Reader In The History Of Aphasia From Franz Gall To Norman Geschwind:

Reader in the History of Aphasia Paul Eling, 1994-01-01 The study of language and the brain is heavily dependent on the work of the early aphasiologists and those wanting to get acquainted with the discipline will come across frequent references to these classic authors This collection brings together seminal publications by 19th and 20th century neurologists concerned with the relationship between language and the brain In selecting texts the emphasis was on those parts that deal explicitly with the opinion of an author on language processes as revealed by aphasic phenomena All texts are presented in English many of them translated for the first time and preceded by in depth introductions by present day specialists in the field The book includes biographical sketches of the authors discussed and bibliographies of their relevant publications This volume is invaluable for professionals and students who prefer to read the originals instead of leaning on textbook summaries Texts by Franz Joseph Gall 1758 1828 Claus Heeschen Paul Broca 1824 1880 Paul Eling Carl Wernicke 1848 1905 Antoine Keyser Henry Charlton Bastian 1837 1915 John C Marshall John Hughlings Jackson 1835 1911 Bento P M Schulte Sigmund Freud 1856 1939 O R Hommes Jules Dejerine 1849 1917 W O Renier Pierre Marie 1853 1940 Yvan Lebrun Arnold Pick 1851 1924 A D Friederici Henry Head 1861 1940 Patrick Hudson Kurt Goldstein 1878 1965 Ria de Bleser Norman Geschwind 1926 1984 Mary Louise Kean

Some Aspects of Moroccan Arabic Agrammatism Samir Diouny, 2010-04-16 This book is a contribution to the ongoing debate in agrammatism an acquired language disorder resulting from left hemisphere brain damage The aim of the book is 1 to give a comprehensive account of agrammatism and outlines and critically examines the different accounts of agrammatic production and asyntactic comprehension 2 to address morphological and structural properties of Moroccan Arabic agrammatic speech and 3 to put under scrutiny Friedmann and Grodzinsky s 1997 syntactic account of tense and agreement in production and across modalities The book attempts to answer two important research questions Are tense and agreement dissociated as predicted by the Tree Pruning Hypothesis Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 Is the tense agreement dissociation production specific or does it extend to comprehension and grammaticality judgment A third objective of the book is to examine the comprehension abilities of four Moroccan Arabic speaking agrammatic subjects in the light of the Trace Deletion Hypothesis Grodzinsky 1995 a b A major research question is whether or not active sentences and subject relative sentences are understood better than object relative sentences The book takes the view the tense agreement dissociation reported for Hebrew Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 and German Wenzlaff and Clahsen 2003 can be replicated in Moroccan Arabic However the syntactic account as outlined in Friedmann and Grodzinsky 1997 cannot account for the tense agreement dissociation as Moroccan Arabic has the agreement node above the tense node In addition the Trace Deletion Hypothesis cannot account for the comprehension difficulties experienced by the four Moroccan Arabic speaking agrammatic subjects the case is so because both subject relatives and object relatives are understood below chance level Based on data collected through different experimental methods it is argued that the deficit in agrammatism cannot be explained in terms of a structural account but rather in terms of a processing account Access to syntactic knowledge tends to be blocked grammatical knowledge however is entirely intact Music and the Nerves, 1700-1900 J.

Stahnisch,Gül A. Russell,2017-09-18 The forced migration of neuroscientists both during and after the Second World War is of growing interest to international scholars Of particular interest is how the long term migration of scientists and physicians has affected both the academic migrants and their receiving environments As well as the clash between two different traditions and systems this migration forced scientists and physicians to confront foreign institutional political and cultural frameworks when trying to establish their own ways of knowledge generation systems of logic and cultural mentalities The twentieth century has been called the century of war and forced migration since it witnessed two devastating world wars prompting a massive exodus that included many neuroscientists and psychiatrists Fascism in Italy and Spain beginning in the 1920s Nazism in Germany and Austria between the 1930s and 1940s and the impact of the Soviet occupation of Eastern Europe all forced more than two thousand researchers with prior education in neurology psychiatry and the basic brain research disciplines to leave their scientific and academic home institutions This edited volume comprising of thirteen chapters written by international specialists reflects on the complex dimensions of intellectual migration in the neurosciences and illustrates them by using relevant case studies biographies and surveys This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of the History of the Neurosciences Neurology and Modernity Laura Salisbury, Andrew Shail, 2010-02-10 As people of the modern era were singularly prone to nervous disorders the nervous system became a model for describing political and social organization This volume untangles the mutual dependencies of scientific neurology and the cultural attitudes of the period 1800 1950 exploring how and why modernity was a fundamentally nervous state Contemporary Applied Linguistics Volume 2 Li Wei, Vivian Cook, 2009-08-23 A comprehensive survey of the ways in which linguistics is being used by researchers in a wide range of interdisciplinary areas study of aphasia reflecting Professor Code's own interests. First are the contributions that fall under the heading of Conceptual Considerations. These are mainly interdisciplinary in nature, spanning linguistics, phonetics, psychology, and neurology, as well as social aspects of communication disorders. The second section of the book deals with Research Considerations, with chapters ranging from how the study of disrupted communication can inform models of normal language processing through tone production and processing in speakers with aphasia to anomia and progressive multifocal leukoencephalopathy. Each of these chapters explores different aspects of research methodology, including quantitative and qualitative research. The final section of the collection deals with Clinical Considerations; the chapters here cover counselling, computerized training, cultural and linguistic diversity in aphasia, right hemisphere disorders, and communication problems in the dementias. Clinical Aphasiology will be an invaluable tool for both students and practitioners in speech and language pathology, psychology, neurology, and related fields.
