The Children Act 1989 Mary Ryan, 2019-07-23 First published in 1999 this book provides a practical guide to those parts of the Children Act 1989 that relate to the provision of services by local authorities to children and families dealing in particular with the powers and duties of local authorities in such circumstances care and supervision proceedings and child protection issues It combines a discussion of the legal framework of the Act and the regulations and guidance with information about good social work and legal practice relevant research and recent case law It is grounded on the author's practical experience of providing an advice and advocacy service for families and training for social workers lawyers and other child care professionals

Social Work with Children and Families Maureen O'Loughlin, Steve O'Loughlin, 2008-06-09 Working with children and families is a challenging skilled and rewarding area of social work practice It involves working in diverse settings with various groups of professionals such as the police schools hospitals and community organisations The current edition of this popular book has been updated to equip students with the knowledge and skills necessary to undertake essential work with children. It also explores social workers' values and attitudes in relation to the safety of children and includes references to important legislation such as Every Child Matters Working Together 2006 and the Adoption and Children Act 2002.

Working in Statutory Contexts Andrew Hill, 2010-05-17 This is an excellent book and should be compulsory reading for social work students. It is clearly written sensitively related to social work practice with some first rate examples. Above all it really speaks to the realities of contemporary statutory professional practice in the twenty first century. Andrew Hill has written a thorough but readable text for students which they will find useful at any stage in their qualification degree.

David Shemmings University of Kent Courtroom and Report Writing Skills for Social Workers Clare Seymour, Richard Seymour, 2011-07-07 This new text will build on Courtroom Skills for Social Workers by updating the legal and research content and strengthening the material on recording. There will also be additional contributions from service users and more practice examples so as to make the book interesting and relevant for qualified social workers. It will assist social workers in meeting their CPD requirements for continuing registration and also offer a framework for short in service training courses on court skills and recording both areas in which social workers' performance comes under the scrutiny of other professionals.

Magistrates' Decision-Making in Child Protection Cases Rosemary Sheehan, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2001. Making decisions about the care and protection of children who appear before the courts is complex. Attention must be paid to the best interests of the child, the child's need for their family, community views on parenting and concern about welfare intrusion into family life. Magistrates have a unique authority to make or reject child protection orders yet the criteria they use to decide a protection order, how they understand the information presented to them in court and the factors that influence their discretion and decision making have until now been little known. Presenting the findings of a study undertaken at Melbourne Children's Court, this book offers a much needed investigation of how magistrates actually make child protection decisions. Case examples highlight this decision making and the book thus offers practical assistance to professionals working with children in the legal process.

Law for Social Workers Hugh Brayne, Gerry Martin, 1997 Law for Social Workers provides students with exactly what they need in order to understand the legal framework in which social workers act. It provides clear information on key issues in social work law such as the social worker's duties to society and the client, law and the legal system with detailed help on the issues of discrimination, human rights and immigration status plus the workings of the courts working with children including in the civil and criminal courts working with adults and legal issues relating to violence, family breakdown and housing.
