Abstract

We propose an abstract notion of a type theory to unify the semantics of various type theories including Martin–Löf type theory, two-level type theory, and cubical type theory. We establish basic results in the semantics of type theory: every type theory has a bi-initial model; every model of a type theory has its internal language; the category of theories over a type theory is bi-equivalent to a full sub-2-category of the 2-category of models of the type theory.

Keywords: Dependent type theory; Natural model; Category with families; Logical framework; Representable maps; Representable map category

1. Introduction

One of the key steps in the semantics of type theory and logic is to establish a correspondence between theories and models. Every theory generates a model called its syntactic model, and every model has a theory called its internal language. Classical examples are simply typed λ -calculi and cartesian closed categories (Lambek and Scott 1986); generalized algebraic theories and contextual categories (Cartmell 1978); extensional Martin–Löf theories and locally cartesian closed categories (Seely 1984); first-order theories and hyperdoctrines (Seely 1983); higher order theories and elementary toposes (Lambek and Scott 1986). Recently, homotopy type theory (The Univalent Foundations Program 2013) is expected to provide an internal language for what should be called “elementary $(\infty, 1)$ -toposes.” As a first step, Kapulkin and Szumilo (2019) showed that there is an equivalence between intensional Martin–Löf theories and finitely complete $(\infty, 1)$ -categories.

As there exist correspondences between theories and models for almost all type theories and logics, it is natural to ask if one can define a general notion of a type theory or logic and establish correspondences between theories and models uniformly. First, we clarify what we informally mean by “type theory,” “logic,” “theory,” and “model”. By a type theory or logic, we mean a formal system for deriving judgments which is specified by a collection of inference rules. For example, first-order logic is a logic and has inference rules for logical connectives and quantifiers such as $\wedge$ and $\forall$. For a type theory or logic $\mathbb{T}$, by a $\mathbb{T}$ -theory or theory over $\mathbb{T}$ we mean a set of constants and axioms written in $\mathbb{T}$, while by a model of $\mathbb{T}$ we mean a mathematical structure that admits an interpretation of the inference rules of $\mathbb{T}$. For example, a first-order theory is a theory over first-order logic and consists of type constants, term constants, predicate constants, and axioms, while a hyperdoctrine is a model of first-order logic and interprets, for instance, the universal quantifier $\forall$ as a right adjoint.

A successful syntactic approach to defining general type theories and logics is a logical framework such as the Edinburgh Logical Framework (Harper et al. 1993) and Martin–Löf’s logical

Research in Education ,1974 Handbook of Research Methods in Human Memory Hajime Otani,Bennett L. Schwartz,2018-10-09 The Handbook of Research Methods in Human Memory presents a collection of chapters on methodology used by researchers in investigating human memory Understanding the basic cognitive function of human memory is critical in a wide variety of fields such as clinical psychology developmental psychology education neuroscience and gerontology and studying memory has become particularly urgent in recent years due to the prominence of a number of neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer s However choosing the most appropriate method of research is a daunting task for most scholars This book explores the methods that are currently available in various areas of human memory research and serves as a reference manual to help guide readers own research Each chapter is written by prominent researchers and features cutting edge research on human memory and cognition with topics ranging from basic memory processes to cognitive neuroscience to further applications The focus here is not on the what but the how how research is best conducted on human memory

Action Research Jeffrey Glanz,2014-06-04 Action Research An Educational Leader s Guide to School Improvement Third Edition is a clear and practical guide to conducting action research in schools Although it offers neither a cookbook nor a quick fix approach this book does outline the process of designing and reporting an action research project Useful as a classroom text as well as a self teaching tool Action Research An Educational Leader s Guide to School Improvement is a comprehensive training manual It can be used by practitioners in the field by graduate students enrolled in leadership and or master s thesis courses or by anyone interested in learning how to conduct action research projects including classroom teachers who are leaders too in their own right The strategies and techniques of action research described are no different for teachers than they are for administrators The underlying assumption of this work is that research is not a domain only for academics it is also a powerful approach that can be used by practitioners to contribute to school renewal and instructional improvement Rather than being merely a philosophical treatise or theoretical analysis Action Research provides concrete strategies and techniques for conducting action research in schools

Rhetoric in Europe: Philosophical Issues Norbert Gutenberg,Richard Fiordo,2017-03-03 The authors of the original articles included in this book are profound thinkers in the field of rhetoric and philosophy in Europe The articles constitute a groundbreaking critical analysis of rhetorical discourse in Europe from ancient to modern times The topics the learned writers cover engage readers in worthy and lively conversations on European rhetoric history and philosophy The writings offer practical benefits and enlightening revelations on the role of language symbols media and communication in contemporary and historical

Europe The authors and their insightful accounts provide a basis for transforming the mind interested in European discourse from rhetorical naivete to sophistication and from rhetorical innocence to experience These challenging narratives will cause readers to think of European rhetoric holistically rather than simplistically
