Handbook of Long-Term Care Administration and Policy Cynthia Massie Mara, Laura Olson, 2008-03-27 Attitudes toward long term care contain a strong residue of negativity in today's society and current problems with the system augment such perceptions Unless dealt with now this will only get worse as the 85 and older crowd is the fastest growing part of the population and the first wave of Baby Boomers is approaching 60

Exploring and delineating The Graying of the World Laura Katz Olson, 1994 This unique book studies America's frail older population relative to the elderly in ten other nations It contains a cross national assessment of approaches to long term care for the elderly and explains the nature and extent of current and future problems related to caring for the functionally impaired elderly By studying and analyzing the ongoing struggles of other nations in their attempts to cope with growing populations of frail elderly readers in the U S can expand the parameters of their own national debate on the subject The Graying of the World shows the political economic and social context in which decisions on elder care are based and evaluates how successful various countries programs have been Chapters outline alternative approaches taken by disparate types of national systems highlighting unique and creative solutions to provide useful information on new and alternative ways to respond to personal and public issues related to elder care The elderly and their care in Finland France Germany Great Britain Israel Japan People s Republic of China Sweden and Yugoslavia are discussed as are the elderly in Canada and the United States Chapters cover the following topics for each country the increasing number of frail elderly and their costly health needs the current and future role of the state in elder care the current and future role of the family in elder care types of support services offered for the elderly including in home care community based care and institutional care the relationship of a nation s political economy to its attitude and policy on long term care innovative approaches to elder care Practitioners decision makers and the concerned general public will all find The Graying of the World an interesting and informative book that expands the discussion of health care options available for the elderly As such the book is also a helpful text for undergraduate and beginning graduate students of gerontology public policy and comparative politics as well as for social service practitioners It provokes much needed conversation on developing a healthcare plan for the future that meets the needs of a large elderly population

Long-Term Care DIANE Publishing Company,1995-04      Geriatric Training Curriculum for Public Health Professionals ,1990      Community Care for Older People Susan Tester,1996-03-06 This accessible textbook compares ways in which basic components of community care are funded organised and provided by governmental and non governmental agencies allowing practitioners and policy makers to learn from the experiences of their counterparts in Europe and North America      Legislative Agenda for an Aging Society, 1988 and Beyond ,1988      Public Health and Aging Tom Hickey,Marjorie A. Speers,Thomas R. Prohaska,1997-05-02 The role of public health in the planning coordination and delivery of health promotion and disease prevention services to older people living outside of institutional settings Selected by Choice Magazine as an Outstanding Academic Title Current issues in the public health arena have challenged the system to broaden its traditional focus on infectious disease to include chronic disease as well As this change in emphasis takes place professionals must be prepared to address the special chronic health concerns of older people living in the community This textbook meets the training needs of those professionals Public Health and Aging examines the role of public health in the planning coordination and delivery of health promotion and disease prevention services to older people living outside of institutional settings Here experts in the areas of health care policy and care of aged persons analyze the scientific basis for the practice of public health in an increasingly aging society Reviewing a wide range of the social cultural financial and environmental factors that influence the health experiences of older population groups the authors delve into the epidemiology of age related chronic illnesses program development methodological issues data collection and analysis strategies for intervention and ethics From outlines for community based program planning and development to discussions about the future challenges for health care systems and services this book is an ideal reference for gerontology public policy and public health professionals and professionals in training      Problems and Issues in Long-term Care United States.
