Western-Scientific Philosophy A. Z. Obiedat, 2022-07-08 This is the first study to compare the philosophical systems of secular scientific philosopher Mario Bunge 1919 2020 and Moroccan Islamic philosopher Taha Abd al Rahman b 1945 In their efforts to establish the philosophical underpinnings of an ideal modernity these two great thinkers speak to the same elements of the human condition despite their opposing secular and religious worldviews While the differences between Bunge s critical realist epistemology and materialist ontology on the one hand and Taha s spiritualist ontology and revelational mystical epistemology on the other are fundamental there is remarkable common ground between their scientific and Islamic versions of humanism Both call for an ethics of prosperity combined with social justice and both criticize postmodernism and religious conservatism The aspiration of this book is to serve as a model for future dialogue between holders of Western and Islamic worldviews in mutual pursuit of modernity s best case scenario Modernity and Tradition Fouad Al-Farsy, 2012-10-12 First published in 1990 A country s development does not take place in a vacuum and it was therefore essential in this earlier work that the main subject the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia s development should be set into an historical political and social context The original edition includes a summary of this background information starting with the Kingdom s geographical location and proceeding with a brief account of its history its political importance and its role in the world economy Within this context is described the development and progress of what the Kingdom had achieved outlining the country s governmental structure its administrative divisions its available investment potential its prevailing legal and commercial regulations and its future plans and ambitions This new book which has been structured to encompass all aspects of the Kingdom s development contains the latest statistical data on the Kingdom s progress together with the newly revised background information of the former book Thus each of the books complements the other for each records the relevant information at a particular stage in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia s continuing developmental process The Impact of Modernization in Saudi Arabia Robert C. Vasile, ARMY MILITARY PERSONNEL CENTER ALEXANDRIA VA., 1978 The Saudi leadership has greatly emphasized economic development in modernization efforts Though development is readily measured in economic terms the social impact of modernization is even more critical Rapid changes in the configuration of power among elites can evoke a period of political instability which may invite foreign intervention Personal interviews with Saudis coupled with general trends indicate changes in values and behavior among the society As the momentum of modernization increases risks of disorientation and elite confrontation become inevitable Dual standards of behavior currently suggest a transition from traditional values to modernity The loss of tradition in Saudi Arabia removes the legitimacy of the monarchy Accommodation of innovations will require greater dependence upon bureaucratic and military elites by the ruling family Such reconfiguration of power will serve to alienate the conservative elites and promote unrest among the populace Added flexibility in government must be introduced at this stage or future problems will arise beyond the cure of money Author National and International Politics in the Middle East Edward Ingram, 2013-07-23 First published in 2004 Professor Kedourie is known for his unforgettable essays for the pattern of interpretation and view of the world which hold his readers spellbound even when they strongly disagree with his opinions and for Middle Eastern Studies which recently reached its majority and which he and Frank Cass together have turned into the foremost scholarly journal in its field These essays are presented to him by a group of his admirers overseas
