Longae Saloniae II:

Assaph, 2005 The Body of the Combatant in the Ancient Mediterranean Hannah-Marie Chidwick, 2024-07-25 This volume explores a broad range of perceptions, receptions and constructions of the soldierly body in the ancient world, putting the notion of embodiment at the forefront of its engagement with ancient warfare. The 10 chapters presented here respond directly to the question of how war was embodied in antiquity by drawing on detailed case studies to examine the sensory and bodily experience of combat across wide-ranging time periods and geographies, from classical Greece and Rome to Roman Britain and Persia. Together they illustrate how the body in war is a vital universal element that unites these vastly different contexts. Although the centrality of the human body in war-making was recognized in antiquity, a body-centric approach to combat has yet to be widely adopted in modern Classical Studies. This collection brings together new research in ancient history, classical literature, material culture, bioarchaeology and art history within a theoretical framework drawn from recent developments in War Studies that places the body front and centre. The new perspectives it offers on brutality in battle, the physical expression of warrior identity and post-combat remembrance and recovery challenge readers to reassess and expand their existing ideas as part of a broader ongoing call to arms to revolutionize the study of ancient warfare in the 21st century.

A Companion to the Archaeology of the Roman Empire, 2 Volume Set Barbara Burrell, 2024-03-13 A one-of-a-kind exploration of archaeological evidence from the Roman Empire between 44 BCE and 337 CE. In A Companion to the Archaeology of the Roman Empire, distinguished scholar and archaeologist Professor Barbara Burrell delivers an illuminating and wide-ranging discussion of peoples, institutions and their material remains across the Roman Empire. Divided into two parts, the book begins by focusing on the unifying factors, institutions and processes that affected the entire empire. This ends with a chapter by Professor Greg Woolf. Ronald J. Mellor, Professor of Ancient History at UCLA, which summarizes and enlarges upon the themes and contributions of the volume. Meanwhile, the second part brings out local patterns and peculiarities within the archaeological remains of the City of Rome as well as almost every province of its empire. Each chapter is written by a noted scholar whose career has focused on the subject. Chronological coverage for each chapter is formally 44 BCE to 337 CE, but since material remains are not always so closely datable, most chapters center on the first three centuries of the Common Era.

plus or minus 50 years In addition the book is amply illustrated and includes new and little known finds from oft ignored provinces Readers will also find A thorough introduction to the peoples and operations of the Roman Empire including not just how the center affected the periphery Romanization but how peripheral provinces operated on their own and among their neighbors Comprehensive explorations of local patterns within individual provinces Contributions from a diverse panel of leading scholars in the field A unique form of organization that brings out systems across the empire such as transport across sea rivers and roads monetary systems pottery and foodways the military construction and technology Perfect for graduate and advanced undergraduate students of archaeology and the history of the Roman Empire A Companion to the Archaeology of the Roman Empire will also earn a place in the libraries of professional archaeologists in other fields including Mayanists medievalists and Far Eastern scholars seeking comparanda and bibliography on other imperial structures
