Market Ethics and Practices, c.1300-1850 Simon Middleton, James E. Shaw, 2017-11-28 Market Ethics and Practices c 1300 1850 analyses the nature development and operation of market ethics in the context of social practices ranging from rituals of exchange and unofficial expectations to law institutions and formal regulations from the late medieval through to the modern era Divided into two parts the first explores the principles and regulations of market ethics such as the relations between professed norms and economic behaviour across a range of geographies and chronologies The chapters consider key subjects such as medieval attitudes towards merchant activities across Europe North Africa and Asia market regulations and the notion of the common good Adam Smith's conception of moral capitalism and the combining of religious and capitalist ethics in Nat Turner's Confession The second part provides microstudies that offer insights into topics such as household and market relations in colonial New England the harsher side of the consumer economy experienced by a family of parasol sellers from Lyon informal Jewish networks in the early modern Caribbean and slave trade merchant networks and commercial litigation in eighteenth century France and early encounters and the informal norms of fur trading between Europeans and Native Americans This book provides an understanding of the key pre modern economic historiography whilst pointing students towards new debates and the historical significance for our collective economic future It is ideal for students and postgraduates of late medieval and early modern economic history

Anatomy and the Organization of Knowledge, 1500-1850 Brian Muñoz, Matthew Landers, 2015-10-06 Across early modern Europe the growing scientific practice of dissection prompted new and insightful ideas about the human body This collection of essays explores the impact of anatomical knowledge on wider issues of learning and culture

Pragmatism and the Political Economy of Cultural Revolution, 1850-1940 James Livingston, 2000-11-09 The rise of corporate capitalism was a cultural revolution as well as an economic event according to James Livingston That revolution resides he argues in the fundamental reconstruction of selfhood or subjectivity that attends the advent of an age of surplus under corporate auspices From this standpoint consumer culture represents a transition to a society in which identities as well as incomes are not necessarily derived from the possession of productive labor or property From the same standpoint pragmatism and literary naturalism become ways of accommodating the new forms of solidarity and subjectivity enabled by the emergence of corporate capitalism So conceived they become ways of articulating alternatives to modern possessive individualism Livingston argues accordingly that the flight from pragmatism led by Lewis Mumford was an attempt to refurbish a romantic version of modern possessive individualism This attempt still shapes our reading of pragmatism Livingston claims and will continue to do so until we understand that William James was not merely a well meaning middleman between Charles Peirce and John Dewey and that James's pragmatism was both a working model of postmodern subjectivity and a novel critique of capitalism

Chinese Women in a Century of Revolution, 1850-1950 Kazuko Ono, 1989 Spanning the century from the Taiping Rebellion through the establishment of the People's Republic of China this is the first comprehensive history of women in modern China Its scope is broad encompassing political economic military and cultural history and drawing upon Chinese and Japanese sources untapped by Western scholars The book presents new information on a wide range of topics the impact of Western ideas on women especially in education the importance of women in the labor force the relative independence enjoyed by some women textile workers the struggle against footbinding the influence of anarchism the participation of a women's brigade in the Revolution of 1911 the role of women in the May Fourth Movement the differences between the more assertive women of South China and the traditional women of the North in organizing for political action the involvement of peasant women in insurgency and anti Japanese struggles in the countryside and the effects of the Marriage Law of 1950 The author has contributed a new preface to this English edition and Joshua A Fogel and Susan Mann have written an introduction that places the book in the context of studies of Chinese women Japanese sinology and women's history in general The book has extensive notes a bibliography and as an appendix a chronology of the history of women in modern China

Human Tissue in the Realist Novel, 1850-1895 Ben Moore, 2023-03-20 This Pivot engages with current debates about anthropocentrism and the Anthropocene to propose a reappraisal of the realist novel in the second half of the nineteenth century Through three case studies it argues for human tissue as a conceptual tool for reading that brings together biology literature and questions of layering This new approach is shown to be especially salient to the Victorian period when the application of tissue to biology first emerges The book is distinctive in bringing together theoretical concerns around realism and the Anthropocene two major topics in literary criticism and presenting a new methodology to approach this conjunction demonstrated through original readings of Charles Kingsley George Eliot and Emile Zola and two English language writers he influenced George Moore and Vernon Lee

The Skilled Compositor, 1850-1914 Patrick Duffy, 2017-03-02 For the first time since its invention over 500 years ago the print medium is being challenged as the primary means of recording and communicating ideas Indeed within the printing industry itself the advent of digital technology has rendered the craft of hand setting metal type obsolete the days of the skilled compositor are now at an end Patrick Duffy's work sets out to examine the experiences of the skilled compositor in the period 1850 to 1914 Focusing primarily on the workplace and the workplace institutions it aims to explore issues of control co operation and conflict in order to determine if the compositor did as many labour historians claim belong to an aristocracy of labour Drawing on a wide range of source material from trade society minutes to Parliamentary Papers the author explores the diversity of experience that compositors had in the workplace and the uneven patterns of change that the trade experienced The study throws light on some of the issues raised by these changes what part did ancient craft traditions play in the maintenance of control in the workplace Why were women excluded from this particular work when they were accepted in most other parts of the trade To what extent did trade society officials represent the aspirations of the rank and file membership Starting with an overview of the nature growth and development of the trade the book goes on to examine the occupational and social aspects of the compositors experience with a chapter devoted to women s role in the printing trade Finally the formation functions and development of relevant trades unions and employers associations is discussed This insightful analysis of the experience of the skilled compositor provides a valuable case study for labour historians at the same time furthering our understanding of a somewhat neglected aspect of printing history

The Constitutional and Political History of the United States: 1846-1850. Annexation of Texas. Compromise of 1850. 1881 Hermann Von Holst, 1881

The Work Ethic in Industrial America 1850-1920 Daniel T. Rodgers, 2014-07-10 How the rise of machines changed the way we think about work and about success The phrase a strong work ethic conjures images of hard driving employees working diligently for long hours But where did this ideal come from and how has it been buffeted by changes in work itself While seemingly rooted in America s Puritan heritage perceptions of work ethic have actually undergone multiple transformations over the centuries And few eras saw a more radical shift than the American industrial age Daniel T Rodgers masterfully explores the ways in which the eclipse of small scale workshops by mechanized production and mass consumption triggered far reaching shifts in perceptions of labor leisure and personal success He also shows how the new work culture permeated society including literature politics the emerging feminist movement and the labor movement A staple of courses in the history of American labor and industrial society Rodgers s sharp analysis is as relevant as ever as twenty first century workers face another shift brought about by technology

The Work Ethic in Industrial America 1850 1920 is a classic with critical relevance in today s volatile economic times

The Grammar of the Machine Edward Stevens, 1995-01-01 During the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries the American economy moved toward a manufacturing base and mass production creating a demand for a literacy that encompassed not only the traditional alphabetic form of expression but also scientific and mathematical notation and spatial and graphic representation How did the world of learning respond to this demand What kinds of educational institutions teachers textbooks and patterns of instruction emerged Edward Stevens Jr describes the important technological changes that took place in antebellum America and the challenges they posed for education Investigating the instruction curricula and textbooks used in the common schools in the mechanics institutes and specifically at the Troy Female Seminary and the Rensselaer School in upstate New York he demonstrates how advocates of technical literacy attempted to teach new skills Stevens shows that the tensions between the liberal and the vocational between a culture of print and a nonverbal culture of experience persisted in technical education through the first half of the nineteenth century but were resolved temporarily by a common moral vision
