Rd Cooperation Among Marketplace Competitors:

R&D Cooperation Among Marketplace Competitors William Murphy, 1991 Cooperative activities or joint ventures are becoming increasingly popular as instruments of strategic action. But although more and more companies are entering into these alliances full of hope and enthusiasm, past experience shows that most will likely experience the disillusionment of having their ventures fall apart. William Murphy contends that our understanding of the strategic management of collective action needs improvement if the hoped-for benefits of cooperation are to be realized. In this work, he examines the management of a specific type of cooperative action that has become critically important to company and national competitiveness: the cooperative research venture. Murphy thoroughly details this new class of inter-firm cooperation to produce knowledge which has only recently been made possible by changes in the competitive and legal environments. He begins with an introduction and review of the prior literature on cooperative ventures, followed by an extensive survey of competition and cooperation. The management challenges of cooperative research, particularly the need to forge a consensus among participants, are examined in a brief chapter which precedes four studies of specific cooperative ventures: the Chemical Industry Institute of Toxicology, the Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corporation, Sematech, and U.S. Memories. A final chapter draws conclusions and lessons from the examples, and three appendixes detail antitrust laws applicable to cooperative ventures. Japanese and European microelectronic and computer ventures and cooperative ventures under NCRA. This work will be an important resource for executives and managers in companies involved in research and development, as well as for college courses in business and economics. Public and academic libraries will also find it to be a valuable addition to their collections.

Collaboration Among Competing Managed Care Organizations for Quality Improvement Institute of Medicine, The National Roundtable on Health Care Quality, 1999-02-09 In November 1997, The Institute of Medicine convened a one-day conference to explore areas for potential collaboration to improve quality among competing health plans consistent with antitrust and other legal requirements. The conference was convened to clarify the limits of such potential activities and to explore ways to stimulate collaboration in short to explore permissible and promising areas for collaboration for competing health plans Competition has existed at the provider level in the pre managed care era and continues among physicians physician groups and hospitals today What is new is the extent of competition at the managed care organization level in individual regional markets As large numbers of individuals are enrolled in health plans the potential for new forms of cooperation for improving quality of care becomes possible Along with these new possibilities however come questions about whether they bring the potential for antitrust violation U.S. Industrial Outlook for ...

Defossez, 2022-05-30 The book starts from the premise that the current aviation framework in Brazil cannot sustain a full liberalisation in the long run While the competition rules in place offer a strong framework which only requires small modifications these rules are not enough to foster a healthy liberalisation In fact until recently Brazilian airlines were operating in a homogenous market where competition was artificial This artificial competition obtained through the imposition of a legal obligation to provide water and a snack and grant a 23kg bag allowance has resulted in a highly concentrated domestic market with very few players Compared to other same size markets such as China or India Brazil is far behind in terms of airlines operating at national level Consequently the opening of the domestic market must be closely regulated to avoid national carriers suffocating under external pressure For this reason state intervention during the liberalisation process is crucial State intervention is also with regard to the protection of passengers The other major problem is the protection framework for passengers which is much too uncertain and burdensome In a sense it is detrimental to the domestic market and passengers Indeed there is no harmonisation of passenger compensation leading to contradictory judgments and possible high moral damages which hinders legal certainty for airlines Compared to the situation in the EU in Brazil airlines have a limited range of defences which are often dismissed by courts This book therefore critically analyses the policies and regulations in place by mainly comparing the Brazilian framework to the European one This choice has been motivated by the fact that European liberalisation is considered the best so far and as Brazil is starting this process much later it could benefit from the European experience This book will be of particular interest to scholars and practitioners
