Johnson,D.M.

Kochhar,2012-12-06 The resolution of links between exposure to components of our complex environmental and causation of reproductive effects in the population constitutes an important problem in the field of toxicology The focus of this volume is developmental toxicology which represents one aspect of reproductive toxicology dealing with the study of adverse effects on the developing conceptus Developmental toxicology which includes teratogenesis as one of its manifestations provides a fertile field for research in several basic and clinical disciplines this field also receives input from several disciplines such as developmental and molecular biology pathology pharmacology and toxicology pediatrics and neonatology and epidemiology More recently we have seen an emergence of interest in other fields such as perinatal physiology and postnatal behavior which have now become incorporated into the mainstream of research in this discipline The present volume is an effort to provide a sampling of concepts currently under active investigation in several of the above fields The authors have endeavored to provide up to date information on the following topics detection and analysis of potential hazards to the conceptus in the workplace pharmacokinetic aspects of the maternal placental fetal complex and its relationship to human birth defects and probable mechanisms of teratogenesis as uncovered in certain well defined situations Also included are summaries of newer investigations on the emerging field of postnatal functional evaluations i.e adverse effects on adult activities resultant from in utero exposure to toxic substances      Male Reproductive Toxicology Robert E. Chapin,Jerrold J.

Heindel,2013-10-22 Methods in Toxicology Volume 3 Male Reproductive Toxicology Part A deals with the male reproductive system and discusses methods that will help identify toxicant induced changes at all levels in living organisms It is important to realize that a toxic effect does not occur in a vacuum All work in toxicology must be predicated on a demonstrated adverse effect in vivo If good toxicology cannot exist in a vacuum then there must be a structure Thus the book begins by presenting a few models as examples of the ways experiments could be grouped to define the toxicity of a chemical This is followed by separate chapters on methods such as male mouse sexual behavior test in vitro techniques for assessing pituitary secretory function histological methods for preservation of the rat testis procedures for assessing testicular sperm head counts in mice rats and dogs and guidelines for conducting rodent dominant lethal tests Subsequent chapters cover topics such as methods for the isolation and purification of Leydig cells from rat and mouse testes and techniques used in semen analysis and fertility assessment in the rabbit      Female Reproductive Toxicology Jerrold J.
