Who Reads Best? Arthur N. Applebee, Judith A. Langer, Ina V. S. Mullis, 1988 Describing the characteristics and attitudes of a nationally representative sample of 36 000 students in grades 3 7 and 11 this report details the specific features of reading instruction how students approach their reading tasks student reading experiences and the home and school supports to academic achievement The report is based the National Assessment of Educational Progress s NAEP 1986 assessment of the reading achievement of American schoolchildren It does not discuss trends over time as many NAEP reports do Major findings of the report are 1 students at all three grade levels had particular difficulty with tasks that require them to elaborate upon or defend their evaluations and interpretations of what they read 2 poor readers reported doing less independent reading than good readers 3 students reported that their teachers used a variety of instructional approaches to reading instruction 4 poor readers reported that their teachers used a narrower range of approaches than were used with better readers 5 poor readers reported using a narrower range of strategies than good readers 6 students from historically at risk populations continued to perform poorly relative to the national population at each grade level and 7 reading proficiency was related to students general literacy experiences A procedural appendix is attached RS Reading Achievement State by State, 1999, 1999

Reading Achievement and Motivation in Boys and Girls Pelusa Orellana García, Paula Baldwin Lind, 2018-05-02 This volume links theoretical and instructional approaches on how reading is motivated and assessed and examines the interrelationship between reading motivation and achievement among boys and girls in culturally and geographically different settings Much of the research on children s reading has focused on cognitive processes however reading is an activity that also requires interest and motivation These attitudes are generally defined as readers affect toward reading and their consequence is that children with more positive attitudes are more motivated to read Taking into account the variability that exists within the notion of gender and age this volume aims to examine and scrutinize previous research on the topic as well as test theories on how the different dimensions of reading motivation vary with gender in relation to cultural issues motivational constructs such as engagement and classroom climate the role of emotions interests and attitudes towards reading among others The book will be of interest to researchers educators graduate students and other professionals working in the area of literacy reading motivation reading achievement and gender differences

Interpreting Standardized Test Scores Craig A. Mertler, 2007-04-13 Interpreting Standardized Test Scores Strategies for Data Driven Instructional Decision Making is designed to help K 12 teachers and administrators understand the nature of standardized tests and in particular the scores that result from them This useful manual helps teachers develop the skills necessary to incorporate these test scores into various types of instructional decision making a process known as data driven decision making necessitated by the needs of their students A Comparative Study of Reading Achievement at the Fourth Grade Level Under Two Methods of Instruction Mary Edward Dolan, 1963 Mexican American Education Study Report

United States Commission on Civil Rights,1971      Resources in Education ,1995-10      Children, Schools, And Inequality Doris R Entwisle,2018-03-05 Educational sociologists have paid relatively little attention to children in middle childhood ages 6 to 12 whereas developmental psychologists have emphasized factors internal to the child much more than the social contexts in explaining children s development Children Schools and Inequality redresses that imbalance It examines elementary school outcomes e g test scores grades retention rates in light of the socioeconomic variation in schools and neighborhoods the organizational patterns across elementary schools and the ways in which family structure intersects with children s school performance Adding data from the Baltimore Beginning School Study to information culled from the fields of sociology child development and education this book suggests why the gap between the school achievement of poor children and those who are better off has been so difficult to close Doris Entwistle Karl Alexander and Linda Olson show why the first grade transition how children negotiate entry into full time schooling is a crucial period They also show that events over that time have repercussions that echo throughout children s entire school careers Currently the only study of this life transition to cover a comprehensive sample and to suggest straightforward remedies for urban schools Children Schools and Inequality can inform educators practitioners and policymakers as well as researchers in the sociology of education and child development      The National Education Goals Report ,1993      Handbook of the Life Course Jeylan T.
