The Novel: An Alternative History
Steven Moore, 2013-09-17 Encyclopedic in scope and heroically audacious The Novel An Alternative History is the first attempt in over a century to tell the complete story of our most popular literary form Contrary to conventional wisdom the novel did not originate in 18th century England nor even with Don Quixote but is coeval with civilization itself After a pugnacious introduction in which Moore defends innovative demanding novelists against their conservative critics the book relaxes into a world tour of the pre modern novel beginning in ancient Egypt and ending in 16th century China with many exotic ports of call Greek romances Roman satires medieval Sanskrit novels narrated by parrots Byzantine erotic thrillers 5000 page Arabian adventure novels Icelandic sagas delicate Persian novels in verse Japanese war stories even Mayan graphic novels Throughout Moore celebrates the innovators in fiction tracing a continuum between these pre modern experimentalists and their postmodern progeny Irreverent iconoclastic informative entertaining The Novel An Alternative History is a landmark in literary criticism that will encourage readers to rethink the novel

The Cambridge History of the Novel in French Adam Watt, 2021-02-25 This History is the first in a century to trace the development and impact of the novel in French from its beginnings to the present. Leading specialists explore how novelists writing in French have responded to the diverse personal, economic, socio-political, cultural, artistic, and environmental factors that shaped their worlds. From the novel's medieval precursors to the impact of the internet, the History provides fresh accounts of canonical and lesser-known authors, offering a global perspective beyond the national borders of the Hexagon to explore France's colonial past and its legacies. Accessible chapters range widely, including the French novel in Sub-Saharan Africa, data analysis of the novel system in the seventeenth century, social critique in women's writing, Sade's banned works, and more. Highlighting continuities and divergence between and within different periods, this lively volume offers routes through a diverse literary landscape while encouraging comparison and connection-making between writers' works and historical periods.

The Open Boundary of History and Fiction Suzanne Gearhart, 2019-02-19 Challenging the view that a critical sense of history is missing from the Enlightenment, Suzanne Gearhart links the works of Voltaire, Montesquieu, Diderot, and Rousseau with the inquiry into the boundary between literature and history in contemporary critical discourse. She considers the theories of Levi Strauss, Foucault, Althusser, Genette, White, de Man, and Derrida in order to develop a critical approach to fiction and history and to reveal that investigations into the foundations of historical knowledge and specifically into what distinguishes history from fiction were central to the Enlightenment. This book questions many assumptions basic to contemporary criticism by establishing a dialogue between major theorists and Enlightenment figures. It challenges certitudes of fiction and literature by examining the historicity of language form and literature itself, redefining history to show its crucial relevance to literary studies and opening historiography to the insights of literary theory. Suzanne Gearhart is Associate Professor of Literature at the University of California, San Diego. Originally published in 1984, The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.

Sensation Novels and Domestic Minds Mathilde Vialard, 2024-02-26 Drawing on the recent academic interest in approaching health and wellbeing from a humanities perspective, Sensation Novels and Domestic Minds investigates how the Victorians dealt with questions of mental health by examining literary works in the genre of sensation fiction. The novels of Mary Elizabeth Braddon and Wilkie Collins, two prominent writers of the genre, often portray characters suffering from mental illnesses commonly diagnosed at the time, among which are monomania, moral insanity, melancholia, and hypochondria. By studying the fictional works of Braddon and Collins alongside medical texts from the nineteenth century, it sets out to investigate how these novels fictionally represented real mental sufferings. This book considers the different mental illnesses the characters of sensation novels develop inside and outside the home as they struggle to define their own identity against Victorian social expectations It demonstrates how these novels fictionalised the crisis of the leisured upper classes who spent most of their time at home and found themselves at odds with a society that increasingly separated the domestic and working environments while also considering the impact that a lack of a sense of domestic belonging could have on their mental health Sensation Novels and Domestic Minds further analyses the extent to which domesticity in its excess or lack could afflict the mental health of Victorian men and women through the fictional representation of suicidal thoughts and acts in the novels of Braddon and Collins

A History of English Laughter ,2021-11-01 Is there a history of laughter Or isn t laughter an anthropological constant rather and thus beyond history a human feature that has defined humanity as homo ridens from cave man and cave woman to us The contributors to this collection of essays believe that laughter does have a history and try to identify continuities and turning points of this history by studying a series of English texts both canonical and non canonical from Anglosaxon to contemporary As this is not another book on the history of the comic or of comedy it does not restrict itself to comic genres some of the essays actually go out of their way to discover laughter at the margins of texts where one would not have expected it all in Beowulf or Paradise Lost or the Gothic Novel Laughter at the margins of texts which often coincides with laughter from the margins of society and its orthodoxies is one of the special concerns of this book This goes together with an interest in impure forms of laughter in laughter that is not the serene and intellectually or emotionally distanced response to a comic stimulus which is at the heart of many philosophical theories of the comic but emotionally disturbed and troubled aggressive and transgressive satanic and sardonic laughter We do not ask then what is comic but who laughs at and with whom where when why and how
