Long Run Economic Relationships Readings In Cointegration:

The Principles of Practical Cost-benefit Analysis Robert Sugden, 1978 Long-run economic relationships Clive William John Granger, 1991 Time-Series-Based Econometrics Michio Hatanaka, 1996-01-25 In the last decade time series econometrics has made extraordinary developments on unit roots and cointegration. However, this progress has taken divergent directions and has been subjected to criticism from outside the field. In this book, Professor Hatanaka surveys the field, examines those portions that are useful for macroeconomics, and responds to the criticism. His survey of the literature covers not only econometric methods but also the application of these methods to macroeconomic studies. The most vigorous criticism has been that unit roots do not exist in macroeconomic variables and thus that cointegration analysis is irrelevant to macroeconomics. The judgement of this book is that unit roots are present in macroeconomic variables when we consider periods of 20 to 40 years but that the critics may be right when periods of 100 years are considered. Fortunately, most of the time series data used for macroeconomic studies cover fall within the shorter time span. Among the numerous methods for unit roots and cointegration, those useful from macroeconomic studies are examined and explained in detail without overburdening the reader with unnecessary mathematics. Other less applicable methods are discussed briefly and their weaknesses are exposed. Hatanaka has rigorously based his judgements about usefulness on whether the inference is appropriate for the length of the data sets available and also on whether a proper inference can be made on the sort of propositions that macroeconomists wish to test. This book highlights the relations between cointegration and economic theories and presents cointegrated regression as a revolution in econometric methods. Its analysis is of relevance to academic and professional or applied econometricians. Step by step explanations of concepts and techniques make the book a self-contained text for graduate students.

Econometrics Badi H. Baltagi, 2007-11-21 Here at last is the fourth edition of the textbook that is required reading for economics students as well as those practising applied economics. Not only does it teach some of the basic econometric methods and the underlying assumptions behind them but it also includes a simple and concise treatment of more advanced topics from spatial correlation to time series analysis. This book's strength lies in its ability to present complex material in a simple yet rigorous manner. This superb fourth edition updates identification and estimation methods in the simultaneous equation model. It also reviews the problem of weak instrumental variables as well as updating panel data methods.

Nonlinear Time Series Analysis of Economic and Financial Data Philip Rothman, 1999-01-31 Nonlinear Time Series Analysis of Economic and Financial Data provides an examination of the flourishing interest that has developed in this area over the past decade. The constant theme throughout this work is that standard linear time series tools leave unexamined and unexploited economically significant features in frequently used data sets. The book comprises original contributions written by specialists in the field and offers a combination of both applied and methodological papers. It will be useful to both seasoned veterans of nonlinear time series analysis and those searching for an informative panoramic look at front line developments in the area A Companion to Theoretical Econometrics Badi H. Baltagi, 2008-04-15 A Companion to Theoretical Econometrics provides a comprehensive reference to the basics of econometrics This companion focuses on the foundations of the field and at the same time integrates popular topics often encountered by practitioners The chapters are written by international experts and provide up to date research in areas not usually covered by standard econometric texts Focuses on the foundations of econometrics Integrates real world topics encountered by professionals and practitioners Draws on up to date research in areas not covered by standard econometrics texts Organized to provide clear accessible information and point to further readings Paradoxes in Food Chains and Networks J.H. Trienekens, S.W.F.

Omta, 2023-08-28 This publication contains the proceedings of the 5th international conference on chain and network management in agribusiness and the food industry Papers will focus on the paradoxes caused by conflicting interests in the fields of economics and ethics technology and environment legislation and internationalisation etc The modern consumer demands high quality products in broad assortments throughout the year and for competitive prices Society imposes constraints on companies in order to economize on the use of resources ensure animal friendly and safe production and restrict pollution Together with technological developments and increased international competition these demands have changed the production trade and distribution of food products beyond recognition Demand is no longer confined to local or regional supply The food industry is now swiftly becoming an interconnected system with a large variety of complex relationships This is changing the way food is brought to the market Currently even fresh produce shipped from halfway around the world can be offered at competitive prices These developments are accompanied by national and international regulations and legislation in the area of food quality and safety In response to these changes business strategies must now focus not only on traditional economical and technological interests but also on topical issues such as the safety and healthfulness of food products animal friendliness the environment etc To effectively address paradoxical demands facing businesses many problems and opportunities must be approached from a multi disciplinary perspective and trade offs must be made between different aspects of production trade and the distribution of food Econometric Business Cycle

Research Jan Jacobs, 2012-12-06 Econometric Business Cycle Research deals with econometric business cycle research EBCR a term introduced by the Nobel laureate Jan Tinbergen for his econometric method of testing economic business cycle theories EBCR combines economic theory and measurement in the study of business cycles i.e. ups and downs in overall economic activity We assess four methods of EBCR business cycle indicators simultaneous equations models vector autoregressive systems and real business indicators After a sketch of the history of the methods we investigate whether the methods meet the goals of EBCR the three traditional ones description forecasting and policy evaluation and the one Tinbergen introduced the implementation testing of business cycles The first three EBCR methods are illustrated for the Netherlands a typical example of a small open economy The main conclusion of the book is that simultaneous equation models are the best vehicle for EBCR if all its goals are to be attained simultaneously This conclusion is based on a fairly detailed assessment of the methods and is not over turned in the empirical illustrations The main conclusion does not imply the end of other EBCR methods Not all goals have to be met with a single vehicle other methods might serve the purpose equally well or even better For example if one is interested in business cycle forecasts one might prefer a business cycle indicator or vector autoregressive system A second conclusion is that many ideas concepts that play an important role in current discussions about econometric methodology in general and EBCR in particular were put forward in the 1930s and 1940s A third conclusion is that it is difficult if not impossible to compare the outcomes of RBC models to outcomes of the other three methods because RBC modellers are not interested in modelling business cycles on an observation per observation basis A more general conclusion in this respect is that methods should adopt the same concept of business cycles to make them comparable Dynamic Econometrics Francis J. Bismans, Olivier Damette, 2025-02-15 This textbook for advanced econometrics students introduces key concepts of dynamic non stationary modelling It discusses all the classic topics in time series analysis and linear models containing multiple equations as well as covering panel data models and non linear models of qualitative variables The book offers a general introduction to dynamic econometrics and covers topics including non stationary stochastic processes unit root tests Monte Carlo simulations heteroskedasticity autocorrelation cointegration and error correction mechanism models specification and vector autoregressions Going beyond advanced dynamic analysis the book also meticulously analyses the classical linear regression model CLRM and introduces students to estimation and testing methods for the more advanced auto regressive distributed lag ARDL model The book incorporates worked examples algebraic explanations and learning exercises throughout It will be a valuable resource for graduate and postgraduate students in econometrics and quantitative finance as well as academic researchers in this area The 9th Annual Conference of the Economic Forum of Entrepreneurship & International Business Ghada Gomaa A.
