Ranjitsingh, 2021-05-28 Identity is often fraught for multiracial Douglas people of both South Asian and African descent in the Caribbean In this groundbreaking volume Sue Ann Barratt and Aleah N Ranjitsingh explore the particular meanings of a Dougla identity and examine Dougla maneuverability both at home and in the diaspora The authors scrutinize the perception of Douglaness over time contemporary Dougla negotiations of social demands their expansion of ethnicity as an intersectional identity and the experiences of Douglas within the diaspora outside the Caribbean Through an examination of how Douglas experience their claim to multiracialism and how ethnic identity may be enforced or interrupted the authors firmly situate this analysis in ongoing debates about multiracial identity Based on interviews with over one hundred Douglas Barratt and Ranjitsingh explore the multiple subjectivities Douglas express confirm challenge negotiate and add to prevailing understandings Contemplating this Dougla in the Twenty First Century adds to the global discourse of multiethnic identity and how it impacts living both in the Caribbean where it is easily recognizable and in the diaspora where the Dougla remains a largely unacknowledged designation This book deliberately expands the conversation beyond the limits of biraciality and the Black white binary and contributes nuance to current interpretations of the lives of multiracial people by introducing Douglas as they carve out their lives in the Caribbean The Ethics of Gender-specific Disease Mary Ann Gardell Cutter, 2012 Our understanding of gender carries significant bioethical implications An errant account of gender specific disease can lead to overgeneralizations undergeneralizations and misdiagnoses It can also lead to problems in the structure of health care delivery the creation of policy and the development of clinical curricula In this volume Cutter argues that gender specific disease and related bioethical discourses are philosophically integrative Gender specific disease is integrative because the descriptive roles of gender disease and their relation are inextricably tied to their prescriptive roles within frames of reference An integrative account of gender specific disease carries ethical implications because our understanding of gender specific disease is evaluative and our evaluations of gender specific disease entail judgments concerning the praiseworthiness and blameworthiness of a clinical event Cutter supports a both and emphasis on context and integration in relation to gender specific disease and bioethical analyses While the text mainly focuses on gender specific diseases that affect women Cutter also includes examples involving men children and members of the LGBT community The Routledge International

Middle Eastern Lives in America Amir B. Marvasti, Karyn D. McKinney, 2004 The place of Middle Easterners in the racial hierarchy of the United States remains relatively unexplored in scholarly research In this book this authors present the everyday experiences of this population by specifically focusing on Arab and Iranian Americans Using focus groups and interviews respondents were asked to comment on their everyday experiences in the realms of public spaces educational settings work housing and family Through concrete descriptions and analysis of how Arab and Iranian Americans are confronted with matters of ethnic and racial inequality this work s primary aim is to debunk entrenched stereotypes by bringing to the forefront the human complexity of the Middle Eastern experience Marvasti and McKinney argue that the discrimination and exclusion faced by this group cannot be fully understood using the existing paradigm of minority majority group interactions. The political tensions between the U S and various Islamic countries in the Middle East combined with the September 11th terrorist attacks have cast Arab and Iranian Americans as a unique minority group. These facts have created a condition of hostility and suspicion in the daily interactions between Middle Eastern Americans and other Americans that is not faced by any other ethnic group today. At the same time while there is a growing recognition in the sociological study of race and ethnicity of the so called browning of America the research literature does not address how Middle Easterners figure into this demographic shift. This text will fill these general gaps in the race and ethnicity literature by making visible this minority group's everyday experiences and their strategies for coping with and resisting discrimination.

One of the most controversial topics on the subject of race crime and criminal justice is the disproportionate representation of Blacks in the criminal justice system as offenders and prison inmates. Rather than portraying Blacks as perpetual victims of racism in which societal institutions are solely responsible for reform this book seeks to put the power of change in the hands of Blacks. It focuses on the preventative role that Blacks might play and considers solution oriented ways to stop this vicious cycle.

Feminist Waves, Feminist Generations Hokulani K. Aikau, Karla A. Erickson, Jennifer L. Pierce, 2007. Feminist Waves Feminist Generations challenges the static figuring of feminist generations that positions the second wave of feminist scholars against a homogeneous third wave. Based on life stories from contemporary feminist scholars this volume emphasizes how feminism develops unevenly over time and across institutions and ultimately offers a new paradigm for theorizing the intersections between generations and feminist waves of thought.
