Ferraro, Frederik Pedersen, 2021-11-18

Marriage in Europe became a central pillar of society during the medieval period Theologians lawyers and secular and church leaders agreed on a unique outline of the institution and its legal framework the essential features of which remained in force until the 1980s The medieval Western European definition of marriage was unique before the legal consequences of marriage came into being the parties had to promise to engage in sexual union only with one partner and to remain in the marriage until one of the parties died This requirement had profound implications for inheritance rules and for the organization of the family economy it was explained and justified in a multitude of theological discussions and legal decisions across all faiths on the European continent Normative texts built on the foundations of the scriptures of several religious traditions provided an impressive intellectual framework around marriage In addition developments in iconography including sculpture and painting projected the dominant model of marriage while social demographic and cultural changes encouraged its adoption This volume traces the medieval discussion of marriage in practice law theology and iconography It provides an examination of the wider political and economic context of marriage and offers an overview of the ebb and flow of society s
