Madagascar, 1987 The Politics of Institutional Failure in Madagascar's Third Republic Richard R.

Marcus, 2016-02-10 Madagascar's constitution of August 19 1992 brought hope to a population exhausted by economic failures associated with a failed experiment in scientific socialism and years of mismanagement The repetition of transparent elections and the promulgation of good governance in the years that followed appeared to serve as an indicator of institutional strengthening and by extension progress Unfortunately a broader institutional analysis points toward a series of shocks to the political system by way of legal but highly detrimental juridical and constitutional shifts to the system These shocks were meant to serve particularized political networks with long clientalistic roots and were made possible by the narrow vision of institutionalism that did not take careful stock of those networks or the leaders at the top of them Little effort was made to look beyond a legislature brought in by careful elections but producing legislation serving individuals the ways in which inchoate political parties distort institutional outcomes and the potential for institutionalization the weakness of civil society to offer opportunities for popular engagement or the use of donor funded decentralization programs to build ministries that served as powerful and rapid proxies for leadership centralization By the time the celebrated president Marc Ravalomanana was overthrown in March 2009 it became clear that there were few opportunities to seed political opposition and such limited space between individual leaders and primary institutions of public management that critical state functions immediately began to unravel In this book the author considers the institutions of the Third Republic how they formed and why they looked like models for democratic change before turning to consider how the institutions themselves have been manipulated in plain sight by leaders looking to champion their own networks He concludes that the rise of the Fourth Republic in 2010 did little to address these underlying concerns and argues that a new agenda is in order to consider not just the way in which institutions form but the way in which networks of power and leaders at the top of those networks grow and change malleable institutions in young democracies with few avenues of accountability The Global Coffee Economy in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, 1500-1989 William Gervase Clarence-Smith, Steven Topik, 2003-06-16 Coffee beans grown in Brazil Colombia Vietnam or one of the other hundred producing lands on five continents remain a palpable and long standing manifestation of globalization For five hundred years coffee has been grown in tropical countries for consumption in temperate regions This 2003 volume brings together scholars from nine countries who study coffee markets and societies over the last five centuries in fourteen countries on four continents and across the Indian and Pacific Oceans with a special emphasis on the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The chapters analyse the creation and function of commodity labour and financial markets the role of race ethnicity gender and class in the formation of coffee societies the interaction between technology and ecology and the impact of colonial powers nationalist regimes and the forces of the world economy in the forging of economic development and political democracy

Madagascar Hilary Bradt, 2007 A thorough travel guide brimming with character for both independent visitors and those on organised tours to Madagascar Madagascar Maureen Covell, Martin Stuart-Fox, 1986-01 The Politics of Ethnic Conflict Regulation John McGarry, Brendan O'Leary, 2013-06-17 This major and timely collection addresses one of the world's most visible and tragic problems ethnic conflict and its regulation It begins with a guide to the primary methods used to eliminate or manage ethnic conflict and is followed by a global sample of case studies written by leading authorities in their fields The Handbook of African Intelligence Cultures Ryan Shaffer, 2023-02-06 Bringing together a group of international scholars The Handbook of African Intelligence Cultures provides the first review of intelligence cultures in every African country It explores how intelligence cultures are influenced by a range of factors including past and present societal governmental and international dynamics In doing so the book examines the state's role civil society and foreign relations in shaping African countries intelligence norms activities and oversight It also explores the role intelligence services and cultures play in government and civil society Madagascar Philip M. Allen, 2019-04-02 The world's fourth largest island with a unique biological and physical endowment Madagascar is home to an extraordinary insular civilization that has struggled for more than a century against external domination In this sensitive introduction to the Indian Ocean's great island Philip Allen shows how family affinities and community loyalties at the foundation of Madagascar's culture have influenced Malagasy nationalism and forged islandwide traditions These same principles have nonetheless engendered social cleavages and resistance to economic and political change In chapters on modern Madagascar Allen analyzes the inability of a series of regimes to maintain authority among a people deeply bound to rituals of communication with their spiritual environment He demonstrates how the first Malagasy Republic became stigmatized by its lingering