history that is more representative of the nation's lived experience than the traditional narratives of British theatre. Its approach is intra-national, weaving together the theatres and communities of England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland. The essays are organised thematically, arranged into sections that address nation, power and identity, fixity and mobility, bodies in performance, the materiality of theatre, and communities of theatre. This approach highlights the synergies, convergences and divergences of the theatre landscape in Britain during this period, giving a sense of the sheer variety of performance that was taking place at any given moment in time. This is a fascinating and indispensable resource for undergraduate and graduate students, postgraduate researchers and scholars across theatre and performance studies, cultural studies, and twentieth-century history.

Playing Australia, 2021-10-18. Playing Australia explores the insights and challenges that Australian theatre can offer the international theatre community. Collectively, the essays in this book ask what Australian drama is, has been, and might be, both to Australians and non-Australians, when it is performed in national and international arenas. Playing Australia ranges widely in its discussions and includes analysis of Australian practitioners playing away from home, playing with Australian stereotypes, and the relationship between play, culture, politics, and national identity. Topics addressed in this diverse collection include whiteness, otherness, and negotiations of Aboriginal and Asian identities; Australian school and college drama; the discourse of Australian professional theatre; magazines; Aboriginal Shakespeare; Australian drama; and Australian cricket. The marketing of Australianness in Germany, the international successes of Tap Dogs and Cloudstreet. New histories of Australian theatre are offered, and practitioners whose careers are reconsidered in detail include high-wire walker Ella Zuila, playwright May Holt, suffrage worker and playwright Inez Bensusan, classicist Gilbert Murray, and commercial playwright Haddon Chambers. With contributions from authors as diverse as Guardian theatre critic Michael Billington and leading post-colonial critic Helen Gilbert, and an interview/discussion with Cate Blanchett and Tap Dogs producer Wayne Harrison, Playing Australia seeks to pay tribute to the complexities of Australian theatre, experiences, to reassess Australian theatre as a significant force in the international arena, and to challenge traditional thinking on what Australian theatre can be.
