Race Reality:

Race, Reality, and Realpolitik Jeffrey Sommers, 2015-11-11 The year 2015 marked the centennial of the 1915 United States occupation of Haiti and Haiti's resistance to that signal event in its history This study surveys the issues of economics race and realpolitik embedded in the political economy of U S interactions with Haiti that resulted in occupation It then interrogates what constitutes the state as it pertains to foreign policy along with an inspection of who benefits from empire This approach eschews tired dichotomies of whether or not the United States as a whole materially benefited from empire to instead simply look at who individually gained and what were the capacities of these beneficiaries to craft policy Next it delivers insights derived from a forensic analysis of Woodrow Wilson's perception of race and his decision to intervene in Haiti Attitudes enabling United States military leaders to implement a policy of occupation are provided through a study of Admiral William Caperton's role in the intervention The focus then telescopes out to inspect the role played by the press especially as booster for commercial opportunities In short the project answers the questions of why who and how American empire was undertaken through the case study of Haiti and its occupation in 1915

Reality TV Susan Murray, Laurie Ouellette, 2009 A collection of essays which provide a comprehensive picture of how and why the genre of reality television emerged what it means how it differs from earlier television programming and how it engages societies industries and individuals

Reality TV Jon Kraszewski, 2017-02-24 From early first wave programs such as Candid Camera An American Family and The Real World to the shows on our television screens and portable devices today reality television consistently takes us to cities such as New York Los Angeles and Boston to imagine the place of urbanity in American culture and society Jon Kraszewski offers the first extended account of this phenomenon as he makes the politics of urban space the center of his history and theory of reality television Kraszewski situates reality television in a larger economic transformation that started in the 1980s when America went from an industrial economy when cities were home to all classes to its post industrial economy as cities became key points in a web of global financing expelling all economic classes except the elite and the poor Reality television in the industrial era reworked social relationships based on class race and gender for liberatory purposes which resulted in an egalitarian ethos in the genre However reality television of the post industrial era attempts to convince viewers that cities still serve their interests even though most viewers find city life today economically untenable Each chapter uses a key theoretical concept from spatial theory such as power geometries diasporic nostalgia orientalism the imagination of social expulsions and the relationship between the country and the city to illuminate the way reality television engages this larger transformation of urban space in America

