Entrepreneurs and School Choice Michael Mintrom,2000-04-26 Rapid and controversial the spread of school choice initiatives across the United States has radically changed political debate about public education In this book Michael Mintrom explores the complex world of open enrollment policies charter schools and voucher plans to reveal how and why school choice has become a major issue and he draws important conclusions about how innovative individuals can spur significant change in the policy arena Policy entrepreneurs individuals who take up a cause and make it part of the political agenda have largely remained background figures without clear definition in the policymaking literature This book is the first comprehensive and systematic treatment of the concept of policy entrepreneurship providing an important foundation for explaining how policy proposals are initiated considered and adopted Mintrom uses the emergence of school choice in state politics to examine how policy change originates He shows how policy entrepreneurs have been instrumental in placing school choice onto state legislative agendas despite the lack of compelling evidence about its merits and how they use social networks reframe policy issues and attempt to shift the sites of policy debate Blending innovative theory with both qualitative and quantitative investigation Mintrom explains how energetic individuals made school choice a real choice In doing so he changes our broader understanding of how policy is formed

We Belong Here Shani Adia Evans, 2025-01-16 A landmark study that shows how Black residents experience and respond to the rapid transformation of historically Black places Although Portland Oregon is sometimes called America's whitest city Black residents who grew up in the neighborhoods of northeast Portland have made it their own The district of Albina also called Northeast was their haven and a hub of Black community life But between 1990 and 2010 Albina changed dramatically it became majority white In We Belong Here sociologist Shani Adia Evans offers an intimate look at gentrification from the inside documenting the reactions of the residents of Albina as the racial demographics of their neighborhood shift As white culture becomes centered in Northeast Black residents recount their experiences with what Evans refers to as white watching the questioning look on the faces of white people they encounter which conveys an exclusionary message What are you doing here This Evans shows is a prime example of what she calls white spacemaking the establishment of white space spaces in which whiteness is assumed to be the norm in formerly non white neighborhoods While gentrification typically describes socioeconomic changes that may have racial implications white spacemaking allows us to understand racism as a primary mechanism of neighborhood change We Belong Here illuminates why gentrification and white spacemaking should be examined as intersecting but not interchangeable processes of neighborhood change

The Charter School Experience Michael Bitz, 2016-10-26 The Charter School Experience Voices from the Field is a unique book that presents readers with balanced perspectives from teachers students parents and school leaders at charter schools across the United States Through first person narratives the book highlights the delicate intricacies of what makes a school charter succeed or fail Unlike a book written by academics far removed from the practice of education this book gives voice to the people most impacted by charters the families and educators who have embraced these schools for better or worse and who now have enriching stories to tell These experiences embodied in introspective and moving chapters go well beyond the news headlines and politicized studies that have spotlighted charters in the past In this book teachers highlight their successes and failures in charter school classrooms parents explore decisions to enroll in charters school leaders discuss the social missions of charters and students write about how charter schools have impacted their lives The result is an engaging collection of ideas for a wide audience including people researching attending and making policy on charter schools in the United States and around the world
