Decolonizing the Lens of Power Kerstin Knopf, 2008 This is the first book that comprehensively examines Indigenous filmmaking in North America as it analyzes in detail a variety of representative films by Canadian and US American Indigenous filmmakers two films that contextualize the oral tradition three short films and four dramatic films The book explores how members of colonized groups use the medium of film as a means for cultural and political expression and thus enter the dominant colonial film discourse and create an answering discourse The theoretical framework is developed as an interdisciplinary approach combining postcolonialism Indigenous studies and film studies As Indigenous people are gradually taking control over the imagemaking process in the area of film and video they cease being studied and described objects and become subjects who create self controlled images of Indigenous cultures The book explores the translatability of Indigenous oral tradition into film touching upon the changes the cultural knowledge is subject to in this process including statements of Indigenous filmmakers on this issue It also asks whether or not there is a definite Indigenous film practice and whether filmmakers tend to dissociate their work from dominant classical filmmaking adapt to it or create new film forms and styles through converging classical film conventions and their conscious violation This approach presupposes that Indigenous filmmakers are constantly in some state of reaction to Western ethnographic filmmaking and to classical narrative filmmaking and its epitome the Hollywood narrative cinema The films analyzed are The Road Allowance People by Maria Campbell Itam Hakim Hopiit by Victor Masayesva Talker by Lloyd Martell Tenacity and Smoke Signals by Chris Eyre Overweight With Crooked Teeth and Honey Moccasin by Shelley Niro Big Bear by Gil Cardinal and Atanarjuat The Fast Runner by Zacharias Kunuk

Echo and Narcissus Amy Lawrence, 1991-07-23 Do women in classical Hollywood cinema ever truly speak for themselves In Echo and Narcissus Amy Lawrence examines eight classic films to show how women's speech is repeatedly constructed as a problem an affront to male authority This book expands feminist studies of the representation of women in film enabling us to see individual films in new ways and to ask new questions of other films Using Sadie Thompson 1928 Blackmail 1929 Rain 1932 The Spiral Staircase Sorry Wrong Number Notorious Sunset Boulevard 1950 and To Kill a Mockingbird 1962 Lawrence illustrates how women's voices are positioned within narratives that require their submission to patriarchal roles and how their attempts to speak provoke increasingly severe repression She also shows how women's natural ability to speak is interrupted made difficult or conditioned to a suffocating degree by sound technology itself Telephones phonographs voice overs and dubbing are foregrounded called upon to silence women and to restore the primacy of the image Unlike the usage of voice by feminist and literary critics to discuss broad issues of authorship and point of view in film studies the physical voice itself is a primary focus Echo and Narcissus shows how assumptions about the deficiencies of women's voices and speech are embedded in sound's history technology uses and marketing Moreover the construction of the woman's voice is inserted into the ideologically loaded cinematic and narrative conventions governing the representation of women in Hollywood film