identification with French colonialism and how the nationalist revolution in 1972 soon hardened into autocratic radicalism Allen explores the complex challenges facing Madagascar's resurgent democratic forces including a need to conserve the island's irreplaceable biodiversity and to facilitate authentic participation in public affairs without offending ancestral customs and local precedents Finally he discusses efforts to end Madagascar s economic and political dependence and to improve living conditions for its tragically impoverished population The Indian Ocean Rim Gwyn Campbell,2013-11-19 The Indian Ocean Rim Association for Regional Cooperation was formally established in 1997 under the leadership of South Africa India and Australia The demise of Apartheid the fall of the Soviet empire and the rapid advance of globalization altered the geopolitics of the Indian Ocean region in the early 1990s and served as a catalyst in the creation of the IOR This book contextualizes the founding of the IOR by outlining the historical aspects of economic ties across the Indian Ocean and previous attempts to promote regional cooperation The contributors to this volume analyse the post colonial ideological legacy the political and economic constraints caused by Apartheid and communism the end of protectionism and the problem of globalization These major themes in the history of the IOR are applied to what the future holds for Southern Africa within this economic grouping and whether or not regional cooperation will manage to compete with globalization This volume will be of interest to scholars of development studies international relations Third World studies and regional development Almanac of African Peoples and Nations Mohamad Yakan,2017-11-30 The peoples of Africa are neither ethnically culturally nor religiously homogeneous European colonial powers took little note of this reality in carving up the continent a fact reflected in the periodic outbreak of civil war since decolonialization Likewise Western European models of development whether in their liberal or Marxist manifestations have so far failed to meet African development needs The path to stability in Africa is through its people s character and goals Almanac of African Peoples and Nations provides an essential guide to the major ethnic groups of the African continent highlighting the major contributions and basic features of each The Almanac reviews Africa s language families and their respective national and geographic concentrations explaining ethnic classification based on linguistic difference and including language groups that are not indigenous to Africa The major African peoples are then listed by country with a statistical breakdown on their respective shares in the total population of each country and maps indicating their concentration The major section of the volume includes a comprehensive listing and descriptive profile of each ethnic national and tribal group detailing their history customs economic systems and political and social organizations The Almanac points out as well which groups support revisionist political aspirations and shows the internal and external pressures they are subject to Yakan notes that African societies are not highly integrated and must support multitudes of influential sub cultures with conflicting agendas and loyalties Arguing that tribalism reflects Africa s historical experience and cultural heritage he sees the resolution of the continent s problems in consociational democracy proportional representation federalism or some form of autonomous rule World Directory of Minorities Bridget Anderson, James Chin,John Connell,Patrick Costello,Lindsey Crickmay,Chris Dammers,James Ferguson,David Hawk,David McDowall,Anna Matveeva,Julia Maxted,Neil Melvin,Peter O'Neill,Suzanne Pattle,Martyn Rady,Javaid Rehman,Alex Roslin,Nikhil Roy,David Sogge, Bogdan Szajkowski,Carl Wilson,Abebe Zegeye,1997-01-01 This publication is the first version of the World Directory of Minorities and Indigenous Peoples published in 1997 The full Directory is now available and continually updated on our website The large majority of violent conflicts in the world today are conflicts within states with groups polarized across ethnic and religious divides and not across borders Ethnic religious and linguistic minorities are often among the poorest of the poor suffer discrimination and are frequently the victims of human rights abuses Time and time again in the past the United Nations system governments and even non governmental organizations NGOs working in the field of conflict prevention have failed to promote the human rights of minorities or to take early action to promote cooperation between communities Early action may have prevented the loss of millions of lives in many countries ranging from Rwanda to the former Yugoslavia and from Sri Lanka to Guatemala It is also significant that the Nobel Peace Prize was awarded to the Dalai Lama in 1989 and to Jose Ramos Horta and Bishop Carlos Belo in 1996 as a result of their peaceful campaigns to promote the rights of their people The situation of minorities is then a matter of major concern and it is essential that accurate objective and up to date information is made available This Directory contributes to that process It is difficult to assess accurately what proportion of the world s population identify themselves as belonging to minority communities Conservative estimates place this above 10 per cent and some suggest that more than 20 per cent of the world s population belongs to several thousand different minority groups and subgroups