Redwood Railways Gilbert H. Kneiss, 1956 Trains, 1962 Railway Track and Structures, 1920 Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way, 1920 City of Wood James Michael Buckley, 2024-11-19 2025 John Brinckerhoff Jackson Prize Association of American Geographers How San Franciscans exploited natural resources such as redwood lumber to produce the first major metropolis of the American West California's 1849 gold rush triggered creation of the instant city of San Francisco as a base to exploit the rich natural resources of the American West City of Wood examines how capitalists and workers logged the state's vast redwood forests to create the financial capital and construction materials needed to build the regional metropolis of San Francisco Architectural historian James Michael Buckley investigates the remote forest and its urban core as two poles of a regional city This city consisted of a far reaching network of spaces produced as company owners and workers arrayed men and machines to extract resources and create human commodities from the region's rich natural environment Combining labor urban industrial and social history City of Wood employs a variety of sources including contemporary newspaper articles novels and photographs to explore the architectural landscape of lumber from backwoods logging camps and company towns in the woods to busy lumber docks and the homes of workers and owners in San Francisco By imagining the redwood lumber industry as a single community spread across multiple sites a City of Wood Buckley demonstrates how capitalist resource extraction links different places along the production value chain The result is a paradigm shift in architectural history that focuses not just on the evolution of individual building design across time but also on economic connections that link the center and periphery across space Logging Railroads of Humboldt and Mendocino Counties Katy M. Tahja, 2013 Locomotive steam whistles echo no more in the forests of the north California coast A century ago Humboldt and Mendocino Counties had more than 40 railroads bringing logs out of the forest to mills at the water's edge Only one single railroad ever connected to the outside world and it too is gone One railroad survives as the Skunk Train in Mendocino County and it carries tourists today instead of lumber Redwood and tan oak bark were the two products moved by rail and very little else was hauled other than lumberjacks and an occasional picnic excursion for loggers families Economic depressions and the advent of trucking saw railroads vanish like a puff of steam from the landscape The Home of the Redwood Redwood Lumber Manufacturers Association, 1897 Historic Redwood National and State Parks Gail L. Jenner, 2016-05-01 If redwood trees could share their stories what would they say Some of these giants are thousands of years old but all have witnessed some truly unique moments in history Historic Redwood National and State is a vibrant collection of essays sharing different parts of Redwood National Park's history from the Native Americans and the early explorers to park visitors today Celebrate the 100th anniversary of the National Park Service and learn more about the cultural political and natural history of Redwood National and State Parks Railway Review, 1917 Railway Maintenance Engineer, 1920 Chinese America, 1991 Redwood Lumber Industry Lynwood

Carranco,1982 The Redwoods United States. National Park Service,1964 The Redwoods ,1964 Redwoods, Iron Horses, and the Pacific Spencer Crump,1963 The California Western Railroad CWR extends from the Pacific Coast at Fort Bragg to the redwoods to Willits It began as a logging line but is known for the rail buses nicknamed Skunks This book details the history of the CWR and acquisition of the initial Skunk rail bus Railway and Engineering Review ,1896

American Lumberman ,1904 The Electric Interurban Railways in America George Woodman Hilton,John Fitzgerald Due,1964 One of the most colorful yet neglected eras in American transportation history is re created in this definitive history of the electric interurbans Built with the idea of attracting short distance passenger traffic and light freight the interurbans were largely constructed in the early 1900s The rise of the automobile and motor transport caused the industry to decline after World War I and the depression virtually annihilated the industry by the middle 1930s Part I describes interurban construction technology passenger and freight traffic financial history and final decline and abandonment Part II presents individual histories with route maps of the more than 300 companies of the interurban industry Reviews A first rate work of such detail and discernment that it might well serve as a model for all corporate biographies A wonderfully capable job of distillation Trains Few economic social and business historians can afford to miss this definitive study Mississippi Valley Historical Review All seekers after nostalgia will be interested in this encyclopedic volume on the days when the clang clang of the trolley was the most exciting travel sound the suburbs knew Harper s Magazine A fascinating and instructive chapter in the history of American transportation Journal of Economic History The hint that behind the grand facade of scholarship lies an expanse of boyish enthusiasm is strengthened by a lovingly amassed and beautifully reproduced collection of 37 photographs The Nation Building the Redwood Region James Michael Buckley,2000 National Bureau of Standards Miscellaneous Publication ,1925