The Creolizing Subject Michael J. Monahan, 2011 How does our understanding of the reality or lack thereof of race as a category of being affect our understanding of racism as a social phenomenon and vice versa This book focuses on the underlying assumptions that inform this view of race and racism arguing that it is ultimately bound up in a politics of purity an understanding of human agency and reality itself as requiring all or nothing categories with clear and unambiguous boundaries Monahan calls for the emergence of a creolizing subjectivity that would place such ambiguity at the center of our understanding of race Reality TV June Deery, 2015-02-11 Reality TV has changed television and changed reality even if we are not among the millions who watch Written for a broad audience this accessible overview addresses questions such as How real is reality TV How do its programs represent gender sex class and race How does reality TV relate to politics to consumer society to surveillance What kind of ethics are on display Drawing on current media research and the author's own analysis this study encompasses the history and evolution of reality television its production of reflexive selves and ordinary celebrity its advertising and commercialization and its spearheading of new relations between television and social media To dismiss this programming as trivial is easy Deery demonstrates that reality television merits serious attention and her incisive analysis will interest students in media studies cultural studies politics sociology and anyone who is simply curious about this global phenomenon Reality TV Misha Kavka, 2012-02-15 This book is a study of the Reality TV format which in less than a decade has transformed network programming schedules branded satellite and digital stations become a favourite target for anti television campaigners and turned viewers into savvy r Race or Ethnicity? Jorge J. E. Gracia, 2018-07-05 What is race What is ethnicity Should we think of them as identities Can they be effectively individuated How are they related How do the relations between them influence pressing issues concerned with social identity gender racism assimilation exploitation justice the law and public policy And how are the answers to these questions affected by the Black and Latino experience in the United States From the Preface This collection of new essays explores the relation between race and ethnicity and its social and political implications Although much work has been done on the philosophy of race in the past century in the United States the concept of ethnicity has only recently awoken the interest of American philosophers and the relations between race and ethnicity remain largely unexamined The discussion is divided into two parts dealing on the one hand with the nature and the relation between race and ethnicity and on the other with the social consequences of the complex relations between them Part I explores in particular the debated topic of racial and ethnic identities Does it make sense to speak of racial and ethnic identities and especially of black and Latino identities And if it does make sense how should these identities be conceptualized and how are they related to gender Part II examines how race and ethnicity have influenced the lot of some social groups in significant ways How do racially defined institutions deal with racial assimilation How do different conceptions of race and ethnicity influence public policy and various forms of racism How can exploited racial and ethnic groups be effectively recognized And what is the role of affect in social justice as dispensed by the courts Reality, 1927 The Ethics of Reality TV Wendy N. Wyatt, Kristie Bunton, 2012-05-10 Reality television is continuing to grow both in numbers and in popularity The scholarship on reality TV is beginning to catch up but one of the most enduring questions about the genre Is it ethical has yet to be addressed in any systematic and comprehensive way Through investigating issues ranging from deception and privacy breaches to community building and democratization of TV The Ethics of Reality TV explores the ways in which reality TV may create both benefits and harms to society The edited collection features the work of leading scholars in the field of media ethics and provides a comprehensive assessment of the ethical effects of the genre Reality Television Richard M. Huff, 2006-06-30 Reality programming a broad title for unscripted shows that involve non actors is really an updated version of a classic television genre that had its first successes decades before The Real World or Survivor made their premieres NBC launched Try and Do It a show in which audience members attempted to complete tasks such as whistling with a mouthful of crackers in 1949 In the 1950s Queen for a Day crowned the most down trodden of its four contestants draping her in a sable trimmed robe and granting a previously declared wish The wild success reality television has achieved of late has pushed the envelope of such programming ever further away from the genre s innocuous beginnings The time is now ripe for a look back on how this genre has developed what it reveals about us and what has transformed it into one of the most powerful forms of entertainment on television today Reality programming a broad title for unscripted shows that involve non actors is really an updated version of a classic television genre that had its first successes decades before The Real World or Survivor made their premieres NBC launched Try and Do It a show in which audience members attempted to complete tasks such as whistling with a mouthful of crackers in 1949 In the 1950s Queen for a Day crowned the most down trodden of its four contestants at the end of each show draping her in a sable trimmed robe and granting a previously declared wish The wild success reality television has achieved of late has pushed the envelope of such programming ever further away from the genre s innocuous beginnings The time is now ripe for a look back on how this genre has developed what it reveals about us and what has transformed it into one of the most powerful forms of entertainment on television today Using interviews with network insiders reality producers and other experts Richard Huff supplies fascinating insights into the diverse content and often erratic development of reality television programming augmenting this information with illuminating general connections between the past and present forms these shows assume From Queen for a Day through Extreme Makeover from Cops to Fear Factor the genre is placed before us in this exhaustive and many sided account an account that uncovers the foundations and the future potential of the compelling and dominating phenomenon that is reality television Obstacle Race Training Bible James Villepigue, 2012-12-04 The first how to guide to help readers prepare for and conquer a new and growing form of distance racing popping up all over the country written by bestselling fitness author James Villepigue Obstacle Race Training Bible provides readers with one stop access to everything you need to know to prepare for and successfully complete a Tough Mudder Spartan Race Warrior Dash or any of the other international or regional obstacle races that are taking the world by storm All of these races combine running various distances and terrain with hard core obstacles that are both physically and mentally challenging climbing through pitch black flooded tubes and over walls carrying logs uphill traversing monkey bars crawling through mud and under barbed wire leaping over burning hay bales

Consolidates the latest broadest range of scholarship on the politics of reality television and its vexed relationship to culture society identity democracy and ordinary people in the media Includes primetime reality entertainment as well as precursors such as daytime talk shows in the scope of discussion Contributions from a list of international leading scholars in this field

