Macroeconomic Activity-theory, Forecasting, and Control Michael K. Evans,1981      Macroeconomic Activity Michael K. Evans,1969      Macroeconomic Activity ,1969      Macroeconomics Activity Theory Forecasting and Control Michael K. Evans,1969      Economic Forecasting: The State of the Art Elia Xacapyr,2016-09-16 An overview of the macroeconomic forecasting industry in the United States that explains and evaluates the forecasting techniques used to make predictions about various aspects of the national economy      India's Economic Prospects - A Macroeconomic And Econometric Analysis Thampy Mammen,1999-09-15 This book provides a macroeconomic analysis of the Indian economy It is a long run study that spans the period from 1950 51 to 1992 93 encompassing the various turning points in India s economic policy and development strategies The macroeconometric model used in the book integrates the monetary and real sectors of the economy In order to provide theoretical underpinnings for the model the book traces the development of macroeconomic theory including Keynesian structuralist and supply side economics The model explains the public sector s current and capital expenditures rather than treating them as exogenous variables A sub recursive system of prices is formulated in terms of unit cost based on the flow of factor income generated in the process of production monetary variable and agriculture supply factors The model analyzes and evaluates policy changes in India particularly since 1984 It is used to derive the appropriate mix of fiscal monetary and trade policies needed to generate significant economic growth in 1997 2000 in a non inflationary environment While fiscal and monetary discipline is vital in this regard public sector investment plays an important role in capital formation and economic growth      Managing Food Security In Unregulated Markets Robert D. Reinsel,2019-03-08 The major grain producing nations are moving toward the reduction of domestic and export subsidies to agriculture The grain importing nations are reducing import barriers As world markets evolve grain will tend to be produced in areas that have a comparative advantage in grain production Over time production will shift to least cost areas Moving toward market orientation during the 1980 s the United States sharply modified its grain policy so that nonrecourse loans are no longer used as price enhancement devices The loan rates are established at a percentage below the moving average price and now provide a safety net for prices when aggregate output is much larger than normal in relation to demand This change tends to remove the United States from its long term role as residual supplier to the world markets U S grains are more likely to be priced competitively and stocks are unlikely to accumulate in government storage

ECESIS: An Interregional Economic-Demographic Model of the United States

Paul M. Beaumont,2018-02-28 Originally published in 1989 ECESIS consists of 51 regional econometric models one for each state and the District of Columbia and a multiregional demographic model Its distinguishing feature is the linking of sophisticated demographic accounts with sophisticated structural econometric models This book looking at how strong the interactions are between population dynamics and economic activity determines to what extent the simultaneous economic demographic interregional model provides improved projection and simulation properties over regional economic and demographic models used independently of one another

Understanding Consumption

Angus Deaton,1992-10-08 This book provides an overview of the recent research on saving and consumption a field in which substantial progress has been made over the last decade Attempts by economists to understand saving and consumption patterns have generated some of the best science in economics For more than fifty years there has been serious empirical and theoretical activity and data theory and policy have never been separated as has happened in many branches of economics Research has drawn microeconomists interested in household behaviour as well as macroeconomists for whom the behaviour of aggregate consumption has always occupied a central role in explaining aggregate fluctuations Econometricians have also made distinguished contributions and there has been a steady flow of new methodologies by those working on saving and consumption in time series econometrics as well as in the study of micro and panel data A coherent account of these developments is presented here emphasizing the interplay between micro and the macro between studies of cross section and panels and those using aggregate time series data

Econometric Models of Asian Link Shinichi Ichimura,Mitsuo Ezaki,2012-12-06 This is the first outcome of our effort in ASIAN LINK PROJECT to construct the econometric models of Asian developing countries and analyze their inter dependence with major trading partners the United States and Japan The model we present here is called Asian Link System The countries in this system include Korea Taiwan Hong Kong China the Philippines Thailand Malaysia Singapore Indonesia Japan and the United States They are covered by national models The rest of the world is divided into several regions and treated by simple proto type models The main characteristics of Asian Link System are to deal with the inter dependent relations between Asian developing countries on the one hand and Japan and United States on the other hand Here are presented these national models and the Asian Link System with the underlying statistical data so that any econometrician can re estimate our models and check the results of our research work Nowadays most articles and books in econometrics report only the final results or conclusions of research so that no other econometrician can re calculate or re examine the findings This is very serious in the empirical research because as theorists may make mistakes positive economists do commit errors or miss some possible considerations Unless statistical data are offered other econometricians cannot make suggestions or improve the models This is the main reason why empirical research in econometrics or applied econometrics are not making substantial progress in recent years

Figure 1 1 Post World War II US assessment history 1973 weremotivatedbytheemergingcon ictsinthepost WorldWar II period between rapidly increasing softwood harvests and declining timber growth These are called the Outlook Studies The last six studies 1980 1985 1989 1993 2000 2005 have been conducted to meet the requirements of the Forest and Rangeland Renewable Resources Planning Act RPA of 1974 These are called the RPA Timber Assessments 6 The Challenge of Developing Models 1 2 SHAPING THE ASSESSMENT SYSTEM This initial chapter describes the development and specific structure of the Assessment System We consider past policy analysis needs and federal legislative requirements antecedent modeling and projection approaches characteristics of the US forest sector and recent trends in public and private resource management At the federal level and in some states and regions the USA has a lengthy history of using resource and market models to explore policy issues and to examine the effects of alternative policy actions Many of these studies have been undertaken on an irregular basis as issues emerged and resource conditions changed The RPA legislation mandated a regular cycle of nationwide assessments by the Forest Service examining trends and conditionsinanarrayofresourceusesandservices climate minerals range recreation timber andwater

The structure of the Assessment System reflects both the requirements of the RPA legislation and the unique characteristics of the US forest sector which it is designed to simulate. In the years since enactment of the RPA legislation, management directions and objectives on both public and private lands in the USA have continued to evolve. The structure of the Assessment System has been adapted to reflect these trends.
