Ques Big Mac:

Macroeconomía Michael Parkin, Gerardo Esquivel, Mercedes Muñoz, 2007 Economics Ananish Chaudhuri, 2025-01-20

Economics affects our daily lives in crucial ways. We constantly hear about recessions and unemployment, inflation and cost of living crises, economic growth and inequality, climate change and carbon taxes, interest rates and house prices, and tariffs and trade wars. What does this all mean? Written in a highly engaging style, Economics: A Global Introduction cuts through the jargon to provide a comprehensive introduction to the basics of economics. This book includes applications of economic principles and insights from behavioural economics into contemporary issues such as global warming and the COVID 19 pandemic. This book is replete with real world examples and anecdotes from politics, literature, film and sports to help the reader grasp fundamental micro and macroeconomic concepts. Student friendly features include case studies, start of chapter learning objectives, discussion questions and answers, further reading suggestions and mathematical appendices. This book is accompanied by useful digital resources including lecture recordings, PowerPoint slides and a test bank containing both multiple choice and essay questions and answers. Suitable for students who may pursue further studies in economics as well as those choosing a different field, Economics: A Global Introduction is the ideal textbook for providing students with an economic perspective on the world.

Producing and living the high-rise: New contexts, old questions? Manoel Rodrigues Alves, Manuel Appert, Christian Montès, 2024-05-14

The purpose of the book is to assess the process of urban verticalization in different contexts through time to provide insight into the relationships between highrise design and the way inhabitants negotiate them in their everyday lives to assess how planners, politicians and designers negotiate residential highrises in the strategies they develop for building the city and to introduce urban narratives and cartographies. Verticalization, although not new, currently takes place in a very different context than post 1945. Today highrise residential buildings are more than architectural solutions; they are commodities in a global market where capital flows are fixed by developers and municipalities. Our exploration of residential verticalization is anchored in case studies revealing different types of local/global negotiations in the design of the city and has been framed by three interrelated dynamics: first, the complex relationships within the financialization of real estate markets revealing differences in the types of local/global negotiations in the construction of the neo-liberal city; secondly, the most developed anchors of residential verticalization in the processes of socio-spatial differentiation within cities, mostly identified as gentrification associated to processes of urban renewal and densification; the third related to readings and interpretations of the urban landscape and social spatial practices and its iconographic and cartographic representations. This book is of interest to academics, students, planners, architects and urban studies professionals. It shows that the chosen research object is an increasingly relevant angle of analysis of the contemporary city. It also provides a better knowledge of the processes of residential verticalization, their impact on the privatization of the urban space and on urban segregation or fragmentation.