How Real Is Reality TV? David S. Escoffery, 2014-12-03 American viewers are attracted to what they see as the non scripted unpredictable freshness of reality television But although the episodes may not be scripted the shows are constructed within a deliberately designed framework reflecting societal values The political economic and personal issues of reality TV are in many ways simply an exaggerated version of everyday life allowing us to identify perhaps more closely than we care to admit with the characters onscreen With 16 essays from scholars around the world this volume discusses the notion of representation in reality television It explores how both audiences and producers negotiate the gulf between representations and truth in reality shows such as Survivor The Apprentice Big Brother The Nanny American Idol Extreme Makeover Joe Millionaire and The Amazing Race Various identity categories and character types found in these shows are discussed and the accuracy of their television portrayal examined Dealing with the concept of reality audience reception gender roles minority portrayal and power issues the book provides an in depth look at what we see or think we see in reality TV Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Facing Reality Charles Murray, 2021-06-15 The charges of white privilege and systemic racism that are tearing the country apart float free of reality Two known facts long since documented beyond reasonable doubt need to be brought into the open and incorporated into the way we think about public policy American whites blacks Hispanics and Asians have different violent crime rates and different means and distributions of cognitive ability The allegations of racism in policing college admissions segregation in housing and hiring and promotions in the workplace ignore the ways in which the problems that prompt the allegations of systemic racism are driven by these two realities What good can come of bringing them into the open America s most precious ideal is what used to be known as the American Creed People are not to be judged by where they came from what social class they come from or by race color or creed They must be judged as individuals The prevailing Progressive ideology repudiates that ideal demanding instead that the state should judge people by their race social origins religion sex and sexual orientation We on the center left and center right who are the American Creed s natural defenders have painted ourselves into a corner We have been unwilling to say openly that different groups have significant group differences Since we have not been willing to say that we have been left defenseless against the claims that racism is to blame What else could it be We have been afraid to answer We must Facing Reality is a step in that direction

Understanding Race Rob DeSalle, Ian Tattersall, 2022-07-07 Addresses misunderstandings about race in a rational and comprehensive way emphasising that race is a purely social construct

Crazy Road Races Jennifer Mason, 2017-07-15 The popularity of motorsports hasn t waned since the advent of the automobile In fact some races began for the sole purpose of getting people interested in driving cars for the first time such as the Peking to Paris race of 1907 This wide ranging book full of dynamic photographs is an intriguing historical look at the world of racing but also offers valuable information about the competitions of today such as the Indy 500 Readers will love finding out about the famous figures of the racing circuit as well as learning about different kinds of races and racecars

Television, Aesthetics and Reality Anthony Barker, 2009-03-26 This new collection of essays seeks to focus on three areas where television has recently been in an intriguing state of flux Taking as our background the emergence of multimedia conglomerates and cash rich cable channels we look at the way old national terrestrial channels and the brash new internationally commercialized ones have innovated in the domain of television programming In all there are fourteen original essays an introduction to the book's theme by the editor and a foreword by Professor Annette Hill

Section one Realizing the Real looks at contemporary patterns of television consumption and the presentational styles which package the real in news current affairs and other live television formats Essays on rhetorical strategies in the news coverage of the war in Iraq on national and international inflections of Sky News in Europe and coverage of the recent EURO2004 football tournament as well the multi channel reporting of a prominent paedophilia scandal are presented in this section They all analyse the extent to which the grounded and the local are threatened and distorted by hegemonic forces in media today The findings of a comprehensive new study of Portuguese social practices and viewing habits are also featured in this section

Section Two Realizing Performance addresses the way new trends in reality programming and other documentary practices have impacted on fiction and entertainment television There are essays on the recent wave of British television comedy heavily influenced by TV newsmagazine and fly on the wall documentary styles and two pieces on new American series 24 and CSI which have revolutionized the narrative parameters and evidential base for thrillers and cop shows respectively coming up with new ways to perform space time and science Finally there is an essay on Nigel Kneale's The Year of the Sex Olympics 1968 a survivor from the era of the single play who seems to anticipate the future of television in reality based gameshow style entertainment Each of these essays shows that the success of these programmes is dependent on a fresh restylization of the conventions and formulas which govern mainstream television programming They therefore see the representation of the real in fiction as primarily an aesthetic reappraisal

Section Three Performing the Real looks at the explosion in reality television programming itself It focuses on the coming to pass of 70s and 80s theorists' visions of both a passive voyeuristic society and one increasingly at peace with the notion of surveillance We have been progressively acculturated to watching and being watched Orwellian anxiety has given way to Baudrillardian acceptance of the message and the medium fused in a new order of mediated reality or hyperreality Essays refer specifically to the globalization of shows and formats and their local inflections and to coverage of reality shows in print media and on the net There are essays on The Bachelor and gender stereotyping Joe Millionaire and the conventions of melodrama and two on Big Brother one on the problems of communication within a sealed environment and another on its reception in Portugal Concerns about the self and its authenticity are consistency raised in all the essays of this section
