Reaching Out Her Young Children Learning:

Understanding How Young Children Learn Wendy L. Ostroff, 2012-08-24 Human beings are born to learn. During the last few decades, developmental science has exploded with discoveries of how specifically learning happens. This provides us with an unprecedented window into children's minds: how and when they begin to think, perceive, understand, and apply knowledge. Wendy Ostroff builds on this research and shows you how to harness the power of the brain, the most powerful learning machine in the universe. She highlights the processes that inspire or propel learning: play, confidence, self-regulation, movement, mnemonic strategies, metacognition, articulation, and collaboration, and distills the research into a synthesis of the most important takeaway ideas that teachers will need as they design their curriculum and pedagogy. Each chapter has suggested activities for exactly how teachers can put theory into practice in the classroom. When you understand how your students learn, you will know how to teach them in ways that harness the brain's natural learning systems. Dr. Wendy L. Ostroff is Associate Professor in the Program for the Advancement of Learning at Curry College. Learning Environments for Young Children

Sandra Feinberg, Joan F. Kushner, Sari Feldman, 1998 The vision of Learning Environments for Young Children: Rethinking Library Spaces and Services is about learning families and community where the public library presents a community-based educational setting in which librarians serve as educators, guides, coaches, and facilitators of lifelong active learning access for children to enriching, satisfying, and developmentally appropriate resources and learning opportunities: diverse collections, programs, and technical resources for young children and the adults in their lives; programs and resources that encourage children's focused participation, creativity, critical thinking, cooperation, and problem solving; and a nonjudgmental, integrated, and interdisciplinary approach to lifelong learning, developing the whole person, child or adult. Included in Learning Environments for Young Children are field-tested measuring instruments that you and your staff can use to conduct a qualitative assessment of your library's children's services. These ready-to-use forms will help you collect information that will highlight the importance of early childhood services in presentations to funding sources, trustees, and other key stakeholders. Helping Children Learn About Domestic Abuse and Coercive Control

Catherine Lawler, Abigail Sterne, Nicky Armstrong, 2020-10-23 This beautifully illustrated and sensitively written storybook and accompanying professional guide have been created to help young children understand about domestic abuse and coercive control. Floss is a happy little puppy who loves going to Doggy Daycare and playing with her best friend Houdini. The story explores how things change when her Mum's new friend Boss comes into their lives. Floss's story supports children who have experienced domestic abuse and trauma as they make sense of their feelings, teaching them to seek help and stay safe. The supporting guidebook helps adults to work through the story effectively, putting the professional in a position to have important conversations with children about what to do if something at home does not feel right. This set can be used to address the topic of domestic abuse and coercive control with individuals, small groups, and whole classes, enabling dialogue.

around a sensitive issue Offers activities for supporting children safety planning strategies and guidance for taking on a key adult role Can be used to support the PSHE curriculum particularly around the topic of healthy relationships This set is a vital tool for teachers social care staff therapists and other professionals working to teach young children about domestic abuse and coercive control It provides an important vehicle for talking to children about staying safe and their emotional wellbeing Research in Education ,1973 Facilitating Children'S Learning In The Eyfs Langston, Ann,2013-10-01 This book will address a range of issues pertinent and prominent in the revised EYFS including brain development school readiness engaging parents and the rationale behind the new prime and specific areas of learning
