Preparing Your Faith For College Living And Growing In What You Believe:

Preparing Your Faith for College Eden Foord, Katherine Foord, 2004-07-08 Skydiving is an apt metaphor for going to college. In Preparing Your Faith for College, readers work through the process of preparation for the leap into the great unknown as it applies to one's faith. The authors, both experienced youth ministers familiar with the needs and challenges facing high school and college students, present practical concerns and suggestions related to the role of faith in making the transition from high school to college. Using a step-by-step approach based on preparations for making a jump from an airplane, Preparing Your Faith for College helps the student to prepare carefully for the adventure of going to college, including developing and nurturing one's faith. Each chapter contains a Scripture verse, reflection about college life and faith, reflection questions, space for students to record their thoughts and feelings, and action steps that give students concrete ways to work toward successful faith transition. Edgy chapter titles: Choose Your Landing Site, Target College, and Pull the Ripcord. Your Faith are two examples. It introduces topics such as choosing a school, dealing with anxiety, making college connections even before arriving on campus, and making the Catholic faith one's own, not just your parents' faith.
