Believing and Acting G. Scott Davis, 2012-03-15 How should religion and ethics be studied if we want to understand what people believe and why they act the way they do In the 1980s and 90s postmodernist worries about led to debates that turned on power truth and relativism Since the turn of the century scholars impressed by cognitive science have introduced concepts drawn from evolutionary biology neurosciences and linguistics in the attempt to provide naturalist accounts of religion Deploying concepts and arguments that have their roots in the pragmatism of C S Peirce Believing and Acting argues that both approaches are misguided and largely unhelpful in answering the questions that matter What did those people believe then How does it relate to what these people want to do now What is our evidence for our interpretations Pragmatic inquiry into these questions recommends an approach that questions grand theories advocates a critical pluralism about religion and ethics that defies disciplinary boundaries in the pursuit of the truth Rationality on a pragmatic approach is about solving particular problems in medias res thus there is no hard and fast line to be drawn between inquiry and advocacy both are essential to negotiating day to day life The upshot is an approach to religion and ethics in which inquiry looks much like the art history of Michael Baxandall and advocacy like the art criticism of Arthur Danto Abingdon New Testament Commentaries: Mark Prof. C. Clifton Black, 2011-09-01 Mark's genius lies not in telling a story about Jesus but in creating conditions under which the reader may experience the peculiar quality of God's good news The Evangelist hurries one along breathlessly immediately making sure that the reader lurches with the characters into one pothole after another What is this new teaching that consorts with the flagrantly sinful turning the pious homicidal intimates into strangers and mustard seeds into the greatest of all shrubs Jesus' closest adherents the Twelve are among the most muddled Who can blame them They ask for an obscure parable's interpretation and receive an answer even more confounding They are told to feed thousands with next to nothing Their boat almost capsizes while their teacher sleeps As they oar in rough waters the teacher strides the waves intending to bypass them Putting the reader in the same boat Mark structures conversations with Jesus that make little sense if any The Twelve are craven stupid self-serving and disobedient meet the average Christian Besides their hearts were hardened Who hardens hearts God Should not God's Messiah lift the burdens of those following him What kind of Christ heads to a cross handing his disciples another for themselves Do you not yet understand from the Introduction Freedom Journeys Rabbi Arthur O. Empirical Models for Biblical Criticism Jeffrey H. Tigay, 2005-10-21 Modern critical scholarship has concluded that the books of the Hebrew Bible have not reached us in their original form but are the products of lengthy evolution Many of these books are thought to combine the works of more than one author or age and to have undergone considerable revision Tigay and the other contributors use comparisons of various texts from ancient Mesopotamia and post exilic Israel Such comparisons show that the sort of development of biblical literature that nineteenth century critics were led to postulate from close study of the texts alone is characteristic of many ancient Near Eastern texts Empirical Models for Biblical Criticism is of value to scholars interested in the Old Testament as well as religion theology Jewish studies Near Eastern studies and comparative literature
