Bowen, 2005 A champion racehorse Bold Ruler thrilled fans with his speed and courage But as a sire of runners Bold Ruler truly reigned He was America s leading sire a record eight years with his best offspring being the immortal Secretariat Om Classic Ground ,1990 Computer Vision - ECCV 2024 Aleš Leonardis, Elisa Ricci, Stefan Roth, Olga Russakovsky, Torsten Sattler, Gül Varol, 2024-09-29 The multi volume set of LNCS books with volume numbers 15059 up to 15147 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 18th European Conference on Computer Vision ECCV 2024 held in Milan Italy during September 29 October 4 2024 The 2387 papers presented in these proceedings were carefully reviewed and selected from a total of 8585 submissions They deal with topics such as computer vision machine learning deep neural networks reinforcement learning object recognition image classification image processing object detection semantic segmentation human pose estimation 3d reconstruction stereo vision computational photography neural networks image coding image reconstruction object recognition motion estimation The German Classics Kuno Francke, Isidore Singer, 1913 The American Architect and Building News ,1889 Diversions of a Country Gentleman George Douglas, Sir George Brisbane Douglas (bart.), 1902 Classical Pastime, in a Set of Poetical Enigmas, on the Planets and Zodiacal Signs Marianne Curties, 1813 Classical Weekly ,1918 Air Force Magazine ,2014 The Classical Weekly ,1918 Darwin's Finches Kathleen Donohue, 2011-06-15 Two species come to mind when one thinks of the Galapagos Islands the giant tortoises and Darwin s fabled finches While not as immediately captivating as the tortoises these little brown songbirds and their beaks have become one of the most familiar and charismatic research systems in biology providing generations of natural historians and scientists a lens through which to view the evolutionary process and its role in morphological differentiation In Darwin s Finches Kathleen Donohue excerpts and collects the most illuminating and scientifically significant writings on the finches of the Galapagos to teach the fundamental principles of evolutionary theory and to provide a historical record of scientific debate Beginning with fragments of Darwin s Galapagos field notes and subsequent correspondence and moving through the writings of such famed field biologists as David Lack and Peter and Rosemary Grant the collection demonstrates how scientific processes have changed over time how different branches of biology relate to one another and how they all relate to evolution As Donohue notes practicing science today is like entering a conversation that has been in progress for a long long time Her book provides the history of that conversation and an invitation to join in Students of both evolutionary biology and history of science will appreciate this compilation of historical and contemporary readings and will especially value Donohue s enlightening commentary The Idea of the City Joan Fitzpatrick, 2009-05-05 This collection of essays emerges from a two day international conference held at the University of Northampton UK It contains the best of the papers presented by 45 delegates from 12 countries UK India USA Canada Italy France Ireland Australia Romania Japan Germany Portugal involving both established academics and new scholars The collection is divided into three parts Part 1 Medieval and Early Modern Cities Performance and Poetry Part 2 Defining Urban Space the Metropolis and the Provincial and Part 3 Modern and Postmodern Cities Marginal Urban Identities The chapters explore the nature of the modern city in literature history film and culture from its origins in the early modern period to post modern dislocations and considers the city as a context within which literature is created structured and inspired and as a space within which distinct voices and genres emerge Much interest has developed recently on the city and its contexts but there is a tendency to focus on London for example there is the journal Literary London Interdisciplinary Studies in the Representation of London and the annual Literary London Conference a major conference that has run since 2002 This collection fills an important gap in the market by having a truly global focus Joan Fitzpatrick's The Idea of the City represents a fascinating snapshot of the current state of literary urban studies Conference proceedings can often seem diffuse or tokenistic but this collection offers unity on several levels For a start many of the contributors ask similar questions of their material approaching it with an informed awareness of the ways in which the city has been theorised as well as actually traversed from the medieval period to the present While one would expect work of this type and standard from established and widely published scholars such as Pamela Gilbert and Julian Wolfreys it is refreshing to see how new researchers are blending the cartographic with the psychological to raise important questions about the perception analysis and mythologisation of urban and metropolitan space The collection is impressively eclectic ranging from Petrarch's Avignon to modern Los Angeles and from 18th century Lichfield to operatic reimaginings of Venice As I said however the collection is unified at a deep level by the contributors shared interest in city writing and by their conviction that there is a complex relationship between space place and self This means that the book would be of use and interest to those working on individual writers including contemporary novelists such as Niall Griffiths on whom little has yet been published and in the more general areas of urban and cultural studies and critical theory The collection as a whole allows the reader to revisit the ideas of influential works from the previous decade such as Keith Tester's The Flaneur 1994 Sophie Watson and Katherine Gibson's Postmodern Cities and Spaces 1995 and Susana Onega and John Stotesbury's London in Literature Visionary Mappings of the Metropolis 2002 It is therefore both a useful round up of established ideas from various city centred disciplines and a starting point for the fresh consideration of enduringly suggestive material Dr Nick Freeman Loughborough University Author of Conceiving the City London Literature and Art 1870-1914 In this substantial volume the editor has assembled an international line up of scholars working on the city from the Renaissance to the present This is an important and timely work that has depth as well as breadth Interdisciplinary and cross period collections like this which straddle several historical periods run the risk of appealing only in part to coherent scholarly communities but Dr Fitzpatrick has structured the collection in a way which plays to the strength of critics working within particular periods while clearly displaying the latticework of links between the book's strongly marked sections There is an excellent balance between historical and theoretical readings between textual and contextual approaches and between interventions that are author or text based and those that deal with broader themes and issues The range of contributors is matched by the richness and variety of perspectives I would strongly recommend this book to students working in the early modern period and also to those interested in modern developments It is a comprehensive intelligently organized and richly researched volume that is likely to be well received well reviewed and well read I will certainly be ordering copies for my own University library and including it on reading lists for future courses Professor Willy Maley University of Glasgow
