Overcoming Indifference 10 Key Challenges In Today's Changing World:

Overcoming Indifference Klaus Schwab, 1995-10 The end of the Cold War did not as some might have hoped simplify the issues facing world leaders Civil war famine overpopulation chronic unemployment and an exploding refugee problem continue to plague the world economy to the point where we begin to wonder whether national boundaries can contain such crises or whether the challenges that face the world are beyond the reach of the leaders we have elected Has the increasing disparity between the haves and the have nots between the knows and don't knows led to an unbridgeable gap between rich and poor peoples and rich and poor countries Overcoming Indifference offers contributions from Nobel Prize winners statesmen scholars and university professors and chief executive officers of major industrial corporations The contributors include such well known and disparate thinkers as Elie Wiesel Samuel P Huntington Michael Hammer and Carl Sagan Highlighting subjects as diverse as the new information society methods of creating sufficient employment the disintegration of previously held value systems and the maintenance of global security in the post Cold War world the contributors propose the best possible courses of action

China's Way to Carbon Emissions Reduction Ying Shen, 2015-08-18 Now that the most recent scientific estimates have shown that China has become the world's largest source of greenhouse gas emissions China's influence on the world's environment and sustainable development highlights the importance of tailoring Chinese climate change law to conform with the requirements of international conventions and agreements on climate change This thorough analysis based on an examination of climate status legal background and current regulatory systems in China examines the potential role of different policy instruments in reducing carbon emissions in order to find an appropriate choice for China and recommends approaches to key issues for relevant authorities The author conducts a comprehensive and in depth study on the three mainstream environmental policy instruments used to control carbon emissions the cap and trade system the carbon tax and command and control regulations in a Chinese context She reviews China's current policies and elucidates how the issues of climate change and global warming call for social environmental economic and legal reforms in China especially in the areas of administrative law and property rights law Among the issues and topics covered are the following key issues on designing and implementing each of the three policy instruments the choice of regulatory instruments for carbon emissions reduction in a socialist market economy based on the discussion of market failure and government failure theories legal challenges from China's current administrative legislation and the definition of carbon emissions entitlements practical effect of China's climate change policy at the national provincial and local levels effectiveness of China's implementation of its international obligations lessons learned from schemes implemented in the United States and Australia comparison of China's seven regional pilot emissions trading scheme ETS programmes with the well established EU ETS linkage between China's ETS and other ETSs from a global perspective and future direction of an emerging carbon market in China The analysis assesses the critical costs and benefits of each approach in the context of selected case studies taking legal literature in the field fully into account Given that the Chinese government is taking steps to reduce emissions by altering energy production and usage and is signalling a willingness to make similar commitments in a multilateral treaty it is very timely and important for lawmakers and scholars within and outside China to think about new and appropriate regulatory measures to respond to the crisis and plan for a sustainable future This study provides not only a useful benchmark for both China and other countries in formulating initiatives on enhancing climate protection but also details the global implications for governments and for international organizations concerned with the understanding between China and the rest of the world in the context of climate change mitigation Globalization and Conflict Robert G.

Patman, 2006-08-10 This volume highlights the gap between the new security environment and the notion of state centred national security favoured by Washington showing how a Cold War phenomenon known as the national security state in which defence and foreign policy interests essentially converge remains largely intact The conventional wisdom since the suicide attacks of 9 11 is that the world has been transformed and according to President Bush September 11 changed the strategic thinking of the US This book challenges these assumptions Indeed the Bush administration's National Security strategy of 2002 has reinvigorated and even extended the idea of national security Paradoxically the renewed emphasis on a distinctly state centred approach to security including the War on Terror has unfolded during an era of deepening globalization Drawing on the international expertise of fourteen specialists the book examines four inter related themes the impact of globalization on the concept of security the strategic outlook of the world's only superpower the US the new conflicts that have come to characterize the post Cold War era efforts to regulate the emerging patterns of conflict in the world Globalization and Conflict will be essential reading for students of strategic studies security studies and international relations

Prize winners statesmen scholars and university professors and chief executive officers of major industrial corporations The contributors include such well known and disparate thinkers as Elie Wiesel Samuel P Huntington Michael Hammer and Carl Sagan Highlighting subjects as diverse as the new information society methods of creating sufficient employment the disintegration of previously held value systems and the maintenance of global security in the post Cold War world the contributors propose the best possible courses of action Choice ,1995 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1996-06 The Guardian Soldier Gustav Däniker,1995 This publication examines the possibility the necessity for a fresh understanding of the role of armed forces in democratic nations a change in their leadership civic education a new style in their use
