Review Of Research In Education 1994 Review Of Research In Education:

The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys Robin Alexander, Christine Doddington, John Gray, Linda Hargreaves, Ruth Kershner, 2012-08-06 The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys is the outcome of the Cambridge Primary Review England's biggest enquiry into primary education for over forty years. Fully independent of government, it was launched in 2006 to investigate the condition and future of primary education at a time of change and uncertainty and after two decades of almost uninterrupted reform. Ranging over ten broad themes and drawing on a vast array of evidence, the Review published thirty-one interim reports including twenty-eight surveys of published research provoking media headlines and public debate before presenting its final report and recommendations. This book brings together the twenty-eight research surveys specially commissioned from sixty-five leading academics in the areas under scrutiny and now revised and updated to create what is probably the most comprehensive overview and evaluation of research in primary education yet published. A particular feature is the prominence given to international and comparative perspectives. With an introduction from Robin Alexander, the Review's director, the book is divided into eight sections covering children's lives and voices, school, home and community, children's development, learning, diversity and needs, aims, values and contexts for primary education, the structure and content of primary education, outcomes, standards and assessment in primary education, teaching in primary schools, structures and processes, teaching in primary schools, training, development and workforce, reform, policy, frameworks, governance, funding, reform and quality assurance. The Cambridge Primary Review Research Surveys is an essential reference tool for professionals, researchers, students and policy makers working in the fields of early years, primary and secondary education.

Contributions from Science Education Research Roser Pintó, Digna Couso, 2007-09-19 In August 2005 over 500 international researchers from the field of science education met at the 5th European Science Education Research Association conference in Barcelona, Spain. Two of the main topics at this conference were the decrease in the number of students interested in school science and concern about the worldwide outcomes of studies on students' scientific literacy. At the conference over 400 papers were presented covering a wide range of topics relevant to science education research, such as evidence-based practice, teachers' professional development, the role of ICT and multimedia, formal and informal learning environments, and argumentation and modelling in science education. This volume includes edited versions of 37 outstanding papers presented during the conference, including the lectures of the keynote speakers. They have been selected for their quality, variety and interest and present a good overview of the field of science education research.

The Meta-Analysis Research in Special Education Kenneth A. Kavale, 2021-09-01 First published in 2001, the purpose of this issue is to demonstrate the advantages of meta-analysis in summarizing research in special education. Toward this end, five articles are included in this issue that deal with methodology, interpretation and application of meta-analyses. The first article is a brief primer on meta-analysis that compares and contrasts it with more traditional review methods and describes the methodological procedures for conducting a quantitative research synthesis The second article summarizes findings from 24 meta analytic efforts The third article explores the important issue of face validity Can we be confident about the findings from meta analyses The fourth article examines the controversy surrounding the meta analysis of single participant research What is the best metric The final paper reviews the process of decision making in special education by showing how meta analytic findings can provide a comprehensive knowledge base that combined with wisdom and experience can be used to decide whether to include particular interventions

Handbook of the Sociology of Gender Janet Saltzman Chafetz, 2006-11-22 During the past three decades feminist scholars have successfully demonstrated the ubiquity and omnirelevance of gender as a sociocultural construction in virtually all human collectivities past and present Intrapsychic interactional and collective social processes are gendered as are micro meso and macro social structures Gender shapes and is shaped in all arenas of social life from the most mundane practices of everyday life to those of the most powerful corporate actors Contemporary understandings of gender emanate from a large community of primarily feminist scholars that spans the gamut of learned disciplines and also includes non academic activist thinkers However while incorporating some cross disciplinary material this volume focuses specifically on socio logical theories and research concerning gender which are discussed across the full array of social processes structures and institutions As editor I have explicitly tried to shape the contributions to this volume along several lines that reflect my long standing views about sociology in general and gender sociology in particular First I asked authors to include cross national and historical material as much as possible This request reflects my belief that understanding and evaluating the here and now and working realistically for a better future can only be accomplished from a comparative perspective Too often American sociology has been both tempero and ethnocentric Second I have asked authors to be sensitive to within gender differences along class racial ethnic sexual preference and age cohort lines

Sociocultural Research on Mathematics Education Bill Atweh,Helen Forgasz,Ben Nebres,2013-03-07 This volume the first to bring together research on sociocultural aspects of mathematics education presents contemporary and international perspectives on social justice and equity issues that impact mathematics education In particular it highlights the importance of three interacting and powerful factors gender social and cultural dimensions Sociocultural Research on Mathematics Education An International Perspective is distinguished in several ways It is research based Chapters report on significant research projects present a comprehensive and critical summary of the research findings and offer a critical discussion of research methods and theoretical perspectives undertaken in the area It is future oriented presenting recommendations for practice and policy and identifying areas for further research It deals with all aspects of formal and informal mathematics education and applications and all levels of formal schooling As the context of mathematics education rapidly changes with an increased demand for mathematically literate citizenship an increased awareness of issues of equity inclusivity and accountability and increased efforts for globalization of curriculum development and research questions are being raised more than ever before about the problems of teaching and learning mathematics from a non cognitive science perspective This book contributes significantly to addressing such issues and answering such questions It is especially relevant for researchers graduate students and policymakers in the field of mathematics education
