Richard Daniel Altick

Madame Tubaud In England:

Madame Tussaud Pamela Pilbeam, 2006-08-10 Tussaud's catered for the public's fascination with monarchy whether Henry VIII and his wives or Queen Victoria as well as for their love of history acting as an accessible and enjoyable museum This work looks at Madame Tussaud herself and her exhibition as part of the wider history of wax modelling and of popular entertainment

The Human Tradition in Modern France K. Steven Vincent, Alison Klairmont-Lingo, 2000-10-01 The Human Tradition in Modern France gives a human perspective of the history of France from 1789 to the present revealed in essays that highlight individuals and intriguing events that too often have been lost under labels and statistics Students will gain an understanding of the humor and passion in French history from these new original essays by well established scholars This collection also relates the individuals events and controversies to current historiographical debates The Human Tradition in Modern France is an excellent supplementary text for courses on French history and is also useful for courses in world history and Western Civilization

Picture World Rachel Teukolsky, 2020 Explores the ways in which new forms of visual culture such as the illustrated newspaper the cheap caricature cartoon the affordable illustrated book the portrait photograph and the advertising poster worked to shape key Victorian aesthetic concepts

The Culture of History Billie Melman, 2006-06-22 In this original and widely researched book Billie Melman explores the culture of history during the age of modernity Her book is about the production of English pasts the multiplicity of their representations and the myriad ways in which the English looked at history sometimes in the most literal sense of looking and made use of it in a social and material urban world and in their imagination Covering the period between the Napoleonic Wars and the Coronation of 1953 Melman recoups the work of antiquarians historians novelists and publishers wax modellers cartoonists and illustrators painters playwrights and actors reformers and educationalists film stars and their fans musicians and composers opera fans and radio listeners Avoiding a separation between high and low culture Melman analyses nineteenth century plebeian culture and twentieth century mass culture and their venues like Madame Tussaud's Chamber of Horrors panoramas national monuments like the Tower of London and films as well as studying forms of minority art notably opera She demonstrates how history was produced and how it circulated from texts visual images and sounds to people and places and back to a variety of texts and images While paying attention to individuals making do with culture Melman considers constrictions of class gender the state and the market place on the consumption of history Focusing on two privileged pasts the Tudor monarchy and the French Revolution the latter seen as an English event and as the framework for narrating and comprehending history Melman shows that during the nineteenth century the most popular longest enduring and most highly commercialized images of the past represented it not as cosy and secure but rather as dangerous disorderly and violent The past was also imagined as an urban place rather than as rural In Melman's account City not green Country is the centre of a popular version of the past whose central Images are the dungeon the gallows and the guillotine

Capital Punishment in Twentieth-Century Britain Lizzie Seal, 2014-03-05 Capital punishment for murder was abolished in Britain in 1965 At this time the way people in Britain perceived and understood the death penalty had changed it was an issue that had become increasingly controversial high profile and fraught with emotion In order to understand why this was it is necessary to examine how ordinary people learned about and experienced capital punishment Drawing on primary research this book explores the cultural life of the death penalty in Britain in the twentieth century including an exploration of the role of the popular press and a discussion of portrayals of the death penalty in plays novels and films Popular protest against capital punishment and public responses to and understandings of capital cases are also discussed particularly in relation to conceptualisations of justice Miscarriages of justice were significant to capital punishment s increasingly fraught nature in the mid twentieth century and the book analyses the unsettling power of two such high profile miscarriages of justice The final chapters consider the continuing relevance of capital punishment in Britain after abolition including its symbolism and how people negotiate memories of the death penalty Capital Punishment in Twentieth Century Britain is groundbreaking in its attention to the death penalty and the effect it had on everyday life and it is the only text on this era to place public and popular discourses about and reactions to capital punishment at the centre of the analysis Interdisciplinary in focus and methodology it will appeal to historians criminologists sociologists and socio legal scholars

