests a methodology based on the recognition of the imagination as the fundamental category in producing and interpreting film. The argument is presented that the imagination holds theological significance when it is conceived of in certain ways. As a result, the book adopts the paradigmatic imagination, an imagination which works within the paradigms of scripture or theological imagination, one grounded in theological forms which is both noetic; it is the image-making faculty of the mind, and almost ontological; it is that which draws human beings into the future which they are able to construct or bring into being. Once the theological paradigmatic imagination has been identified and justified, its insights will be applied to Jesus films and Christ figure films, asking whether or not they provide us with valid Christological understanding. Films with redemptive or salvific themes are discussed, as is the popularity of mythical stories and animation. The final chapter will make the case that the engagement of the theological imagination with film is a method in practical theology.

Past Watchful Dragons Walter Hooper, 2007-08-01. I thought I saw how stories of this kind could steal past a certain inhibition which had paralysed much of my own religion in childhood Why did one find it so hard to feel as one was told one ought to feel about God or about the sufferings of Christ I thought the chief reason was that one was told one ought to An obligation to feel can freeze feelings And reverence itself did harm The whole subject was associated with lowered voices almost as if it were something medical But supposing that by casting all these things into an imaginary world stripping them of their stained glass and Sunday school associations one could make them for the first time appear in their real potency Could one not steal past those watchful dragons I thought one could C S Lewis on The Chronicles of Narnia delete this note keep dragons sentence in bold
