Looking Back at the Arkansas Gazette Roy Reed,2009-03 With a legendary beginning as a printing press floated up the Arkansas River in 1819 the Arkansas Gazette is inextricably linked with the state s history reporting on every major

Arkansas event until the paper's demise in 1991 after a long bitter and very public newspaper war. Looking Back at the Arkansas Gazette knowledgeably and intimately edited by longtime Gazette reporter Roy Reed comprises interviews from over a hundred former Gazette staffers recalling the stories they reported on and the people they worked with from the late forties to the paper's end. The result is a nostalgic and justifiably admiring look back at a publication known for its progressive stance in a conservative Southern state: a newspaper that after winning two Pulitzers for its brave rule of law stance during the Little Rock Central High Crisis was considered one of the country's greatest. The interviews collected from archives at the David and Barbara Pryor Center for Arkansas Oral and Visual History at the University of Arkansas provide fascinating details on renowned editors and reporters such as Harry Ashmore, Orville Henry, and Charles Portis; journalists who wrote daily on Arkansas's always colorful politicians; its tragic disasters and sensational crimes; its civil rights crises; Bill Clinton; the Razorbacks sports teams; and much more. Full of humor and little-known details, Looking Back at the Arkansas Gazette is a fascinating remembrance of a great newspaper.

Beware of Limbo Dancers Roy Reed, 2012-10-01 This witty wide-ranging memoir from Roy Reed, a native Arkansan who became a reporter for the New York Times, begins with tales of the writer's formative years growing up in Arkansas and the start of his career at the legendary Arkansas Gazette. Reed joined the New York Times in 1965 and was quickly thrust into the chaos of the Selma, Alabama protest movement and the historical interracial march to Montgomery. His story then moves from days of racial violence to the political combat of Washington. Reed covered the Johnson White House and the early days of the Nixon administration as it wrestled with the competing demands of black voters and southern resistance to a new world. The memoir concludes with engaging postings from New Orleans and London and other travels of a reporter always on the lookout for new people, old ways, good company, and fresh outrages.

Statesmen, Scoundrels, and Eccentrics Tom Dillard, Roy Reed, 2010-04-01 From Native Americans, explorers, and early settlers to entertainers, business people, politicians, lawyers, artists, and many others, the well-known and not so well-known Arkansans featured in Statesmen, Scoundrels, and Eccentrics have fascinating stories. To name a few, there's the Hanging Judge Isaac C. Parker of Fort Smith and Hattie Caraway, the first elected female U.S. senator. Isaac T. Gillam, a slave who became a prominent politician in post-Civil War Little Rock, is included, as is Norman McLeod, an eccentric Hot Springs photographer and owner of the city's first large tourist trap. These entertaining short biographies from Dillard's Remembering Arkansas column will be enjoyed by all kinds of readers, young and old alike. Speak So I Shall Know Thee William J. Walsh, 2012-02-29 A R Ammons was asked if he agreed that the United States has not produced a major poet in the last 30 years I agree The poetry in the country has become sort of a company affair where support for the arts has just about ruined the arts and the system of bureaucrats managing the funds being developed here and there is turning into trade unionism which may be the best way to write poetry but it is unfamiliar to me This comprehensive collection contains 31 interviews in which Southern writers talk about their craft the Southern literary scene and themselves Poets short story writers and novelists include firmly established writers side by side with emerging talent Lee Smith James Dickey Harry Crews Pat Conroy Doris Bett Pulitzer Prize winner Donald Justice and 25 others

Clovis Lithic Technology Michael R. Waters, Charlotte D. Pevny, David L. Carlson, Thomas A. Jennings, 2011-10-01 Some 13,000 years ago, humans were drawn repeatedly to a small valley in what is now Central Texas near the banks of Buttermilk Creek. These early hunter-gatherers camped, collected stone, and shaped it into a variety of tools they needed to hunt game, process food, and subsist in the Texas wilderness. Their toolkit included bifaces, blades, and deadly spear points. Where they worked, they left thousands of pieces of debris which have allowed archaeologists to reconstruct their methods of tool production. Along with the faunal material that was also discarded in their prehistoric campsite, these stone or lithic artifacts afford a glimpse of human life at the end of the last ice age during an era referred to as Clovis. The area where these people roamed and camped, called the Gault site, is one of the most important Clovis sites in North America. A decade ago, a team from Texas A M University excavated a single area of the site formally named Excavation Area 8 but informally dubbed the Lindsey Pit, which features the densest concentration of Clovis artifacts and the clearest stratigraphy at the Gault site. Some 67,000 lithic artifacts were recovered during fieldwork, along with 5,700 pieces of faunal material. In a thorough synthesis of the evidence from this prehistoric workshop, Michael R. Waters and his coauthors provide the technical data needed to interpret and compare this site with other sites from the same period, illuminating the story of Clovis people in the Buttermilk Creek Valley.
