Ison, 2010-07-20 It is now accepted that humans are changing the climate of the Earth and this is the most compelling amongst a long litany of reasons as to why collectively we have to change our ways of thinking and acting Most people now recognise that we have to be capable of adapting quickly as new and uncertain circumstances emerge this capability will need to exist at personal group community regional national and international levels all at the same time Systems Practice is structured into four parts Part I introduces the societal need to move towards a more systemic and adaptive governance against the backdrop of human induced climate change Part II unpacks what is involved in systems practice by means of a juggler metaphor examining situations where systems thinking offers useful understanding and opportunities for change Part III identifies the main factors that constrain the uptake of systems practice and makes the case for innovation in practice by means of systemic inquiry systemic action research and systemic intervention The book concludes with Part IV which critically examines how systems practice is or might be utilised at different levels from the personal to the societal The development of our capabilities to think and act systemically is an urgent priority and Systems Practice aims to show how to do systems thinking and translate that thinking into praxis theory informed practical action which will be welcomed by those managing in situations of complexity and uncertainty across all domains of professional and personal concern Systems

Practice: How to Act Ray Ison, 2017-08-10 This book shows how to do systems thinking and translate that thinking into praxis theory informed practical action It will be welcomed by those managing or governing in situations of complexity and uncertainty across all domains of professional and personal life The development of capabilities to think and act systemically is an urgent priority Humans are now a force of nature affecting whole earth dynamics including the earth's climate we live in an Anthropocene or Capitalocene and are confronted by the emergence of a post truth big data world What we have developed organisationally and institutionally seems very fragile An imperative exists to recover whatever systemic sensibilities we still retain to foster systems literacy and to invest in systems thinking in practice capability This will be needed in future at personal group community regional national and international levels all at the same time Systems Practice How to Act is structured into four parts Part I introduces the societal need to invest in systems thinking in practice in contexts of uncertainty and complexity epitomised by the challenges of responding to human induced climate change Part II unpacks what is involved in systems practice by means of a juggler isophor examining situations where systems thinking offers useful understanding and opportunities for change Part III identifies the main factors that constrain the uptake of systems practice and makes the case for innovation in practice by means of systemic inquiry systemic action research and systemic intervention The book concludes with Part IV which critically examines how systems practice is or might be utilised at different levels from the personal to the societal div Advancing Relational Leadership Research Mary

Uhl-Bien, Sonia M. Ospina, 2012-10-01 Leaders and followers live in a relational world a world in which leadership occurs in complex webs of relationships and dynamically changing contexts Despite this our theories of leadership are grounded in assumptions of individuality and linear causality If we are to advance understandings of leadership that have more relevance to the world of practice we need to embed issues of relationality into leadership studies This volume addresses this issue by bringing together for the first time a set of prominent scholars from different paradigmatic and disciplinary perspectives to engage in dialogue regarding how to meet the challenges of relationality in leadership research and practice Included are cutting edge thinking heated debate and passionate perspectives on the issues at hand The chapters reveal the varied and nuanced treatments of relationality that come from authors alternative paradigmatic entity constructionist critical views Dialogue scholars reacting to the chapters engage in spirited debate regarding the commensurability or incommensurability of the paradigmatic approaches The editors bring the dialogue together with introductory and concluding chapters that offer a framework for comparing and situating the competing assumptions and perspectives spanning the relational leadership landscape Using paradigm interplay they unpack assumptions and lay out a roadmap for relational leadership research A key takeaway is that advancing relational leadership research requires multiple paradigmatic perspectives and scholars who are conversant in the assumptions brought by these perspectives The book is aimed at those who feel that much of current leadership thinking is missing the boat in today s complex relational world It provides an essential resource for all leadership scholars and practitioners curious about the nature of research on leadership both those with much research exposure and those new to the field Practical Appreciative Inquiry Sarah Lewis, 2025-02-25 Equips leaders with a revolutionary approach to achieving positive organizational change Practical Appreciative Inquiry A Toolkit for Applying Appreciative Inquiry to Organisational Challenges Opportunities and Aspirations helps experienced practitioners and newcomers alike harness the versatility and flexibility of appreciative inquiry to improve any organization An invaluable how to guide it

Buono, Léon de Caluwé, Annemieke Stoppelenburg, 2013-03-01 The volume is based on the presentations and discussions from the Fifth European Conference on Management Consulting sponsored by the Management Consulting Division of the Academy of Management which took place June 2011 at Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam the Netherlands The conference theme Exploring the Professional Identity of Management Consultants attempted to capture the highly ambiguous social status of this young and emerging profession Management consulting does not have professional standards or accreditation criteria like those found in medicine or law there are low barriers to entry and a broad range of tasks are undertaken in the name of consulting As a result a crucial aspect of what constitutes such a loosely defined profession is the identity of its members The professional identity of management consultants is continuously developing through the interplay of how consultants are seen and valued by clients as well as in the larger society and how consultancy firms and consultants identify and position themselves This theme includes a variety of topics ranging from the interaction between consultants and their clients consultant rhetoric and self presentation and the plethora of books media and public discourse on consulting to human resource policies and practices knowledge development activities of consultancy firms career and life stories of consultants and consultancies and consulting associations accreditation bodies and education programs All of these factors contribute either directly or indirectly to identity construction in the field of management consulting

Gossip and Organizations Kathryn Waddington, 2012-08-21 Gossip is a complex and ubiquitous phenomenon widely found and variously practiced Gossip and Organizations provides the reader with an analysis of gossip and informal knowledge across different national organizational and cultural contexts drawing upon empirical findings and the author's experiences of researching gossip in nursing and healthcare organizations and higher educational institutions Kathryn Waddington aims to dispel once and for all the myth that women gossip and men have conversations shattering the illusion that gossip at work is trivial talk This book challenges the assumption that gossip is a problem that should be discouraged While there is undoubtedly a dark side to gossip Kathryn Waddington argues that paying closer attention to gossip as organizational communication and knowledge enables exploration of other ways of seeing interpreting and understanding organizations Gossip is not merely an impediment of organizing it is a form of organizing which shapes perceptions and actions and can forewarn managers of future failure in organizational systems The complexity of gossip is such that a of range inter disciplinary explanations is necessary in order to account for this form of communication and knowledge across multiple levels and spaces in and around organizations Waddington provides a new evidence based framework incorporating ethics emotion identity sensemaking and power as a guide future research theorizing and critical reflective and reflexive practice in the field of organizational gossip
