The language dimension in all subjects Jean-Claude Beacco, Mike Fleming, Francis Goullier, Eike Thürmann, Helmut Vollmer, Joseph Sheils, 2016-10-24 Mastering the language of schooling is essential for learners to develop the skills necessary for school success and for critical thinking It is fundamental for participation in democratic societies and for social inclusion and cohesion This handbook is a policy and working document which promotes convergence and coherence between the linguistic dimensions of various school subjects It proposes measures to make explicit in curricula pedagogic material and teacher training the specific linguistic norms and competences which learners must master in each school subject It also presents the learning modalities that should allow all learners and in particular the most vulnerable among them to benefit from diversified language learning situations in order to develop their cognitive and linguistic capacities

The Intersection of Library Learning and Second-Language Learning Karen Bordonaro, 2013-12-01 Language learning and library learning in a university setting are closely related endeavors that intersect at various times and locations and with various teachers and learners This book is an examination of how these intersections are experienced by language learners Its aim is to explore the two types of learning to help sustain and develop the learning in both areas The Intersection of Library Learning and Second Language Learning Theory and Practice is aimed at practitioners both librarians and language instructors and describes everyday scenarios which will resonate with academic librarians and language instructors. It presents practical experiences and accompanies them with a consideration of the literature of both librarianship and language education. It reviews and evaluates professional practices employed by working librarians and language instructors in their dealings with international students. Considerations of the intersections between language learning and library learning are placed within a theoretical framework of learner autonomy. This framework offers librarians and language instructors methods and practices that enable students to take control of their learning in the areas of both language learning and library learning. A concluding chapter offers ways to connect the framework of learner autonomy to settings outside that of a university context.

Reconceptualizing Connections between Language, Literacy and Learning Sangeeta Bagga-Gupta, Anne Golden, Lars Holm, Helle Pia Laursen, Anne Pitkänen-Huhta, 2020-01-11. This edited volume unpacks the familiar concepts of language literacy and learning and promotes dialogue and bridge building within and across these concepts. Its specific interest lies in bridging the gap between Literacy Studies or New Literacy Studies on the one hand and SLA and scholarship in learning in multilingual contexts on the other. The chapters in the volume center stage empirical analysis and each addresses gaps in the scholarship between the two domains. The volume addresses the need to engage with the concepts, categorizations and boundaries that pertain to language literacy and learning. This need is especially felt in our globalized society which is characterized by constant fast and unpredictable mobility of people, goods, ideas and values. The editors of this volume are founding members of the Nordic Network LLL: Language Literacy and Learning. They have initiated a string of workshops and have discussed this theme at Nordic meetings and at symposia at international conferences.

Discourse and language learning across L2 instructional settings

, 2012-01-01 Studies on discourse and language learning originated in the field of general education and they focused on first language learning environments However since 1980s research on discourse and language learning broadened the scope of investigation to respond to second and foreign language environments Recently the emergence of new language learning contexts such as computer mediated communication multilingual settings or content and language integrated contexts requires further research that focuses on discourse and language learning From this perspective the present volume aims to broaden the scope of investigation in foreign language contexts by exploring discourse patterns in the classroom and examining the impact of factors such as gender explicitness of feedback or L1 use on language learning through discourse With that aim in mind this volume will bring together research that investigates discourse in various instructional settings namely those of primary secondary and university L2 learning environments content and language integrated contexts and other new language learning settings The number and variety of languages involved both as the first language e g English Finnish Basque Spanish Japanese French Italian Catalan as well as the target foreign language e g English French Italian Japanese Spanish makes the volume specially attractive Additionally the different approaches adopted by the researchers participating in this volume such as information processing sociocultural theory or conversation analysis widen the realm of investigation on discourse and language learning Finally the strength of the volume also lies in the range of educational settings primary secondary and tertiary education and the worldwide representation of contributors across seven different countries namely those of Spain France Austria Finland Germany Canada Australia and the United States The uniqueness of the volume is due to its eclectic and comprehensive nature in tackling instructional discourse Worldwide outstanding researchers like Julianne House Carme Muñoz Ute Smit Tarja Nikula or Roy Lyster to quote but a few adopt different perspectives in this joint contribution that will certainly broaden the scope of research on language learners discourse
