

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

THE St. Andrew's Society of Toronto was founded in 1836, two years after the incorporation of the City.

Stirring times were these. Upper Canada was in a state of political turmoil. Queen Victoria had not yet ascended the throne. Two famous Scots, both subjects of the then monarch, William the Fourth, William Lyon Mackenzie and Dr. John Strachan, one the radical of his time, the other believing that with radicalism marched atheism, were making their mark on the life of Upper Canada.

There were murmurings in the Church. A few years later came the Disruption in the great Scottish parent church of many who now made their home in Canada.

Commerce was occupying the minds of progressive Toronto Scots, and here, as elsewhere, they were diligent in business, gathering gear with honour, and as the records tell, with more than a little profit.

We can well imagine an idea taking root, first, in a casual remark on one of Toronto's muddy streets, a conversation as Scots family met Scots family as St. Andrew's Church "skailed",—the idea of forming a St. Andrew's Society.

There was no doubt that the settled Scots viewed the arrival of emigrants with some con-

This book surveys elements that have influenced the Scottish people over time and led to the formation of a distinct sui generis identity The modern state is an amalgam of people who inhabit a specific given territory people whose thinking has been formed by circumstances and events which over time forge a collective identity and establish self expression and determination Environmental happenstances the genetic and intellectual makeup of the people the overcoming of common challenges and the interpretation of historical events all play a role in the development of this collective thinking forming the modern mental structure of a given population In the case of the Scots these elements have created an endemic view of the world that is unique and recognizable This text identifies these influences and traces their development through time as they formed the self felt identity of the modern nation which has inherited the territory of Scotland Reviewed herein are some of the main factors which have provoked a natural and correct desire for an independent state in Europe a Scotland for the Scots The