National statistics are often skewed for political reasons and there is no universally accepted definition of minorities The word has different interpretations in different societies throughout the world while the United Nations General Assembly has not sought to reach a definition beyond that implied in the title of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Persons belonging to National or Ethnic Religious and Linguistic Minorities adopted in December 1992 Minority Rights Group focuses its work on non dominant ethnic religious and linguistic communities whether or not they are numerical minorities The concept thus relates to any self identified community that is marginalized without power unable to take decisions over its destiny and often experiencing high levels of illiteracy under education and overt or covert discrimination The basic rights of such communities need protection and promotion There is however a danger of generalizing about minorities and forgetting the complexity of their social composition including the rural poor urban migrants older people women and children These groups may be considered as doubly vulnerable What makes their situation particularly problematic is that there is often a deliberate political policy on the part of majorities and states not to give due regard to the legitimate interests of minorities while members of minorities see their identity as central to their social and economic situation They are often excluded from political power and decision making in the development process without equal opportunities to secure a better quality of life One further danger may lie in regarding ethnicities as fixed rather than as the potentially fluid phenomena that they often are Situational ethnicity does occur and individuals and groups do modify their self identifications depending on circumstances Please note that the terminology in the fields of minority rights and indigenous peoples rights has changed over time MRG strives to reflect these changes as well as respect the right to self identification on the part of minorities and indigenous peoples At the same time after over 50 years work we know that our archive is of considerable interest to activists and researchers Therefore we make available as much of our back catalogue as possible while being aware that the language used may not reflect current thinking on these issues Encyclopedia of the Developing World Thomas M. Leonard,2013-10-18 A RUSA 2007 Outstanding Reference Title The Encyclopedia of the Developing World is a comprehensive work on the historical and current status of developing countries Containing more than 750 entries the Encyclopedia encompasses primarily the years since 1945 and defines development broadly addressing not only economics but also civil society and social progress Entries cover the most important theories and measurements of development relate historical events movements and concepts to development both internationally and regionally where applicable examine the contributions of the most important persons and organizations and detail the progress made within geographic regions and by individual countries The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights Volume 2 Nat Rubner,2023 Landmark study of the African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights Documents on one side the international community s inability to foist a human rights system upon Africa and on the other the process within the OAU now African Union that eventually brought it into being and determined its content The African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights ACHPR which was proposed in 1979 adopted in 1981 and came into effect in 1986 was the first non Western declaration of human rights and the first official statement of an African human rights perspective With Africa largely absent in 1948 when the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR was adopted it stands in stark historical reproach to the Western conception of universal human rights as a pivotal document in the decolonisation of the continent This book for the first time presents a comprehensive account of the development of the ACHPR which is key to a proper understanding of its fundamental nature Through documenting its process of construction it becomes possible to understand how Africans themselves understood the process and the issues involved and how the ACHPR became a political text asserted by African leaders and not a continuum of a so called universal human rights tradition The result is a radical repositioning of the underlying context of the ACHPR one of the most important documents in modern African history of how it came to be and how it should therefore be understood Volume 2 describes the process through which the ACHPR came into being Analysing the role of Western governments the UN and NGOs it shows that contrary to the prevailing view of African human rights commentators their influence was limited and at times counter productive That in fact the formulation of the ACHPR was a profoundly political process that was primarily a product of an African desire to instigate its own human rights perspective as a counter to the human rights universalism advanced by the Western post war human rights tradition Shakespeare and World Cinema Mark Thornton Burnett,2013 This book explores the significance of Shakespeare in contemporary world cinema for the first time Mark Thornton Burnett draws on a wealth of examples from Africa the Arctic Brazil China France India Malaysia Mexico Singapore Tibet Venezuela Yemen and elsewhere
