Making And Breaking Families:

Making and Breaking Families Jill Curtis, 1998 This work looks at the many new combinations which constitute a family at the end of the 20th century Men and women to whom the author talked describe what happened when their marriage broke and how their new families emerged sometimes through great difficulties The book closes with guidance to the many professionals who might find themselves giving counselling or giving guidance to families as they go through a demanding period of transition

Easy Lessons for Teaching Word Families Judy Lynch, Chambliss Maxie, 1998 A practical guide for teachers to link phonemic awareness hearing sounds in words with phonics the visual details of print

Queering Families Tamara Lea Spira, 2025 Envisioning queer futures where we lovingly wager everything for the world's children the planet and all living beings against all odds and in increasingly precarious times Queering Families traces the shifting dominant meanings of queer family from the late twentieth century to today With this book Tamara Lea Spira highlights the growing embrace of normative family structures by LGBTQ movements calling into question how many queers once deemed unfit to parent have become contradictory agents within the US empire's racial and colonial agendas Simultaneously Queering Families celebrates the rich history of queer reproductive justice from the radical movements of the 1970s through the present led by Black decolonial and queer of color feminist activists Ultimately Spira argues that queering reproductive justice impels us to build communities of care to cherish and uphold the lives of those who defying normativity's violent stranglehold are deemed to be unworthy of life She issues the call to lovingly wager a future for the world's children the planet and all living beings against all odds and in increasingly perilous times

Making Gaybies Jaya Keaney, 2023-10-06 In Making Gaybies Jaya Keaney explores queer family making as a site of racialized intimacy Drawing on interviews with queer families in Australia Keaney traces the lived experiences of choice and constraint as these families seek to craft likeness with their future children and tell stories of chosen family made through love Queer family building often involves multiracial and multicultural encounters as intending parents take part in the global fertility industry Keaney follows queer family making through reproductive technologies and highlights the confines of varied transnational reproductive markets and policies as well as changing formations of race gender sexuality and kinship Whether sharing the story of white gay men choosing Indian and Thai egg donors to make their surrogate born children's ethnicities visually distinct from their own or that of an Aboriginal lesbian and her white partner choosing a Cherokee donor from the United States to articulate a global Indigeneity Keaney foregrounds the entwinement of reproduction race and affect By focusing on queer family making Keaney demonstrates how reproduction fosters a queer multiracial imaginary of kinship

The Slow Evolution of Foster Care in Australia Nell Musgrove, Deidre Michell, 2018-08-10 This book draws on archival oral history and public policy sources to tell a history of foster care in Australia from the nineteenth century to the present day It is primarily a social history which places the voices of people directly touched by foster care at the centre of the story but also within the wider social and political debates which have shaped foster care across more than a century The book confronts foster care's difficult past death and abuse of foster children family separation and a general public apathy towards these issues but it also acknowledges the resilience of people who have survived a childhood in foster care and the challenges faced by those who have worked hard to provide good foster homes and to make child welfare systems better These are themes which the book examines from an Australian perspective but which often resonate with foster care globally

Making Families Through Adoption Nancy E. Riley, Krista E. Van Vleet, 2012 This volume examines adoption as a way of understanding the practices and ideology of kinship and family more generally Adoption allows a window onto discussions of what constitute family or kin the role of biological connectedness oversight of parenting practices by the state and the role of race gender sexuality and socioeconomic class in the building of families The book focuses primarily on adoption practices in the US but will also use examples of adoption and fostering across cultures to put those American adoption practices into a comparative context While reviewing practices of and issues surrounding adoption the authors highlight the ways these practices and discussions allow us greater insight into overall practices of kinship and family

Making Families Jane Ribbens McCarthy, Rosalind Edwards, Val Gillies, 2017-09-08 This book goes to the heart of academic political and popular debates as well as professional concerns about the nature of contemporary family life and parenting Families are widely discussed in western societies as breaking down or as radically changing with step families in particular seen as evidence of such trends In one of the first British in depth sociological research studies for over two decades this book provides evidence of parents and step parents own understandings and experiences of their parenting in step families It addresses questions such as What does it mean to be a family Do people in step families see themselves as making a different kind of family Is individual happiness in a couple relationship prioritised at the expense of responsibilities towards children Can a step parent ever be regarded as the same as a biological mother or father What do people in step families do to try to make step family life work The book looks at how people create understand and experience their parenting and family lives It reveals how these understandings are rooted in a strong sense of moral responsibility but that what such responsibility constitutes varies according to gender and social class In particular it draws out key theoretical implications for understanding the nature of morality fairness and justice and questions ideas about individualisation and the democratisation of family life This book will be essential reading for those concerned with the study of contemporary family lives including sociologists social policy analysts family therapists professionals and practitioners It is also relevant to those interested in contemporary morality and everyday experiences

