Scenes and Communities in the City Marta Klekotko, 2023-12-04 This open access book addresses the problem of creation and reproduction processes of contemporary urban communities as well as cultural mechanisms and factors of these processes Rejecting both the environmental determinism and cultural reductionism of community studies the book assumes that the postmodern city is a space of diverse urban communities that go far beyond the traditional concept of neighbourhood as well as personal and imagined communities and thus proposes to comprehend urban community as social practice embedded in urban space The book applies the Theory of Social Practice and the Theory of Scenes and develops the concept of socio cultural opportunity structures in order to explain how cultural practices of individuals and symbolic dimensions of territory interact leading to re production of various forms of urban community It is assumed that culture in general and symbolic meanings of territory in particular play a crucial role in the process of re production of urban communities that this process takes place in collective cultural consciousness and is mediated by territorially embedded cultural practices of individuals The book overcomes theoretical gaps in classical community studies and develops a new perspective on urban communal processes based on the analysis of social practices in urban cultural scenes City Scenes

Ordinary in Brighton?: LGBT, Activisms and the City Kath Browne, Leela Bakshi, 2016-05-13 Ordinary in Brighton offers the first large scale examination of the impact of the UK equalities legislation on lesbian gay bi and trans LGBT lives and the effects of these changes on LGBT political activism Using the participatory research project Count Me In Too this book investigates the material issues of social spatial injustice that were pertinent for some but not all LGBT people and explores activism working in partnership that operated with within the state Ordinary in Brighton explores the unevenly felt consequences of assimilation and inclusion in a city that was compelled to provide a place literally and figuratively for LGBT people Brighton itself is understood to be exceptional and exploring this specific location provides insights into how place operates as constitutive of lives and activism. Despite its placing as the gay capital and its long history as a favoured location of LGBT people there is very little academic or popular literature published about this city. This book offers insights into the first decade of the 21st century when sexual and gender dissidents supposedly became ordinary here rather than exceptional and transgressive. It argues that geographical imaginings of this city as the gay capital formed activism that sought positive social change for LGBT people. The possibilities of legislative change and urban inclusivities enabled some LGBT people to live ordinary lives but this potential existed in tension with normalisations and exclusions. Alongside the necessary critiques Ordinary in Brighton asks for conceptualisations of the creative and co-operative possibilities of ordinariness. The book concludes by differentiating the exclusionary ideals of normalisation from the possibilities of ordinariness which has the potential to render a range of people not only in place but commonplace. All royalties from this book will be donated to Allsorts Youth Project Brighton Hove LGBT Switchboard.

The City Symphony Phenomenon Steven Jacobs, Eva Hielscher, Anthony Kinik, 2018-07-20 The 1920s and 1930s saw the rise of the city symphony, an experimental film form that presented the city as protagonist instead of mere decor. Combining experimental documentary and narrative practices, these films were marked by a high level of abstraction reminiscent of high modernist experiments in painting and photography. Moreover, interwar city symphonies presented a highly fragmented, oftentimes kaleidoscopic sense of modern life and they organized their urban industrial images through rhythmic and associative montage that evoke musical structures. In this comprehensive volume, contributors consider the full 80 film corpus from Manhattan and Berlin: Die Sinfonie der Grosstadt to lesser known cinematic explorations.

Black City Cinema Paula Massood, 2011-01-19 In Black City Cinema Paula Massood shows how popular films reflected the massive social changes that resulted from the Great Migration of African Americans from the rural South to cities in the North West and Mid West during the first three decades of the twentieth century. By the onset of the Depression the Black population had become primarily urban, transforming individual lives as well as urban experience and culture. Massood probes into the relationship of place and time, showing how urban settings became an intrinsic element of African American film as Black people became more firmly rooted in urban spaces and more visible as historical and political subjects. Illuminating the intersections of film history, politics and urban discourse, she considers the chief genres of African American and Hollywood narrative film: the black cast musicals of the 1920s and the race films of the early sound era; to blaxploitation and hood films as well as the work of Spike Lee toward the end of the century. As it examines such a wide range of films over much of the twentieth century, this book offers a unique map of Black representations in film.
