Innovation, Employment and Growth Policy Issues in the EU and the US Paul J.J. Welfens,John T. Addison,2009-07-21 Economic development has cyclical dynamics and long term dynamics the latter are typically related to demographical changes innovation and long term institutional changes in open economies Financial markets that means mainly capital markets and labor markets are affected in OECD countries both by innovations and institutional reforms As regards demographics ageing is a typical challenge on both sides of the Atlantic and pension reforms in industrialized countries have placed greater emphasis on capital markets than in previous decades Innovation dynamics certainly are also quite important for all high wage OECD countries The Lisbon Agenda has put particular emphasis on more growth higher innovation dynamics and better exploitation of the advantages of a digitally networked society Traditionally the US has a lead in global innovations and the US policy certainly has contributed to the American technological leadership There still is a per capita income gap in favor of the US and the US labor market situation also looks relatively favorable but in the ve years since 2001 employment growth in the euro area was higher than that of the US The euro area is however a rather heterogeneous set of countries which differ in terms of institutions attitudes and reform progress and everywhere governments are aware that there have to be reforms not least in the context of globalization which bring a more complex and dynamic spatial structure of value added

The White House Looks South William E. Leuchtenburg,2005-10 Perhaps not southerners in the usual sense Franklin D Roosevelt Harry S Truman and Lyndon B Johnson each demonstrated a political style and philosophy that helped them influence the South and unite the country in ways that few other presidents have Combining vivid biography and political insight William E Leuchtenburg offers an engaging account of relations between these three presidents and the South while also tracing how the region came to embrace a national perspective without losing its distinctive sense of place According to Leuchtenburg each man had one foot below the Mason Dixon Line one foot above Roosevelt a New Yorker spent much of the last twenty five years of his life in Warm Springs Georgia where he built a Little White House Truman a Missourian grew up in a pro Confederate town but one that also looked West because of its history as the entrep t for the Oregon Trail Johnson who hailed from the former Confederate state of Texas was a westerner as much as a southerner Their intimate associations with the South gave these three presidents an empathy toward and acceptance in the region In urging southerners to jettison outworn folkways Roosevelt could speak as a neighbor and adopted son Truman as a borderstater who had been taught to revere the Lost Cause and Johnson as a native who had been scorned by Yankees Leuchtenburg explores in fascinating detail how their unique attachment to place helped them to adopt shifting identities which proved useful in healing rifts between North and South in altering behavior in regard to race and in fostering southern economic growth The White House Looks South is the monumental work of a master historian At a time when race class and gender dominate historical writing Leuchtenburg argues that place is no less significant In a period when America is said to be homogenized he shows that sectional distinctions persist And in an era when political history is devalued he demonstrates that government can profoundly affect people s lives and that presidents can be change makers
