F. Chipman,J. W. Segal,R. Glaser,2013-09-05 First Published in 1985 Currently two streams of endeavor offer promise for improving school effectiveness in developing students higher cognitive capacities One of these is represented by the increased interest of school districts colleges and universities in identifying ways to help their students build the cognitive skills that enable them to learn and think effectively What can be done they ask beyond teaching the fundamentals of reading writing arithmetic and subject matter knowledge to enable students to use their skills and knowledge for effective problem solving reasoning and comprehension The second stream is apparent in recent scientific advances in the study of intelligence human development problem solving the structure of acquired knowledge and the skills of learning This is volume two of a collection of conference papers based on this topic

Handbook for Planning an Effective Writing Program, K-12 DIANE Publishing Company,1996-02 This popular handbook is designed to provide teachers curriculum specialists school administrators parents and students with a standard for assessing existing writing programs and a tool for helping them design new programs It includes information to help them identify the strengths and weaknesses of existing or proposed writing programs and to select strategies for change Addresses both the content and teaching methodology of a writing program that is what ought to be taught and how it should be taught Award Winner Illustrated Argumentative Writing in a Second Language Alan R. Hirvela,Diane Belcher,2021-12-13 Argumentative Writing in a Second Language is a collection on teaching argumentative writing offering multiple vantage points drawn from the contributors own teaching and research experiences The value of learning how to compose argumentative texts cannot be overstated and yet very little attention has been allocated to the equally important topic of how argumentation is or can be taught in the L2 context Thus this volume shifts attention to teachers and argumentative writing instruction especially within increasingly common multimodal and digital literacy settings While doing so it provides a comprehensive wide ranging view of the L2 argumentative writing landscape within an instructional lens Part I of the volume is topic oriented and focuses on explorations of important issues and perspectives while Part II features several chapters reporting classroom based studies of a variety of instructional approaches that expand our understanding of how argumentative writing can be taught The book will be of value to pre service and in service teachers in varying instructional contexts as well as teacher educators and L2 writing scholars researchers Thinking Across Cultures Donald M. Topping,Doris C. Crowell,Victor N. Kobayashi,2013-09-05 This volume compares and contrasts contemporary theories of cognition modes of perception and learning from cross cultural perspectives The participants were asked to consider and assess the question of whether people from different cultures think differently Moreover they were asked to consider whether the same approaches to teaching and development of thinking will work in all cultures as well as they do in Western literate societies

Reading, Writing, and Thinking in Education, 1989 Teaching Writing Christina Russell McDonald, Robert L. McDonald, 2002 Teaching Writing Landmarks and Horizons edited by Christina Russell McDonald and Robert L. McDonald is designed to present an overview of some of the major developments in the establishment of composition studies as a field during the past thirty five years The essays are theoretically grounded but are focused on pedagogy as well Divided into two parts the first presents nine landmark essays selected and introduced by distinguished composition scholars and the second brings together eight new essays by emerging scholars

Naming What We Know Linda Adler-Kassner, 2015-06-01 Naming What We Know examines the core principles of knowledge in the discipline of writing studies using the lens of threshold concepts concepts that are critical for epistemological participation in a discipline The first part of the book defines and describes thirty seven threshold concepts of the discipline in entries written by some of the field's most active researchers and teachers all of whom participated in a collaborative wiki discussion guided by the editors These entries are clear and accessible written for an audience of writing scholars students and colleagues in other disciplines and policy makers outside the academy Contributors describe the conceptual background of the field and the principles that run throughout practice whether in research teaching assessment or public work around writing Chapters in the second part of the book describe the benefits and challenges of using threshold concepts in specific sites first year writing programs WAC WID programs writing centers writing majors and for professional development to present this framework in action Naming What We Know opens a dialogue about the concepts that writing scholars and teachers agree are critical and about why those concepts should and do matter to people outside the field

Signs, Genres, and Communities in Technical Communication M. Jimmie Killingsworth, Michael Gilbertson, 2018-12-20 This important new text invites readers to step back from their busy professional lives and look at technical communication philosophically to ask fundamental questions such as what does it mean to communicate and how do language and graphics the signs or tools of the technical communicator relate to action in a technological world Through this excursion in the theory of technical discourse you will discover a fresh approach to reports manuals and proposals produced and consumed daily in business government and research organizations around the world The authors examine familiar genres in two relatively new ways

Theorizing Composition Mary Kennedy, 1998-06-25 The last 25 years have witnessed extraordinary growth in the academic specialization variously described as composition studies or rhetoric and composition What was noticeable about the field in its infancy was a preoccupation with practice a lack of emphasis on theory and an exclusive reliance on the writing process As its disciplinary status has grown the field has become far more theoretical Composition studies has expanded its focus reconceptualized the writing process and embraced a wide range of critical perspectives The result of this change is that terms such as poststructuralism social construction gender and genre which were largely unknown in 1965 now dominate discussion This reference book is a guide to the multiplicity of theories that have emerged to form the disciplinary foundation of composition studies The volume consists of 66 entries each of which is written by an expert contributor and focuses on a particular theory or group of theories While the entries show how various individuals have contributed to theoretical movements very few concentrate on the work of a single theorist Each entry first provides a critical summary of a particular theory or group of theories including key elements basic concepts and claims and information about seminal or particularly influential works It then reviews the theory s critical reception in composition studies and discusses its significance in the field The bibliography at the end of each entry lists primary texts and major scholarship related to the theory and provides additional suggestions for further reading The volume closes with a selected bibliography of important works Thinking Strategies for Student Achievement Denise D. Nessel, Joyce M. Graham, 2006-08-10 This revised edition offers 30 specific strategies readily integrated into daily lesson plans to help K 12 students extend their thinking capabilities and raise their achievement levels
