genre in all its complexity James Chapman argues that historical films say as much about the times in which they are made as about the past they purport to portray Through in depth case studies of fourteen key films spanning the 1930s up to the turn of the twenty first century from The Private Life of Henry VIII and Zulu to Chariots of Fire and Elizabeth Chapman examines the place of historical films in British cinema history and film culture Looking closely at the issues that they present from gender class and ethnicity to militarism and imperialism he also discusses controversies over historical accuracy and the ways in which devices such as voice overs title captions and visual references to photographs and paintings assert a sense of historical verisimilitude Exploring throughout the book the dialectical relationship between past and present Chapman reveals how such films promote British achievements but also sometimes question them and how they project images of Britishness to audiences both in the UK and internationally fourteen films spanning the years of World War II in Europe from The Hound of the Baskervilles in 1939 to Dressed to Kill in 1946 Basil Rathbone's portrayal of Holmes has influenced every actor who has since played him on film TV stage and radio yet the film series has until now been neglected in terms of detailed critical analysis The book looks at the films themselves in combination with their historical context and examines how the studio updated Holmes and recruited him to fight the Nazis steering a careful course between modernising the detective and making sure he was still recognisable as the old Holmes in clothes locations and behaviour
