

Saugus-To-the-Sea Highway Proposed

"Saugus-to-the-Sea" is the latest direct to the ocean highway that Los Angeles is to consider. The project is of considerable interest to this county since it involves cutting through the Santa Susana mountains. It is to be brought before the Los Angeles city council and an appropriation for a preliminary survey is to be asked for at once. Its excuse is to bring the traffic from the San Joaquin valley to the beaches via the shortest distance.

The new highway if built will run through the new town of Girard, and connect with Topango canyon.
