Love And Power In The Peasant Family:

Love and Power in the Peasant Family Martine Segalen, 1983 Historical Anthropology of the Family Martine Segalen, 1986-11-28 Over the past decade or so the social scientific sociological analysis of the family has been obliged to reconsider its traditional view that industrialisation triggered a shift within society from the large family which fulfilled all social functions from socialising the children to caring for the sick and the old to the modern nuclear family which was regarded solely as being the locus for emotional relationships Historians have shown that in the past there was a variety of family structures within a range of varying demographic economic and cultural frameworks distinctive for each society At the same time the interaction between sociology and social anthropology has led to a clearer conceptual analysis of that vague polysemic term family and notions of dwelling place descent marriage the relative roles of husband and wife and parent child relations as well as the more general relations between generations have in a variety of past and present social contexts been taken apart and analysed In this book the author synthesises European and North American historical and social anthropological material on the family that shows the reversal of the frequently held view of the family as an institution in decline showing it instead to be both dynamic and resistant A Millennium of Family Change Wally

Seccombe, 1995-10-17 How do changes in family form relate to changes in society as a whole In a work which combines theoretical rigour with historical scope Wally Seccombe provides a powerful study of the changing structure of families from the Middle Ages to the beginning of the Industrial Revolution Responding to feminist critiques of sex blind historical materialism Seccombe argues that family forms must be seen to be at the heart of modes of production He takes issue with the mainstream consensus in family history which argues that capitalism did not fundamentally alter the structure of the nuclear family and makes a controversial intervention in the long standing debate over European marriage patterns and their relation to industrialization Drawing on an astonishing range of studies in family history historical demography and economic history A Millennium of Family Change provides an integrated overview of the long transition from feudalism to capitalism illuminating the far reaching changes in familial relations from peasant subsistence to the making of the modern working class

Love, Intimacy and Power Katie Barclay, 2013-07-19 Winner of the 2012 Senior Hume Brown Prize in Scottish History and the 2012 Women's History Network UK Book Prize Through an analysis of the correspondence of over one hundred couples from the Scottish elites across the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries this book explores how ideas around the nature of emotional intimacy love and friendship within marriage adapted to a modernising economy and society Patriarchy continued to be the central model for marriage across the period and as a result women found spaces to hold power within the family but could not translate it to power beyond the household Comparing the Scottish experience to that across Europe and North America Barclay shows that throughout the eighteenth century far from being a side note in European history Scottish ideas about gender and marriage became culturally dominant Now available in paperback this book will be vital to those studying and teaching Scottish social history and those interested in the history of marriage and gender. It will also appeal to feminists interested in the history of patriarchy. An important and original study. WHN Book Prize 2012 Judges

Women in France Since 1789 Susan Foley, 2017-03-14 This compelling study traces the changes in women's lives in France from 1789 to the present. Susan K. Foley surveys the patterns of women's experiences in the socially segregated society of the early nineteenth century and then traces the evolution of their lifestyles to the turn of the twenty-first century when many of the earlier social distinctions had disappeared. Focusing on women's contested place within the political nation, Women in France since 1789 examines the ongoing strength of notions of sexual difference. Recurrent debates over gender, the anxiety created by women's perceived departure from ideals of womanhood, major controversies over matters such as reproductive rights, significant cultural changes, and women's often underestimated political roles. By addressing and exploring these key issues, Foley demonstrates women's efforts over two centuries to create a place in society on their own terms.

Revolutionizing the Family Neil J. Diamant, 2023-04-28 In 1950 China's new Communist government enacted a Marriage Law to allow free choice in marriage and easier access to divorce. Prohibiting arranged marriages, concubinage, and bigamy, it was one of the most dramatic efforts ever by a state to change marital and family relationships. In this comprehensive study of the effects of that law, Neil J. Diamant draws on newly opened urban and rural archival sources to offer a detailed analysis of how the law was interpreted and implemented throughout the country. In sharp contrast to previous studies of the Marriage Law, which have argued that it had little effect in rural areas, Diamant argues that the law reshaped marriage and family relationships in significant but often unintended ways throughout the Maoist period. His evidence reveals a confused and often conflicted state apparatus as well as cases of Chinese men and women taking advantage of the law to justify multiple sexual encounters, to marry for beauty, to demand expensive gifts for engagement, and to divorce on multiple occasions. Moreover, he finds that those who were best placed to use the law's more liberal provisions were not well-educated urbanites but rather illiterate peasant women who had never heard of sexual equality and it was poor men, not women, who were those most betrayed by the peasant-based revolution. Revolution in the House Margaret H. Darrow, 2014-07-14 To what extent did the French Revolution revolutionize the French family? In examining the changes in inheritance laws brought on by the Revolution, Margaret Darrow gives a lively account of the mixed effects legislation had on families of this period. As a test case, she has chosen the southern city of Montauban whose Roman based law enabling testators to appoint their heirs was contradicted by the new laws instituting equal inheritance Filled with vivid anecdotes this book shows how Montauban families in varying social classes adapted their financial strategies to cope with rapidly shifting circumstances often creating solutions not envisioned by the legislators With family history as its focus Revolution in the House also provides a detailed social history of Montauban during the French Revolution Its sources are archival and its argument rests upon a statistical study of the making and unmaking of family fortunes across several generations Darrow shows that in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the transmission of wealth expressed a way of life on the social political religious and economic levels not only at the top of society but throughout the entire social order Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Marriage Choices and Class Boundaries Marco H. D. van Leeuwen, Ineke Maas, Andrew Miles, 2005 Endogamy the custom forbidding marriage outside one's social class is central to social history This study considers the factors determining who married whom whether partner selection changed over the past three hundred years and regional differences between Europe and South America