Women and the Material Culture of Death Beth Fowkes Tobin, 2017-07-05 Examining the compelling and often poignant connection between women and the material culture of death this collection focuses on the objects women make the images they keep the practices they use or are responsible for and the places they inhabit and construct through ritual and custom Women s material practices ranging from wearing mourning jewelry to dressing the dead stitching memorial samplers to constructing skull boxes collecting funeral programs to collecting and studying diseased hearts making and collecting taxidermies and making sculptures honoring the death are explored in this collection as well as women s affective responses and sentimental labor that mark their expected and unexpected participation in the social practices surrounding death and the dead The largely invisible work involved in commemorating and constructing narratives and memorials about the dead from family members and friends to national figures calls attention to the role women as memory keepers for families local communities and the nation Women have tended to work collaboratively making collecting and sharing objects that conveyed sentiments about the deceased whether human or animal as well as the identity of mourners Death is about loss and many of the mourning practices that women have traditionally and are currently engaged in are about dealing with private grief and public loss as well as working to mitigate the more general anxiety that death engenders about the impermanence of life A Wanderer in London Edward Verrall Lucas,1913 The Emergence of Modern Marketing R.A. Church,Andrew Godley,2004-08-02 Modern marketing and advertising deeply influence the way we in which perceive the world and define our identity Yet many of today s marketing and advertising practices are themselves products of earlier times The development of brands of advertising techniques and modern retailing are all associated with economic and business development of earlier periods This collection of essays considers the emergence of modern marketing by examining product differentiation and brand creation distribution and retailing strategies as well as advertising in a range of case studies covering the United States Continental Europe and the United Kingdom It highlights important innovations in marketing whilst underlining some surprising continuities and is a valuable reference for undergraduate and postgraduate students of marketing and advertising London Jacqueline Brown,2006-06-06 Providing helpful guides to traveling with children these easy to use travel handbooks offer a wide variety of fun filled educational hassle free activities available in cities around the world covering everything from family days to puppet theaters and museums along with planning tips addresses admission prices age appropriateness and nearby restaurant recommendations Nasby in Exile, Or, Six Months of Travel in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium David Ross Locke,1882 Material Literacy in 18th-Century Britain Bloomsbury Publishing,2020-09-03 The eighteenth century has been hailed for its revolution in consumer culture but Material Literacy in Eighteenth Century Britain repositions Britain as a nation of makers It brings new attention to eighteenth century craftswomen and men with its focus on the material knowledge possessed not only by professional artisans and amateur makers but also by skilled consumers This edited collection gathers together a group of interdisciplinary scholars working in the fields of art history history literature and museum studies to unearth the tactile and tacit knowledge that underpinned fashion tailoring and textile production It invites us into the workshops drawing rooms and backrooms of a broad range of creators and uncovers how production and tacit knowledge extended beyond the factories and machines which dominate industrial histories This book illuminates for the first time the material literacies learnt enacted and understood by British producers and consumers The skills required for sewing embroidering and the textile arts were possessed by a large proportion of the British population men women and children professional and amateur alike Building on previous studies of shoppers and consumption in the period as well as narratives of manufacture these essays document the multiplicity of small producers behind Britain's consumer revolution reshaping our understanding of the dynamics between making and objects consumption and production It demonstrates how material knowledge formed an essential part of daily life for eighteenth century Britons Craft technique practice and production the contributors show constituted forms of tactile languages that joined makers together whether they produced objects for profit or pleasure

The Shows of London Richard Daniel Altick, 1978 A berserk elephant gunned down in the heart of London a machine for composing Latin hexameters and the original rock band 1841 these are but three of the sights that London curiosity seekers from every walk of life paid to see from the Elizabethan era to the mid Victorian period Examining hundreds of the wonderfully varied exhibitions that culminated in the Crystal Palace of 1851 this generously illustrated book sheds light on a vast and colorful expanse of English social history that has thus far remained wholly unsurveyed Drawing on a wealth of never before used information Mr Altick traces London exhibitions as they evolved from the display of relics in pre Reformation churches through the collections of eighteenth century virtuosi to the first science museums and public art galleries He also narrates for the first time the history of the panorama and diorama as an influential genre of nineteenth century popular art At every point the London shows are linked to the prevailing intellectual atmosphere and to trends in public taste The material is fresh and fascinating the range from freaks to popular science from the funeral effigies at Westminster Abbey to Madame Tussaud's waxworks impressive Like the exhibitions that best served the Victorian ideal of mass culture The Shows of London is both entertaining and informative
