This book tells the story of what happens when an essentially Parisian institution travels and establishes itself in its neighbour's capital city bringing with it French food culture and culinary practices. The arrival and evolution of the French restaurant in the British capital is a tale of culinary and cultural exchange and of continuity and change in the development of London's dining out culture. Although the main character of this story is the French restaurant, this cultural history also necessarily engages with the people who produce, purvey, purchase and consume that food culture in many different ways and in many different settings in London over a period of some one hundred and fifty years. British references to France and to the French are littered with associations with food whether it is desired, rejected, admired, loathed, envied, disdained from the status of haute cuisine and the restaurants and chefs associated with it to contemporary concerns about food poverty and food waste to dietary habits and the politicisation of food and at every level in between. However, thinking about the place of the French restaurant in London restaurant and food culture over a long time span in many and varied places and spaces in the capital creates a more nuanced picture than that which may at first seem obvious.

Madame Prunier's fish cook book Michel Bouzy, 1963 Rigby's Encyclopaedia of the Herring Graeme Rigby, 2025-10-02

Almost everything you didn't know you needed to know about Atlantic herrings can be found in this book. Pacific and Baltic herrings are in there too. Yes, they changed the world, everything changes, everything but herrings make the world bigger. With spawnings seen from space, a trillion individuals make this one of the tastiest and most abundant vertebrates on Earth. Between A Beginning and Zuiderzee, count the wars fought over herrings, don't forget Scotland vs the Holy Roman Empire. The herring's high pitched farts were logged as Soviet submarines and received an Ig Nobel Prize. One herring joke featured in four Shakespeare plays, a Jonson, the glorious suppressed fantasia Nashes Lenten Stuffe and one suppressed and lost play. And what of Van Gogh's ear? Herrings also laugh at taxonomists, physically change with sea temperature and salinity, stuff predators full to bursting then swim away. Well, it worked for 100 000 000 years. The Great Sardine Litigation. The true history.