Queering Reproductive Justice Candace Bond-Theriault, 2024-08-06 The futures of reproductive justice and LGBTQIA liberation are intimately connected Both movements were born out of the desire to love and build families of our choosing when and how we decide Both movements are rooted in broader social justice liberationist traditions that center the needs of Black and brown communities the LGBTQIA community gender nonconforming folks femmes poor folks parents and all those who have been forced to the margins of society Taking as its starting point the idea that we all have the human right to bodily autonomy to sexual health and pleasure and to exercise these rights with dignity Queering Reproductive Justice sets out to reenvision the seemingly disparate strands of the reproductive justice and LGBTQIA movements and offer an invitation to reimagine these movements as one integrated vision of freedom for the future Candace Bond Theriault asserts that for reproductive justice to be truly successful we must acknowledge that members of the LGBTQIA community often face distinct specific and interlocking oppressions when it comes to these rights Family formation contraception needs and appropriate support from healthcare services are still poorly understood aspects of the LGBTQIA experience which often challenge mainstream notions of the nuclear family and the primacy of blood relatives Blending advocacy with a legal rights based framework Queering Reproductive Justice offers a unified path for attaining reproductive justice for LGBTQIA people Drawing on U S law and legislative history healthcare policy human rights and interviews with academics and activists Bond Theriault presents incisive new recommendations for queer reproductive justice theory organizing and advocacy This book offers readers an invitation to join the conversation and ultimately to join the movement to that is unapologetically queering reproductive justice

Make or Break Your Church in 365 Days Rev. Paul D. Borden, 2012-04-01 The joy of ministry is lost in the terror of being ill equipped for daily tasks This book leads the way providing clear plans for the daily tasks of effectively leading a congregation Make or Break Your Church in 365 Days helps pastors develop competency in the daily task of leading congregations by answering two fundamental questions What must be done in the first 365 days of a pastor's tenure What is the optimal way to structure a daily work life to affect change in the first year and beyond These very specific tasks are the behaviors that demonstrate competency and lead to growing effective churches

Making Families Work and What To Do When They Don't Terry S Trepper, Bill Borchardt, 2013-02-01 Making Families Work and What To Do When They Don't offers specific recommendations for increasing family harmony through more effective parenting practices This important new book helps parents improve family understanding and relationships by reducing the emotional interference anger betrayal guilt shame and fear that blocks healthier and happier family connections Each chapter is laced with knowledge and therapeutic humor that examine dimensions to family living in a way that helps parents lighten up a little rather than tighten up a lot Parents will find that encouraging family members to take one another less seriously increases their opportunities for more constructive interactions Marital and family counselors social workers psychologists guidance counselors psychiatrists and other human service professionals can use the valuable information in this book to help families view their interfamilial relationships more objectively and to take each other less seriously creating more constructive interactions and happier stronger relationships Therapists will learn to encourage clients to question and challenge conventional ideas of the family that often lead to demands exaggerations irrational expectations personalizations and self and other judgments all of which contaminate the family relationship Using the scientific principles of rational thinking

Author Bill Borchardt questions the relationship between parents and their children and the degree of influence parents have over their children. He places the focus on a parental advocacy model by which parents are encouraged to give themselves some emotional slack and to develop a sense of humility for what they can and cannot do for their children. This starts the process of family members learning what to realistically expect and accept from one another. Borchardt shows readers that by taking the sacredness and golden rules out of the definitions of family living, emotional upset and oppositional behavioral obstacles can be minimized and more emotional well-being and family fulfillment can be experienced. Each chapter in Making Families Work and What To Do When They Don't is lined with knowledge and therapeutic humor that examines dimensions of family living in a way that assists families in loosening up a little rather than tightening up a lot. This improves family members' understanding of and relationships among one another by reducing the emotional interference feelings of anger, betrayal, guilt, shame, fear that blocks healthy, happy family connections, and by offering specific practical recommendations for increasing family harmony. Through his analyses of 30 topics of family living presented under the umbrella of learning what to realistically expect of imperfect parents of imperfect children in an imperfect world, Borchardt reveals to readers that individuals are active participants in creating their own emotional problems and disturbances; people exaggerate the significance of past family disturbances; emotional slack and fewer unrealistic demands of self and others leads to a happier family; family members often disturb themselves unnecessarily by escalating family values into sacred demands; families don't shape character; they reveal it. Unlike other books about family living, Making Families Work and What To Do When They Don't analyzes the dysfunctional ideas that family members hold about themselves and others rather than the dysfunctional relationships that naturally exist between fallible human beings. In this guidebook, readers learn creative new ways of approaching old family problems and they gain succinct explanations of how they can help their own and other families do things differently and do different things to improve emotional and behavioral well-being within the family.

The Routledge Handbook of Anthropology and Reproduction Sallie Han, Cecília Tomori, 2021-11-09

The Routledge Handbook of Anthropology and Reproduction is a comprehensive overview of the topics, approaches and trajectories in the anthropological study of human reproduction. The book brings together work from across the discipline of anthropology with contributions by established and emerging scholars in archaeological, biological, linguistic and sociocultural anthropology. Across these areas of research, consideration is given to the contexts, conditions and contingencies that mark and shape the experiences of reproduction as always gendered, classed and racialized. Over 39 chapters, a diverse range of international scholars cover topics including Reproductive governance, stratification, justice and freedom, Fertility and infertility, Technologies and imaginations, Queering reproduction, Pregnancy, childbirth and reproductive loss, Postpartum and infant care, Care, kinship and alloparenting. This is a valuable reference for scholars and upper level students in anthropology and related disciplines associated with reproduction, including sociology, gender studies, science and technology studies, human development and
